GERMAN TROOPS STORM INTO FRENCH MAGINOT LINE

Majority Of Jones In Legislature Up For Strength Test

Session Goes Into Declining Weeks; Finance Tilt Near

COMMITTEES ARE BUSY LONG PAST THE DEADLINE

Job Of Raising $8,000,000 Lost Revenue Must Be Faced

BATON ROUGE, La., June 15.—(AP)—Governor Sam H. Jones' legislative majority, which demonstrated yesterday it has the power to advance even the most controversial work of his reform program, faced a test of strength on the financial front as the session went into its declining weeks.

Victory in the house on the civil service measures, which passed that chamber virtually as the administration planned them, visibly heartened administration supporters, despite the fact committees were busy with their spadework long after the deadline the governor set a week ago, and no important administration measure yet has passed both houses.

The job of raising $8,000,000 in revenue to replace losses from sales tax repeal and cheapened automobile licenses still lay ahead. So did the forging of a budget in line with the administration's "back to earth" economics.

The house ways and means committee already has made concessions on the administration's original tax plan, but thumbnail calculations showed the yield still should be up to the estimates originally made public.

The committee has not yet spoken on the natural gas processing tax which the governor named as the most important part of his program. He announced it as a 2 1-2 cent levy on each thousand cubic feet, but well-informed sources insisted a compromise will be made, and may result in as low as 1-2 cent.

Even this, on the basis of last year's production, would net about $1,750,000. Liquor taxes, though cut below the administration's first figures, are expected to produce $2,000,000 more. A revamping of severance taxes on oil has been put down for a $1,100,000 increase and the income tax measures, with the modifications expected to be made, for another $2,500,000. A new severance tax on pulpwood and dis-

FIND LUMBERMAN IN DENSE SWAMP

Missing Ferriday Businessman Was Sought Since Friday

FERRIDAY, June 15.—(Special)—A searching party early this morning found J. M. Jones, prominent Natchez, Miss., and Ferriday lumberman after he had been lost 16 hours in dense swampland of lower Concordia parish near Deer Park, 25 miles south of Vidalia.

Jones had been missing since early Friday morning. He was found by two negroes aiding a party headed by Sheriff Hyde Jenkins of Natchez.

Jones and an employe, Curtis Adams, had gone into the swamp about 9 a.m. Friday to look at some timber and had separated after agreeing to meet at noon.

When Jones failed to return at the agreed time, Adams became alarmed and organized a searching party. Heavy rainfall hampered the search and, when found, Jones was drenched, but was reported to be in good condition, suffering only slightly from exposure and exhaustion.

The lumberman said he knew the woods thoroughly but that he had lost his glasses and was unable to read his compass. Apparently he did not travel far in his attempt to find his way back to the automobile because he came out of the woods only five miles from where he was parked.

TRAIN BOUND HERE RUNS INTO WASHOUT

An eastbound Illinois Central passenger train, which passes through Monroe en route to Vicksburg, Jackson, Meridian, Birmingham and other points, ran into a section of 50-foot washed-out track last night two miles west of Arcadia, derailing the combination baggage and express car and two passenger coaches.

No one was injured, officials reported here.

A four-inch rain was blamed for the wash-out. Traffic was suspended for approximately nine hours while a wrecking crew from here repaired damage, officials announced. The train was in charge of Engineer Sam Graham and Conductor R. L. Clement.

BIG DEFENSE BILL IS GIVEN APPROVAL BY SENATE GROUP

Carries Requirement Roosevelt Cut Appropriations 10 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—A $1,007,000,000 defense tax bill carrying a requirement that President Roosevelt cut 10 per cent from all non-essential appropriations was approved today by the senate finance committee.

The bill would create 2,190,000 new income taxpayers by lowering existing exemptions from $2,500 to $2,000 for married persons and from $1,000 to $800 for single individuals. It also would increase corporation and so-called "nuisance" taxes (levies on gasoline, theater tickets, automobile tires, etc.), would raise all personal income levies by a flat 10 per cent, and would increase the federal debt limit from $45,000,000,000 to $49,000,000,000.

In an unexpected move, the committee also wrote into the bill legislation by Senator Townsend, Republican, Delaware, to end treasury purchases of foreign silver.

The 10 per cent spending reduction, approved 16 to 4, was among several important changes affected by the finance committee in the house-approved legislation. The committee knocked out a house provision increasing tobacco taxes and substituted a new, higher schedule of amusement levies. As finally drafted, the committee bill would provide $3,000,000 more than the house measure.

The tobacco levies, including an increase from 6 to 7 cents a package on cigarettes, were estimated to yield $76,000,000 a year. The new amusement tax schedule, designed to raise approximately the same amount, would impose a 10 per cent tav on all admissions costing 10 cents or more. The house had voted to start the tax at 30 cents, instead of at 40 cents as provided in existing lew.

The senate committee also approved an increase from 30 to 40 cents in the tax on rectified whisky.

The flat 10 per cent increase on income taxes had been tagged "supertax" by the house, but, because Senator Brown, Democrat, Michigan, said that "doesn't sound good to the taxpayer," the committee amended the bill to designate it a "defense tax."

Chairman Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, arranged to start debate on the tax measure Monday, and leaders hoped for passage by midweek. Democratic Leader Barkley said he still was hopeful that congress could adjourn by next week-end.

Senators Bone, Democrat, Washington, Connally, Democrat, Texas, and La Follette, Progressive, Wisconsin, all prepared amendments to impose a stiff schedule to war profits taxes, but leaders were expected to oppose them on the ground that the legislation is an emergency measure and that any general tax revision should come later.

Senator Byrd, Democrat, Virginia, said he would offer on the senate floor an amendment to make the 10 per cent increase in income taxes applicable to 1939 income. Byrd said the

RUSSIAN TROOPS INVADE LITHUANIA WITHOUT TROUBLE

Gain 'Free Passage' By Ultimatum; Cover Important Centers

MOSCOW WILL DECIDE ON SUFFICIENT NUMBER

Soviet Is Left With Free Hand To Put Army Near Germany

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, June 15.—Soviet Russia gained by ultimatum today "free passage" into Lithuania—the little country bordering Germany and east Prussia—of an unlimited number of troops of the Red army.

So far as was disclosed officially this force was ordered stationed in the most important centers only in "sufficient" strength to provide for the "implementing" of the Soviet-Lithuanian mutual assistance agreement.

(Russia thus was left with a free hand to put a wall of troops as big as she pleased very close to the far eastern Nazi frontiers.

(Berlin dispatches reported that upon acceptance of the ultimatum, men of the Red army began marching into Lithuania this afternoon, meeting no resistance.

(These dispatches announced the crossing into Lithuania at 3 p.m. of "one Soviet Russian army" at Eisischkis, Druskenkai, Dursekeninkeliai and Dusktas. Russian troops, it was added, were occupying the cities of Vilna, Kaunas, Schaahlen, Jonjwjesch and Raseyny. Other places to be occupied, said DNB, the official German news agency, would be decided in a meeting between Soviet General Pawlow and the Lithuanian commanding general.

(A Russian force of 200 tanks was said to have passed Kaunas, the capital, while the main force of an armored division arrived in the city it-

WASHINGTON OFF FROM WAR ZONE

Liner Begins Trip To United States With 1,000 Refugees Aboard

By J. Norman Lodge

GALWAY, Ireland, June 15.—(AP)—The United States liner Washington sailed for New York today with more than 1,000 Americans fleeing from the European war zone.

A thick, pea-soup fog hung over this port as the vessel—last American ship assigned to the rescue of stranded United States citizens—raised her anchors at 4:44 a.m. (10:44 p.m. Friday eastern standard time) and pointed her bow toward the stormy sea.

Most of those aboard the liner were women and children, many of the latter under 10 years of age. Old salts who saw the ship sail said they never before had seen so many children aboard one vessel.

To meet the unusual situation, United States lines officials loaded into the Washington's refrigerators 1,500 gallons of milk, hurriedly obtained from all parts of Ireland.

The Washington arrived here Wednesday after stops at Bordeaux, France, and Lisbon, Portugal, where she picked up several hundred American refugees.

About 500 passengers boarded the ship here yesterday afternoon and approximately 200 last night. Among those aboard was Alexander Vincent Dye, commercial attache of the American embassy in London, who is retiring.

The ship carried a crew of 572.

En route here from Lisbon the Washington was halted by a German submarine, which ordered those aboard to abandon ship and then, after an exchange of signals, during which the liner explained it was an American vessel, allowed it to proceed.

Carl McHenry Of Monroe Among Members; Williams Is Leader

BATON ROUGE, La., June 15.—(AP)—Governor Sam H. Jones today named a state defense council for Louisiana to cooperate with a national defense council and the national administration in the nation's defense problems.

Governor Jones appointed H. Kemper Williams, New Orleans, as chairman of the state group and designated Williams, twice national president of the Reserve Officers association, as a member of a subcommittee "to pass on projects relating to national defense."

Designated to serve with Williams on the subcommittee were Crawford H. Ellis, New Orleans, an officer in the naval reserve, and Elmer E. Shutts, Lake Charles.

Jones said Williams would represent military affairs on the subcommittee, Ellis naval affairs and Shutts would furnish technical and engineering advice.

Adjutant General Raymond H. Fleming will serve as ex-officio member and secretary to the state defense council, whose other members, besides Williams, Ellis and Shutts, were announced as A. B. Paterson, New Orleans; Wallace Kemper, Franklin; E. A. Frost, Shreveport; Carl B. McHenry, Monroe; M. J. Rathbone, Baton Rouge, and W. F. Cotton, Alexandria.

Governor Jones set the first meeting of the entire state council next Wednesday.

GERMAN EMBLEMS FLOAT IN PARIS, LOCHNER WRITES

First-Hand Account Of French Capital Under Germans Is Told

A. P. CORRESPONDENT TELLS OF OCCUPATION

Only Vanguard Of Nazis In City, Chief Of Bureau Declares

(Louis P. Lochner, chief of the Berlin bureau of the Associated Press, herewith presents his first word-picture of Paris under German occupation. Lochner was conducted by the German army on its route into the French capital after previous tours through Nazi-conquered Holland, Belgium and northern France. His last dispatch, filed June 13 and delayed a day in transit, bore the dateline, "with the German army en route to Paris.")

By Louis P. Lochner

PLACE DE L'OPERA, PARIS, by courier plane to Berlin, June 15.—(AP)—The swastika banners of Nazi Germany floated over Paris today from atop practically every prominent and historic structure in this German-captured French capital.

I find myself in Paris as the guest of the German army, before the main forces of that army have arrived.

Only a vanguard is here. The main army is expected before this cable gets under way.

We arrived last night in this city that seems dead. I just do not recognize Paris again. Seventy per cent of its population has fled.

From the Hotel Crillon, where once President Wilson of the United States addressed French crowds, the swastika is flying.

The banner also is flying from atop the Quai D'Orsay, (The French foreign office); from the Arc de Triomphe, under which lies buried France's unknown soldier of the World war; from the historic city hall; and the Eiffel tower.

It all seems unreal, like an Arabian Nights tale come to life.

This dispatch is being sent from here at 9 a.m. (2 a.m., central standard time).

On first entering Paris last night, we drove to the tomb of the unknown soldier in the twilight.

As a background to the Arc de Triomphe, the sky was disfigured by an enormous ugly cloud of smoke eman-

FINNS PAY OFF THEIR WAR DEBT

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Finland laid her annual war debt payment on the line at the treasury today, keeping her record of remittances unbroken despite action by congress yesterday to relieve her of the obligation for a 10-year period.

Hjalmar J. Procope, minister of the small nation which lost heavily in resources during its war with Russia, handed a check for the $159,398 installment to Herbert E. Gaston, assistant treasury secretary.

Procope called attention to the swift action yesterday by both house and senate in approving a resolution which would permit Finland to postpone the payment. He noted with "deep gratitude," he said, "the new sign of friendship and understanding for my country."

"However, as things stand at present and under existing conditions," he added. "I have to hand you this check."

President Roosevelt signed the bill today.

The Finnish minister said when he handed the check over that it was dated June 12, three days prior to the action by congress. He added, however, that "in due course, I shall inform my government of the resolution." This left the way open for future acceptance of the moratorium offer by the Finns, should they wish to delay payments.

MAN, 70, HAS FALL, RESCUED BY POLICE

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Seeking a cool spot, Henry Wagner, 70-year-old handyman at Community Recreation Center, stretched out for a nap last night on the two-foot-wide parapet atop the six-story Center building.

He rolled off, landed on a narrow coping 70 feet above the street and, after a night of lying very still, was hauled to safety by a police rescue squad unhurt.

'Pelican Boys State' Hears Gov. Jones

BATON ROUGE, La., June 15.—(AP)—Governor Sam H. Jones told 250 Louisiana youths gathered on the Louisiana State university campus tonight for the opening of the first "Pelican Boys State" that Europe's war is making this nation more conscious of its duties toward citizenship.

"When we fail to take citizenship seriously, when we fail to learn what it is all about, then democracy dies," Jones told the boys. "That is the history of democracy.

"I think that in view of what is happening in Europe today, from this point on there is going to be a change and we are going to be trained more thoroughly in citizenship both inside our schools and outside in the walks of life."

The 250 boys, selected from communities from various sections of the state for leadership and scholarship and ranging in ages from 15 to 19, will study government and citizenship here all during next week.

Their program sponsored by the American Legion, includes campaigning and electioneering for offices in mythical municipal, parochial and state governments, including a legislature which will take seats in the state's legislative halls at the capitol.

Speakers tonight quite frankly asserted the courses were to train the youths to become governmental leaders of the future, trained in procedure and responsibilities.

Besides the governor, speakers included Homer Chailloux, chairman of the American Legion's national Americanism committee; Chester P. Derveloy, state legion commander; E. L. Gladney, former state commander, and Dr. Paul M. Hebert, acting president of the university. Colonel Troy H. Middleton, acting vice-president and comptroller at L. S. U., presided at the opening session which followed a banquet.

Scorn Talk Of Peace As Army Hits Further Into Enemy Territory

Nazi Power To Crush Opponents Will Go On, Say Reports

NEW SITUATION COMES UP OVER MOVE OF RUSSIANS

(By Associated Press)

German armies drove further into French territory and stormed into the Maginot line yesterday, scorning talk of peace as weary French troops fell back.

A German spokesman in Berlin said reports were current in other European capitals that German terms for a separate peace either had been asked or accepted by the French government, but declared that the Nazi drive to crush the military power of its opponents would go on with no relenting.

Berlin insisted it had no direct interest in the westward thrust of Soviet military power.

The Lithuanian president, Antanas Smetona, and members of his government were said to have taken flight before the Red army and had sought asylum in Germany.

Swastikas flew from many a flagstaff, the German armies were in complete command in captive Paris. Louis P. Lochner, Associated Press bureau chief in Berlin, accompanied the Germans into the French capital and reported it had the appearance of a dead city, but was not damaged.

On the east of France German armies stormed into the Maginot line which France had built to withstand any attacking force.

ROOSEVELT POWER ASKED BY PEPPER

Seeks Authority For President To Turn Industry To Defense

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Congress was asked today to empower President Roosevelt to turn the nation's entire automotive industry into a gigantic aircraft factory at once to produce 50,000 warplanes for the hard-pressed allies.

The resolution, drafted by Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida, drew fire, however, even before its formal introduction, particularly from Senator Holt, Democrat, West Virginia, who scored it as "dictatorial."

Pepper's proposal reflected the grave concern manifest in many congressional quarters over the desperate plight of the allies. Talk turned to the fate of the French fleet in the event France was forced to capitulate.

Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, said he believed Germany might demand the French fleet as one of the terms of surrender. Navy experts, weighing the same possibility, said this would give the Rome-Berlin axis a combined fleet superior in several categories both to that of Great Britain and that of the United States.

HUGE RELIEF BILL GETS SENATE OKAY

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—A relief bill, loaded with provisions for national defense and a varied assortment of other matters, slid through the senate today on a voice vote after five days debate.

The measure was returned to the house for consideration of numerous senate changes and additions that boosted its total to $1,224,791,357 in appropriations. The house had approved a $1,111,000,000 measure.

President Roosevelt's request for a $50,000,000 war refugee fund to be spent in this country for agricultural or medical supplies and distributed to European refugees by the Red Cross or any other agency designated by the president was approved.

'Sacrificed For Democracy'

These grim-faced soldiers of France, photographed recently by Paramount News in defensive positions, are typical of the French army which Premier Paul Reynaud declared has "sacrificed itself" as the vanguard of the armies of the democracies. Reynaud's declaration was made in his appeal to the United States and the "great American people" to "declare themselves against Nazi Germany" and help save France. A few hours after he spoke, the French high command announced France's army had withdrawn from Paris and the Germans poured into the city.

DEFENSE PROGRAM IS PRESSED AHEAD

Navy Announces Award Of $5,489,308 Order For Plane Engines

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—The defense program of the United States was pressed ahead today.

The navy announced award of a $5,489,308 order for airplane engines to the Fairchild Engine and Airplane corporation.

The federal power commission announced that on instructions from President Roosevelt, it would survey power needs and work out plans to protect the power supply against hostile acts.

The senate approved and sent to the White House a bill intended to expedite warship building. It provides for consolidation of the navy's bureau of engineering and its bureau of construction in an effort to cut red tape.

The senate finance committee approved a $1,007,000,000 tax defense bill.

The senate itself worked late to complete action on a measure giving the Reconstruction Finance corporation broad powers to finance production of war materials. The house approved the bill yesterday.

At the RFC, it was indicated that the first action under the measure probably would be large purchases of reserve stocks of strategic war materials, such as rubber, tin and manganese.

While the mechanics of the program have not been worked out, it was said that one corporation might be established to carry out the purchasing

MOSCOW, June 15.—Soviet Russia gained by ultimatum today "free passage" into Lithuania—the little country bordering Germany and east Prussia—of an unlimited number of troops of the Red army.

So far as was disclosed officially this force was ordered stationed in the most important centers only in "sufficient" strength to provide for the "implementing" of the Soviet-Lithuanian mutual assistance agreement.

(Russia thus was left with a free hand to put a wall of troops as big as she pleased very close to the far eastern Nazi frontiers.

(Berlin dispatches reported that upon acceptance of the ultimatum, men of the Red army began marching into Lithuania this afternoon, meeting no resistance.

(These dispatches announced the crossing into Lithuania at 3 p.m. of "one Soviet Russian army" at Eisischkis, Druskenkai, Durseekeninkeliai and Dusktas. Russian troops, it was added, were occupying the cities of Vilna, Kaunas, Schaahlen, Jonjwjesch and Raseyny. Other places to be occupied, said DNB, the official German news agency, would be decided in a meeting between Soviet General Pawlow and the Lithuanian commanding general.

(A Russian force of 200 tanks was said to have passed Kaunas, the capital, while the main force of an armored division arrived in the city it-

WASHINGTON OFF FROM WAR ZONE

Liner Begins Trip To United States With 1,000 Refugees Aboard

By J. Norman Lodge

GALWAY, Ireland, June 15.—(AP)—The United States liner Washington sailed for New York today with more than 1,000 Americans fleeing from the European war zone.

A thick, pea-soup fog hung over this port as the vessel—last American ship assigned to the rescue of stranded United States citizens—raised her anchors at 4:44 a.m. (10:44 p.m. Friday eastern standard time) and pointed her bow toward the stormy sea.

Most of those aboard the liner were women and children, many of the latter under 10 years of age. Old salts who saw the ship sail said they never before had seen so many children aboard one vessel.

To meet the unusual situation, United States lines officials loaded into the Washington's refrigerators 1,500 gallons of milk, hurriedly obtained from all parts of Ireland.

The Washington arrived here Wednesday after stops at Bordeaux, France, and Lisbon, Portugal, where she picked up several hundred American refugees.

About 500 passengers boarded the ship here yesterday afternoon and approximately 200 last night. Among those aboard was Alexander Vincent Dye, commercial attache of the American embassy in London, who is retiring.

The ship carried a crew of 572.

En route here from Lisbon the Washington was halted by a German submarine, which ordered those aboard to abandon ship and then, after an exchange of signals, during which the liner explained it was an American vessel, allowed it to proceed.

On Council

Carl McHenry, widely known Monroe lawyer, has been named by Governor Sam Jones to serve on the Louisiana defense council.

DEFENSE COUNCIL IS APPOINTED BY GOVERNOR JONES

BATON ROUGE, La., June 15.—(AP)—Governor Sam H. Jones today named a state defense council for Louisiana to cooperate with a national defense council and the national administration in the nation's defense problems.

Governor Jones appointed H. Kemper Williams, New Orleans, as chairman of the state group and designated Williams, twice national president of the Reserve Officers association, as a member of a subcommittee "to pass on projects relating to national defense."

Designated to serve with Williams on the subcommittee were Crawford H. Ellis, New Orleans, an officer in the naval reserve, and Elmer E. Shutts, Lake Charles.

Jones said Williams would represent military affairs on the subcommittee, Ellis naval affairs and Shutts would furnish technical and engineering advice.

Adjutant General Raymond H. Fleming will serve as ex-officio member and secretary to the state defense council, whose other members, besides Williams, Ellis and Shutts, were announced as A. B. Paterson, New Orleans; Wallace Kemper, Franklin; E. A. Frost, Shreveport; Carl B. McHenry, Monroe; M. J. Rathbone, Baton Rouge, and W. F. Cotton, Alexandria.

Governor Jones set the first meeting of the entire state council next Wednesday.

RESIDENT OF HODGE IS FOUND MURDERED

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 15.—(AP)—The body of a man identified tentatively as J. T. Maxey, Hodge, La., was found tonight on a street in the warehouse section of the city.

Police said there was a gash in his head and that one leg was broken above the knee. He was about 35. Papers in his clothing bore the name of Maxey.

Inspector Ed Burgess of the homicide squad said cause of the man's death was not determined.

'Pelican Boys State' Hears Gov. Jones

BATON ROUGE, La., June 15.—(AP)—Governor Sam H. Jones told 250 Louisiana youths gathered on the Louisiana State university campus tonight for the opening of the first "Pelican Boys State" that Europe's war is making this nation more conscious of its duties toward citizenship.

"When we fail to take citizenship seriously, when we fail to learn what it is all about, then democracy dies," Jones told the boys. "That is the history of democracy.

"I think that in view of what is happening in Europe today, from this point on there is going to be a change and we are going to be trained more thoroughly in citizenship both inside our schools and outside in the walks of life."

The 250 boys, selected from communities from various sections of the state for leadership and scholarship and ranging in ages from 15 to 19, will study government and citizenship here all during next week.

Their program sponsored by the American Legion, includes campaigning and electioneering for offices in mythical municipal, parochial and state governments, including a legislature which will take seats in the state's legislative halls at the capitol.

Speakers tonight quite frankly asserted the courses were to train the youths to become governmental leaders of the future, trained in procedure and responsibilities.

GERMAN EMBLEMS FLOAT IN PARIS, LOCHNER WRITES

First-Hand Account Of French Capital Under Germans Is Told

A. P. CORRESPONDENT TELLS OF OCCUPATION

(Louis P. Lochner, chief of the Berlin bureau of the Associated Press, herewith presents his first word-picture of Paris under German occupation. Lochner was conducted by the German army on its route into the French capital after previous tours through Nazi-conquered Holland, Belgium and northern France. His last dispatch, filed June 13 and delayed a day in transit, bore the dateline, "with the German army en route to Paris.")

By Louis P. Lochner

PLACE DE L'OPERA, PARIS, by courier plane to Berlin, June 15.—(AP)—The swastika banners of Nazi Germany floated over Paris today from atop practically every prominent and historic structure in this German-captured French capital.

I find myself in Paris as the guest of the German army, before the main forces of that army have arrived.

Only a vanguard is here. The main army is expected before this cable gets under way.

We arrived last night in this city that seems dead. I just do not recognize Paris again. Seventy per cent of its population has fled.

From the Hotel Crillon, where once President Wilson of the United States addressed French crowds, the swastika is flying.

The banner also is flying from atop the Quai D'Orsay, (The French foreign office); from the Arc de Triomphe, under which lies buried France's unknown soldier of the World war; from the historic city hall; and the Eiffel tower.

It all seems unreal, like an Arabian Nights tale come to life.

This dispatch is being sent from here at 9 a.m. (2 a.m., central standard time).

On first entering Paris last night, we drove to the tomb of the unknown soldier in the twilight.

As a background to the Arc de Triomphe, the sky was disfigured by an enormous ugly cloud of smoke eman-

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Finland laid her annual war debt payment on the line at the treasury today, keeping her record of remittances unbroken despite action by congress yesterday to relieve her of the obligation for a 10-year period.

Hjalmar J. Procope, minister of the small nation which lost heavily in resources during its war with Russia, handed a check for the $159,398 installment to Herbert E. Gaston, assistant treasury secretary.

Procope called attention to the swift action yesterday by both house and senate in approving a resolution which would permit Finland to postpone the payment. He noted with "deep gratitude," he said, "the new sign of friendship and understanding for my country."

"However, as things stand at present and under existing conditions," he added, "I have to hand you this check."

President Roosevelt signed the bill today.

The Finnish minister said when he handed the check over that it was dated June 12, three days prior to the action by congress. He added, however, that "in due course, I shall inform my government of the resolution." This left the way open for future acceptance of the moratorium offer by the Finns, should they wish to delay payments.

MAN, 70, HAS FALL, RESCUED BY POLICE

He rolled off, landed on a narrow coping 70 feet above the street and, after a night of lying very still, was hauled to safety by a police rescue squad unhurt.

Scorn Talk Of Peace As Army Hits Further Into Enemy Territory

'Sacrificed For Democracy'

These grim-faced soldiers of France, photographed recently by Paramount News in defensive positions, are typical of the French army which Premier Paul Reynaud declared has "sacrificed itself" as the vanguard of the armies of the democracies. Reynaud's declaration was made in his appeal to the United States and the "great American people" to "declare themselves against Nazi Germany" and help save France. A few hours after he spoke, the French high command announced France's army had withdrawn from Paris and the Germans poured into the city.

Nazi Power To Crush Opponents Will Go On, Say Reports

NEW SITUATION COMES UP OVER MOVE OF RUSSIANS

(By Associated Press)

German armies drove further into French territory and stormed into the Maginot line yesterday, scorning talk of peace as weary French troops fell back.

A German spokesman in Berlin said reports were current in other European capitals that German terms for a separate peace either had been asked or accepted by the French government, but declared that the Nazi drive to crush the military power of its opponents would go on with no relenting.

Berlin insisted it had no direct interest in the westward thrust of Soviet military power.

The Lithuanian president, Antanas Smetona, and members of his government were said to have taken flight before the Red army and had sought asylum in Germany.

Swastikas flew from many a flagstaff, the German armies were in complete command in captive Paris. Louis P. Lochner, Associated Press bureau chief in Berlin, accompanied the Germans into the French capital and reported it had the appearance of a dead city, but was not damaged.

On the east of France German armies stormed into the Maginot line which France had built to withstand any attacking force.

DEFENSE PROGRAM IS PRESSED AHEAD

Navy Announces Award Of $5,489,308 Order For Plane Engines

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—The defense program of the United States was pressed ahead today.

The navy announced award of a $5,489,308 order for airplane engines to the Fairchild Engine and Airplane corporation.

The federal power commission announced that on instructions from President Roosevelt, it would survey power needs and work out plans to protect the power supply against hostile acts.

The senate approved and sent to the White House a bill intended to expedite warship building. It provides for consolidation of the navy's bureau of engineering and its bureau of construction in an effort to cut red tape.

The senate finance committee approved a $1,007,000,000 tax defense bill.

The senate itself worked late to complete action on a measure giving the Reconstruction Finance corporation broad powers to finance production of war materials. The house approved the bill yesterday.

At the RFC, it was indicated that the first action under the measure probably would be large purchases of reserve stocks of strategic war materials, such as rubber, tin and manganese.

While the mechanics of the program have not been worked out, it was said that one corporation might be established to carry out the purchasing

Seeks Authority For President To Turn Industry To Defense

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Congress was asked today to empower President Roosevelt to turn the nation's entire automotive industry into a gigantic aircraft factory at once to produce 50,000 warplanes for the hard-pressed allies.

The resolution, drafted by Senator Pepper, Democrat, Florida, drew fire, however, even before its formal introduction, particularly from Senator Holt, Democrat, West Virginia, who scored it as "dictatorial."

Pepper's proposal reflected the grave concern manifest in many congressional quarters over the desperate plight of the allies. Talk turned to the fate of the French fleet in the event France was forced to capitulate.

Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, said he believed Germany might demand the French fleet as one of the terms of surrender. Navy experts, weighing the same possibility, said this would give the Rome-Berlin axis a combined fleet superior in several categories both to that of Great Britain and that of the United States.

HUGE RELIEF BILL GETS SENATE OKAY

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—A relief bill, loaded with provisions for national defense and a varied assortment of other matters, slid through the senate today on a voice vote after five days debate.

The measure was returned to the house for consideration of numerous senate changes and additions that boosted its total to $1,224,791,357 in appropriations. The house had approved a $1,111,000,000 measure.

President Roosevelt's request for a $50,000,000 war refugee fund to be spent in this country for agricultural or medical supplies and distributed to European refugees by the Red Cross or any other agency designated by the president was approved.

RADIOMEN READY CITY ENCAMPMENT

Amateur Club In Ouachita To Give Exhibition Next Week-End

Participating in their annual "field day" expedition next Saturday and Sunday, the Ouachita Valley Amateur Radio club will join other radio amateurs throughout the entire nation in selecting a remotely situated spot for an encampment in order to subject their radio equipment to the many hazards which might be encountered in a real communications emergency.

The local radio amateurs will set up operating stations throughout Bernstein place, north of the junior college, for their part in the most popular of all amateur radio contests, which begins next Saturday afternoon and ends Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

"Field day" is sponsored by the American Radio Relay league and the "Hams" National association, and is designed to encourage the building of portable and self-powered communications equipment, independent of electric mains for possible use in time of disaster, and to train members to cope with the difficulties attendant to operating during the period of an emergency.

The league, in sponsoring the event, has urged all of its affiliated local radio clubs, of which the Ouachita Valley Amateur Radio club is one, to take an organized part in the contest since experience of amateurs in communication emergencies during the past 20 years has shown that a single station manned by a number of operators, each with his own task to perform, gives a much better account of itself than one operated by but one person trying to do all the jobs at once.

The Ouachita club will have a number of separate multi-stage transmitters and communications receivers with every refinement, powered by a gasoline engine generator mounted on a truck. Personnel of the club will split up the operating time in order to have the station "on the air" during the whole 30 hours of the contest.

President E. S. Wells announced that visitors will be welcome at all times during the contest, and since operating will be done both by radiotelephone and radiotelegraphy, there will be something interesting going on at every hour.

RUSSIAN TROOPS INVADE LITHUANIA

self. The people apparently were astonished.

It was on the basis of the mutual assistance pact—signed on October 10, 1939, after Russia's seizure of eastern Polish territory while Germany was occupying its western sections, that Moscow moved suddenly today.

Accusing the Lithuanians of kidnaping Soviet airmen, of the "murder" of a member of the Soviet army, of entering a Lithuanian - Latvian - Estonian military alliance hostile to Russia and of preparing an attack on a Soviet garrison in Lithuania, Russia demanded the right to send troops unmolested across the frontier.

She also demanded successfully that Lithuania replace its existing government with one "willing" to restrain "the enemies" of the pact, and that the Lithuanian minister of internal affairs and the director of political police be prosecuted "as those directly responsible for provocational actions against the Soviet garrison in Lithuania."

The Lithuanians were given a deadline of 10 o'clock this morning; at 9 o'clock, Moscow announced, they gave in.

In the agreement of October, 1939, the Red army was granted the right to establish garrisons at unspecified points in Lithuania for the announced purpose of protecting the country's frontiers. In return, the Soviet Union ceded to Lithuania Vilna (Wilno), the ancient capital of that once-powerful country, and a surrounding area.

deep to the rear of the Maginot forts.

The French army, staggering under these and other terrible blows, struggled on in anguished resolve with what remained of its strength.

Militarily, events seemed to have reached some final turning point. The British, declaring that the allies "consultation and agreement" still holds, hinted that today (Sunday) would tell the story of the fight for France.

(By Associated Press)

Politically and diplomatically, the portents of the sweep of German arms were felt around the world, and led President Roosevelt to assure the allies that the United States would redouble its effort to speed guns, planes, munitions—"with no implications of military commitment"—so long as allied resistance continued.

President Roosevelt's message went to Premier Reynaud of France, who had besecched the United States for aid, with "clouds of planes" before it is too late.

With Germany in possesson of vast reaches of the best parts of France, the presdent gave Reynaud assurance that the United States would not recognize conquests through military aggression, and would not consider valid the forceful infringement of French independence.

The first European reaction to the president's message came in London where British authorities bespoke the "sincere gratitude" of the British people.

Roosevelt's assurance that his promise had no military implications was described as being "fully understood and appreciated" in Britain.

The French front was the focal point of war's great and spreading kaleidoscope, stretching now from the Baltic—where Russia suddenly rushed a new army into Lithuania—to the Gulf of Aden, where British clashed with Italians.

France's fighting front was a wavering line, bending ever inward under the assaults of the Nazi storm of steel, explosives and men.

Through nearly disrupted communications came word from the French that the Germans were at Chaumont, 135 miles southeast of Paris. In the capital itself, a German guard stood at the grave of France's unknown soldier of the World war, and the swastika flag flapped in the wind atop Eiffel tower.

German troops blasted across the Rhine and into storied Alsace, but the French insisted the Maginot line was not pierced "at the point of resistance."

Falling back "in the best of order," the French fought pitched battles with the German forces in Champagne, but the Nazis crossed the Seine at Romilly, 65 miles southeast of Paris, and drove on between Troyes and St. Dizier, further east.

Nazi forces at Chaumont, between the Marne and the Suize, were advance guards.

It was apparent the French were holding back the offensive on the channel ports. Violent fighting raged west of Louviers, 50 miles southeast of German-held Le Havre.

The German high command, telling of more triumphs, claimed capture of famous, fortified Verdun, a feat the kaiser's army could not accomplish in four years of war, and said Nazis had gone through the Maginot line on "a broad front."

There is no chance now of a cessation of hostilities, declared a Nazi spokesman. "France and England wanted this war. Now they have it."

The Reynaud government was in session for three and one-half hours, "somewhere in France," presumably at or near Bordeaux, where the ministers considered their republic's grave position.

They are to meet again Sunday, apparently to consider President Roosevelt's reply to Reynaud's "final" appeal for help.

Italy felt the weight of naval war and declared her troops had driven across the Alpine frontier to occupy French territory.

Britain's fear of Nazi invasion led to the calling of a meeting of a parliament group to consider arming everybody, even women and boys "who can throw a ball" with "hand grenades, bombs, pistols—anything."

The British claimed capture of the Italian forts of Capruzz and Maddalena. Royal air force attacks on Libyan and Italian East African positions continued.

Switzerland posted flaring, black-lettered warnings against parachute invasion. An increase in Switzerland's defense preparations indicated that the Swiss intelligence service had turned up disquieting information.

CANCER 'COURSE' SCHEDULED HERE

Dr. Maurice Laing Will Lecture At Virginia Hotel Thursday

A "refresher course" on cancer, to be given during the last two weeks of June by Dr. Maurice V. Laing, member of the staff of the Bernard Free Skin and Cancer hospital in St. Louis, has been announced by Dr. John A. Lanford, chairman of the cancer committee of the Louisiana State Medical society, in a letter issued to physicians throughout the state.

The lectures, which are being arranged in collaboration by the bureau of parish health administration of the state board of health and the Louisiana State Medical society are scheduled to include talks to members of the medical profession and to the general public in six central communities, including Baton Rouge, Monroe, Shreveport, Alexandria, Lake Charles and Lafayette.

"State medical societies throughout the country have proved the benefit of bringing such courses to physicians in rural areas where circumstances do not permit attendance at graduate schools or conferences through which they might keep in touch with late developments in medical science and research," Dr. Lanford stated yesterday.

"Dr. Laing has recently completed similar lectures in Kansas. In his talks before the profession he will stress the following conditions; cancer of the skin, melanoma, cancer of the lip, and cancer of the breast. Talks delivered to the general public will be given under the auspices of the Louisiana Division of the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer and will be a feature of the educational program the division is planning to establish in its campaigns for cancer control in our state." This public meeting will be held Thursday afternoon, June 20, at 3 o'clock at the Virginia hotel.

STARVE ENGLAND, IS HITLER'S AIM

Grim Hint Is Taken From His Order Concerning Norway

By Kirke L. Simpson
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

In little more than two months from the April night when Germany lashed out to break the war stalemate with her Franco-British foes, continental Europe has been remapped by German arms.

Norway has been conquered, Denmark and Holland overrun, and France is tottering in momentary danger of complete collapse. England stands in a graver peril than that of invasion—the peril of starvation.

There is a grim hint in the Hitler order announcing to his armies complete subjugation of Norway, that it is starvation, not invasion, of England at which his next move will aim. It steps from his assertion that the British blockade of Germany has been broken by Nazi seizure of "strategically important plank positions facing the English coast."

That is a mild statement of the case. The west coast of continental Europe is in German hands from far above the Arctic circle to Le Havre, France. Tomorrow Germany may hold it from the northern tip of Norway to the Franco-Spanish frontier.

The grim central fact is that Germany under Hitler has mastered a continent. Only a strip of sea water, a score of miles wide at its narrowest, stands between England and invasion. It does not certainly protect her from starvation.

More than 80 per cent of the sustenance of the people of England reach them by sea. It is that fact which made Britain a power of world-girdling dominions and dependencies, that made her seek to find security in the wooden walls of her old ships, the steel and iron hulls of today. Creation of the British fleet and the vast merchant flotillas that have carried the red ensign to all the seas of the world grew out of England's inability to find at home the stuff to feed and clothe her population.

There is reason to believe that it was failure of the first Nazi effort to break the British blockade by air, mine and torpedo attack which stirred Hitler to order his armies forward in the west. With the whole northern continental coast in his hands, he has means to increase the scope of that attack ten fold, and widen it to all the seas about England.

Already British battle craft and merchant carriers are threading their own home waters in deadly and ever-increasing jeopardy. The end of the Battle of France will mean release of German air power for action against Britain's sea life-lines. From Norwegian, Danish, Dutch and Belgian ports can be loosed a fury of submarine attack to supplement Nazi air armadas.

That would seem a far less costly method of seeking destruction of England than an invasion which certainly would be met at sea and at the beach by furious resistance.

What has happened in Europe in the last 65 days has not its like in written history. What it may mean, not for Europe alone, but for all the world, is beyond calculation.

The whim of one man, Adolf Hitler, has become a dominant force in the world. He has given no clear inkling as to what new conquests he envisions, nor what disposition he may make of the peoples upon whom his armies have laid the yoke of his will.

There are still factors, however, that limit his field of action. One is Britain's fleet, stronger, not weaker, than when the war began. The final test of air power versus sea power still is to be recorded in the bloody laboratory of war.

There is also the fact that upon conquering Germany falls the burden chiefly of ordering the lives and providing economically for the millions on the continent of Europe over whom she has established her dominion. That continent remains still cut off from world sources of necessities of life, except eastward, while the British fleet holds the high seas.

The dispersion of German forces over the vast areas she has taken and now must guard argues against any new, dramatic German stroke outside continental boundaries. Nazi guns and bombs and blasting tank legions have plowed bitter furrows there, planted with seeds of hatred of Germany that some day could blossom to destroy her in turn.

program, or there might be several, one for each industry.

Congress members displayed interest in reports that shipping men had sounded out officials here on the question of amending the neutrality act to permit American ships to carry supplies to allied ports.

It was apparent that if the proposal reached congress there would be a bitter controversy over it. Senator Austin of Vermont, the assistant Republican leader, said he favored striking the entire "cash and carry" section from the law. But Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, said he and others would oppose any change in the neutrality act.

CRUDE DIVING HELMET EARNS BREAD FOR MAN

NEW HAVEN, Ill., June 15.—(AP)—Bert Cutting dons a bathing suit and a crude diving helmet and descends to the muddy bottom of the Wabash river.

Breathing air pumped down through a garden hose by an old washing machine motor in his anchored boat, he sloshes along, gathering mussels.

That has been Cutting's daily summer routine for three years. He's 45. He's been blind since he was 15. He sells his strange harvest to button factories. It provides a living for him and his mother, his wife and six children.

"I," he told a reporter, "am most fortunate."

ating from the region around St. Germain.

That suburb apparently was in flames from artillery fire.

It was about 9 p.m.—and the Arc was bathed in a mellow, reddish light.

Before the tomb of "Un Soldat Inconnu" were standing old women, young women, bearded old men and boys in their teens. Many of the older women were sobbing softly.

Never could one forget that deeply touching scene.

As we approached the tomb in company of our guides from the army their looks hardened for a moment. They appeared to relax somewhat, however, when the German officers removed their caps, stood still then saluted the symbol of the brave soldiery buried there.

To countless American tourists who know Paris it is probably as incomprehensible as it was to me that the old Paris was a ghost city when I entered.

We came by way of the Clichy gate. No Germans were visible anywhere along our drive through this section.

Such few citizens as stood around at corners or gathered about radio loudspeakers gazed at us in curiosity.

They apparently had not seen any German officers before.

It is an open question whether Adolf Hitler will duplicate his Warsaw performance, when in October, 1939, only two days after capitulation of the Polish capital, he reviewed a gigantic parade of his forces.

Perhaps he has decided to do as he did at Brussels last week. He came and left there practically incognito.

In one way or another, however, he is bound to come soon to Paris for the first visit of his life.

For not since 1871 has Germany experienced a triumph similar to that achieved with the occupation of the French capital. In 1871 at Versailles the German empire was founded and Wilhelm the First proclaimed emperor.

It is almost unthinkable that Hitler would not visit the city soon.

Under arrangements made by Professor Karl Boemer, chief of the foreign press department of the ministry of propaganda in Berlin—incidentally, a man who has traveled up and down the United States and Mexico and knows America well—we foreign newsmen reached the French capital on the same day the first German troops did.

Vanguards of the German army had reached the city on Friday at 7 a.m.

At their head was a former member of the Austrian cabinet, General Glaise-Horstenau, who generally is credited with having made the Nazis' entry into Vienna possible.

In fact, we correspondents arrived even ahead of the officer appointed commandant for the occupied capital.

That meant no regulations had yet been issued for the conduct of citizens, for the hour of their retirement in the evening, or for a division of powers between local authorities and the ocupation forces.

These regulations invariably appeared on public bulletin boards in such Polish, Danish, Dutch, Belgian and northern French cities as I have visited since the outbreak of the war.

The familiar cries of Parisian newspaper vendors, which in normal times simply belong to Parisian life as an essential component, are missing.

Along the Champs Elysees only one cafe was open—all else was deadly silent.

Other avenues radiating from the Place De La Concorde, which normally are crowded with people sipping their aperitifs, were dead.

At the busy Place De L'Opera I counted exactly 11 persons, two of them policemen.

Many of the city's most popular hotels were closed.

The Scribe hotel was requisitioned and we found clean rooms and beds there but almost no personnel to look after us.

The kitchen was closed so we had to stroll over to the Ritz. Here the restaurant manager tried to beg off serving our party of 30—officials of the high command, propaganda ministry, foreign office, nine foreign correspondents of whom three were Americans, and seven chauffeurs.

A preliminary tour of the main sights of beautiful Paris indicated that no damage has been done anywhere.

I visited the Louvre, Notre Dame cathedral, the Invalides, the Quai D'Orsay, the Place De La Concord, the museum, the chamber of deputies, Place Vendome, city hall and the Sarah Bernhardt theater—nowhere any damage.

From the American embassy the Stars and Stripes were displayed. Nearby the swastika waved on the flag staff on the Crillon hotel.

Object of much feminine curiosity were air force soldiers stationed before anti-aircraft guns at strategic points.

Paris was quite another city when the fountains at the Place De La Concord were not playing, when taxi drivers were not honking, when book stalls were not doing business as usual along the Seine, when all business life was at a standstill.

We approached Paris from the coast via Amiens, Saint Just, Clermont, Creil and Le Bourget, then detouring to Saint Denis.

LeBourget, the great Paris airport, was a shambles. It had been singled out especially for German bombers for destruction.

Creil, too, was badly shelled and little remained of this town.

We had to cross the Oise river near Oriel on a pontoon bridge hastily constructed by German army engineers, since the original bridge had been dynamited by the retreating French army.

Amiens afforded a strange spectacle in that the German bombers there had given one of their best exhibitions of marksmanship.

All around Amiens' priceless cathedral—the largest ecclesiastical edifice in France—everything had been blown to bits, including the bishop's residence.

The cathedral itself, however, was entirely untouched.

Block after block in the heart of the city was in ruins and clouds of smoke still hung over whole sections of the still-smouldering city, yet the cathedral, completed in 1288, escaped unscathed.

Throughout the 80-mile drive from Amiens to Paris, I had plenty of occasion to note evidences of the vigor with which the retreating French had fought.

When the Germans started from Amiens against the so-called Weygand line June 5, they ran up against a system comparable in many respects to Germany's own Siegfried line, which differs from the Maginot in that it is not linear and massed but is carried far to the rear on a stagger principle.

General Weygand's plan, which the Germans themselves admit was cleverly conceived, lacked time for realization. Hence, the Germans said, it did not constitute a real hindrance to their forward dash.

JONES' MAJORITY WILL FACE TESTS

tillate may yield still another $750,000, bringing the total at least to the administration's first estimate of $7,550,000.

The budget recommendations still are being drawn, but economies may take up some of the slack. The governor told a statewide radio audience last night he had effected an annual saving, principally in payrolls, of $4,000,000 in his first month in office.

On the other side of the books are increased expenditures in certain new lines developed by the reform program. They include an anticipated increase of $90,000 for the supervisor of public funds, $800,000 to be held for the militia and police in the event of national emergency, $500,000 for the new crime commission, $100,000 for the reorganization survey—an expenditure already approved by the house—and $20,000 for a comprehensive study of the school system. The total is $1,510,000.

The new regime's technique of open caucuses, at which such far-reaching novelties as reorganization, the fiscal code and civil service are explained by the experts who planned them and objections are answered in advance, apparently is working.

Although a group of independents and a scattering of adherents of the former Long machine in the house staged a floor fight against some aspects of the civil service bills, notably those guaranteeing Jones appointees tenure when the bills become law, the administration carried its point with only minor concessions. The opposition joined the majority when the vote recurred on the measure themselves.

The fiscal code and the reorganization bills, object already of a quiet attack on the ground they give the governor too much power, face the test next week.

Outside the administration program proper controversial legislation ranging from a state labor relations act based on the Wagner law to a measure requiring the conservation department to develop state oil lands instead of leasing them, still has to come to the floor.

As committees labor over the rectified reform measures, giving them clearance whenever possible, time becomes the principal opponent of any legislator with a pet measure.

But there are indications that the lawmakers themselves want to get the job done without a special session. The house, which bucked its leadership last week to take a few extra hours' holiday, yesterday agreed without demur to come back Sunday night, a whole day ahead of the senate and dig into the job.

GRADUATES HERE GET TWO GRANTS

Harvard Scholarships Awarded Jack Thatcher, Thomas Feazel

Two graduates of the 1940 class of Ouachita Parish High school have been awarded Harvard university scholarships, it was announced Saturday by George M. Snellings, Jr. They are Jack Thatcher, who was valedictorian of the 1940 class, and Thomas Feazel, salutatorian of the class. Both reside in West Monroe.

Young Thatcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Thatcher, was awarded a national scholarship, which carries with it a stipend of $1,000 for the first year and $1,200 each year thereafter. Feazel was awarded a freshman scholarship, with $500 in cash.

Only two other Louisiana students were awarded Harvard scholarships, Walter L. Howell, New Orleans, and William W. Wood, Haynesville, both receiving the freshman scholarships.

Both Ouachita winners have been close friends throughout their high school careers and they will be roommates at Harvard next fall.

Thatcher is the great-grandson of Captain George E. Thatcher and Colonel George D. Alexander, who conducted the Thatcher Military academy in Shreveport after the War Between the States. Most of the old families of that community sent their sons to the Thatcher academy. He also is the grandson of Professor George O. Thatcher, who held the chair of mathematics for many years at Louisiana Tech. His father is secretary-treasurer of the Louisiana School Board association.

Young Feazel, who resides with his parents at 1801 Cypress street, West Monroe, has a brother in Harvard. He is Charles Feazel, a senior next year, who also won a national scholarship after finishing at Ouachita Parish High school.

RADIOMEN READY CITY ENCAMPMENT

Amateur Club In Ouachita To Give Exhibition Next Week-End

Participating in their annual "field day" expedition next Saturday and Sunday, the Ouachita Valley Amateur Radio club will join other radio amateurs throughout the entire nation in selecting a remotely situated spot for an encampment in order to subject their radio equipment to the many hazards which might be encountered in a real communications emergency.

The local radio amateurs will set up operating stations throughout Bernstein place, north of the junior college, for their part in the most popular of all amateur radio contests, which begins next Saturday afternoon and ends Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

"Field day" is sponsored by the Amercian Radio Relay league and the "Hams" National association, and is designed to encourage the building of portable and self-powered communications equipment, independent of electric mains, for possible use in time of disaster, and to train members to cope with the difficulties attendant to operating during the period of an emergency.

The league, in sponsoring the event, has urged all of its affiliated local radio clubs, of which the Ouachita Valley Amateur Radio club is one, to take an organized part in the contest since experience of amateurs in communication emergencies during the past 20 years has shown that a single station manned by a number of operators, each with his own task to perform, gives a much better account of itself than one operated by but one person trying to do all the jobs at once.

The Ouachita club will have a number of separate multi-stage transmitters and communications receivers with every refinement, powered by a gasoline engine generator mounted on a truck. Personnel of the club will split up the operating time in order to have the station "on the air" during the whole 30 hours of the contest.

President E. S. Wells announced that visitors will be welcome at all times during the contest, and since operating will be done both by radiotelephone and radiotelegraphy, there will be something interesting going on at every hour.

RUSSIAN TROOPS INVADE LITHUANIA

self. The people apparently were astonished.

It was on the basis of the mutual assistance pact—signed on October 10, 1939, after Russia's seizure of eastern Polish territory while Germany was occupying its western sections, that Moscow moved suddenly today.

Accusing the Lithaunians of kidnaping Soviet airmen, of the "murder" of a member of the Soviet army, of entering a Lithuanian - Latvian - Estonian military alliance hostile to Russia and of preparing an attack on a Soviet garrison in Lithuania, Russia demanded the right to send troops unmolested across the frontier.

She also demanded successfully that Lithuania replace its existing government with one "willing" to restrain "the enemies" of the pact, and that the Lithuanian minister of internal affairs and the director of political police be prosecuted "as those directly responsible for provocational actions against the Soviet garrison in Lithuania."

The Lithuanians were given a deadline of 10 o'clock this morning; at 9 o'clock, Moscow announced, they gave in.

In the agreement of October, 1939, the Red army was granted the right to establish garrisons at unspecified points in Lithuania for the announced purpose of protecting the country's frontiers. In return, the Soviet Union ceded to Lithuania Vilna (Wilno), the ancient capital of that once-powerful country, and a surrounding area.

TROOPS STORMING MAGINOT DEFENSE

deep to the rear of the Maginot forts.

The French army, staggering under these and other terrible blows, struggled on in anguished resolve with what remained of its strength.

Militarily, events seemed to have reached some final turning point. The British, declaring that the allies "consultation and agreement" still holds, hinted that today (Sunday) would tell the story of the fight for France.

(By Associated Press)

Politically and diplomatically, the portents of the sweep of German arms were felt around the world, and led President Roosevelt to assure the allies that the United States would redouble its effort to speed guns, planes, munitions—"with no implications of military commitment"—so long as allied resistance continued.

President Roosevelt's message went to Premier Reynaud of France, who had beseeched the United States for aid, with "clouds of planes" before it is too late.

With Germany in possesson of vast reaches of the best parts of France, the presdent gave Reynaud assurance that the Unted States would not recognze conquests through mlitary aggression, and would not consider valid the forceful infringement of French independence.

The first European reaction to the president's message came in London where British authorities bespoke the "sincere gratitude" of the British people.

Roosevelt's assurance that his promise had no military implications was described as being "fully understood and appreciated" in Britain.

The French front was the focal point of war's great and spreading kaleidoscope, stretching now from the Baltic—where Russia suddenly rushed a new army into Lithuania—to the Gulf of Aden, where British clashed with Italians.

France's fighting front was a wavering line, bending ever inward under the assaults of the Nazi storm of steel, explosives and men.

Through nearly disrupted communications came word from the French that the Germans were at Chaumont, 135 miles southeast of Paris. In the capital itself, a German guard stood at the grave of France's unknown soldier of the World war, and the swastika flag flapped in the wind atop Eiffel tower.

German troops blasted across the Rhine and into storied Alsace, but the French insisted the Maginot line was not pierced "at the point of resistance."

Falling back "in the best of order," the French fought pitched battles with the German forces in Champagne, but the Nazis crossed the Seine at Romilly, 65 miles southeast of Paris, and drove on between Troyes and St. Dizier, further east.

Nazi forces at Chaumont, between the Marne and the Suize, were advance guards.

It was apparent the French were holding back the offensive on the channel ports. Violent fighting raged west of Louviers, 50 miles southeast of German-held Le Havre.

The German high command, telling of more triumphs, claimed capture of famous, fortified Verdun, a feat the kaiser's army could not accomplish in four years of war, and said Nazis had gone through the Maginot line on "a broad front."

There is no chance now of a cessation of hostilities, declared a Nazi spokesman. "France and England wanted this war. Now they have it."

The Reynaud government was in session for three and one-half hours, "somewhere in France," presumably at or near Bordeaux, where the ministers considered their republic's grave position.

They are to meet again Sunday, apparently to consider President Roosevelt's reply to Reynaud's "final" appeal for help.

Italy felt the weight of naval war and declared her troops had driven across the Alpine frontier to occupy French territory.

Britain's fear of Nazi invasion led to the calling of a meeting of a parliament group to consider arming everybody, even women and boys "who can throw a ball" with "hand grenades, bombs, pistols—anything."

The British claimed capture of the Italian forts of Capruzz and Maddalena. Royal air force attacks on Libyan and Italian East African positions continued.

Switzerland posted flaring, black-lettered warnings against parachute invasion. An increase in Switzerland's defense preparations indicated that the Swiss intelligence service had turned up disquieting information.

CANCER 'COURSE' SCHEDULED HERE

A "refresher course" on cancer, to be given during the last two weeks of June by Dr. Maurice V. Laing, member of the staff of the Bernard Free Skin and Cancer hospital in St. Louis, has been announced by Dr. John A. Lanford, chairman of the cancer committee of the Louisiana State Medical society, in a letter issued to physicians throughout the state.

The lectures, which are being arranged in collaboration by the bureau of parish health administration of the state board of health and the Louisiana State Medical society are scheduled to include talks to members of the medical profession and to the general public in six central communities, including Baton Rouge, Monroe, Shreveport, Alexandria, Lake Charles and Lafayette.

"State medical societies throughout the country have proved the benefit of bringing such courses to physicians in rural areas where circumstances do not permit attendance at graduate schools or conferences through which they might keep in touch with late developments in medical science and research," Dr. Lanford stated yesterday.

"Dr. Laing has recently completed similar lectures in Kansas. In his talks before the profession he will stress the following conditions; cancer of the skin, melanoma, cancer of the lip, and cancer of the breast. Talks delivered to the general public will be given under the auspices of the Louisiana Division of the Women's Field Army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer and will be a feature of the educational program the division is planning to establish in its campaigns for cancer control in our state." This public meeting will be held Thursday afternoon, June 20, at 3 o'clock at the Virginia hotel.

Most of the recommendations given final approval today were continued in the report of the social service commission, which had previously been submitted to the convention.

KILPATRICK BUYS PARTNERS' STOCK

Sale By Abernathy, Venable In Standard Office Supply Announced

A. K. Kilpatrick has purchased the "entire interests" of L. P. Abernathy and H. M. Venable in the Standard Office and Supply company, it was announced Saturday by the three partners in the business. The sale was effective yesterday.

The consideration was not announced but the transaction involed a "considerable sum," it was said.

Mr. Abernathy was treasurer of the company and Mr. Venable was secretary.

In the future, the business will be owned largely by Mr. Kilpatrick, it was announced. J. D. Petty will be treasurer, with a substantial interest in the company, Mr. Kilpatrick announced. Irvin Kilpatrick will be secretary and Clarence Du Bos will be vice-president and salesmanager.

"These new oifcers have been connected with the company for many years," Mr. Kilpatrick said, "and have earned this promotion because of their loyal service."

Mr. Kilpatrick will continue as president and general manager of the concern.

"The policies of the company will remain as they have always been," Mr. Kilpatrick said. "That is to render services to our clients throughout the state. The change in ownership will in no wise affect the policies of the company for the reason that neither Mr. Abernathy or Mr. Venable have been active in the firm for several years."

The sale was an amicable one, the three former partners declared, and both Mr. Abernathy and Mr. Venable urged the continued patronage of clients of the firm and the hope at the company would expand.

"Both Mr. Venable and I extend our best wishes for the success of the company in the future," Mr. Abernathy said. "We commend the organization to their many clients and know that under the direction of Mr. Kilpatrick, the firm will continue to serve their many friends throughout Louisiana."

STARVE ENGLAND, IS HITLER'S AIM

Grim Hint Is Taken From His Order Concerning Norway

By Kirke L. Simpson
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

In little more than two months from the April night when Germany lashed out to break the war stalemate with her Franco-British foes, continental Europe has been remapped by German arms.

Norway has been conquered, Denmark and Holland overrun, and France is tottering in momentary danger of complete collapse. England stands in a graver peril than that of invasion—the peril of starvation.

There is a grim hint in the Hitler order announcing to his armies complete subjugation of Norway, that it is starvation, not invasion, of England at which his next move will aim. It steps from his assertion that the British blockade of Germany has been broken by Nazi seizure of "strategically important plank positions facing the English coast."

That is a mild statement of the case. The west coast of continental Europe is in German hands from far above the Arctic circle to Le Havre, France. Tomorrow Germany may hold it from the northern tip of Norway to the Franco-Spanish frontier.

The grim central fact is that Germany under Hitler has mastered a continent. Only a strip of sea water, a score of miles wide at its narrowest, stands between England and invasion. It does not certainly protect her from starvation.

More than 80 per cent of the sustenance of the people of England reach them by sea. It is that fact which made Britain a power of world-girdling dominions and dependencies, that made her seek to find security in the wooden walls of her old ships, the steel and iron hulls of today. Creation of the British fleet and the vast merchant flotillas that have carried the red ensign to all the seas of the world grew out of England's inability to find at home the stuff to feed and clothe her population.

There is reason to believe that it was failure of the first Nazi effort to break the British blockade by air, mine and torpedo attack which stirred Hitler to order his armies forward in the west. With the whole northern continental coast in his hands, he has means to increase the scope of that attack ten fold, and widen it to all the seas about England.

Already British battle craft and merchant carriers are threading their own home waters in deadly and ever-increasing jeopardy. The end of the Battle of France will mean release of German air power for action against Britain's sea life-lines. From Norwegian, Danish, Dutch and Belgian ports can be loosed a fury of submarine attack to supplement Nazi air armadas.

That would seem a far less costly method of seeking destruction of England than an invasion which certainly would be met at sea and at the beach by furious resistance.

What has happened in Europe in the last 65 days has not its like in written history. What it may mean, not for Europe alone, but for all the world, is beyond calculation.

The whim of one man, Adolf Hitler, has become a dominant force in the world. He has given no clear inkling as to what new conquests he envisions, nor what disposition he may make of the peoples upon whom his armies have laid the yoke of his will.

There are still factors, however, that limit his field of action. One is Britain's fleet, stronger, not weaker, than when the war began. The final test of air power versus sea power still is to be recorded in the bloody laboratory of war.

There is also the fact that upon conquering Germany falls the burden chiefly of ordering the lives and providing economically for the millions on the continent of Europe over whom she has established her dominion. That continent remains still cut off from world sources of necessities of life, except eastward, while the British fleet holds the high seas.

The dispersion of German forces over the vast areas she has taken and now must guard argues against any new, dramatic German stroke outside continental boundaries. Nazi guns and bombs and blasting tank legions have plowed bitter furrows there, planted with seeds of hatred of Germany that some day could blossom to destroy her in turn.

program, or there might be several, one for each industry.

Congress members displayed interest in reports that shipping men had sounded out officials here on the question of amending the neutrality act to permit American ships to carry supplies to allied ports.

It was apparent that if the proposal reached congress there would be a bitter controversy over it. Senator Austin of Vermont, the assistant Republican leader, said he favored striking the entire "cash and carry" section from the law. But Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, said he and others would oppose any change in the neutrality act.

CRUDE DIVING HELMET EARNS BREAD FOR MAN

NEW HAVEN, Ill., June 15.—(AP)—Bert Cutting dons a bathing suit and a crude diving helmet and descends to the muddy bottom of the Wabash river.

Breathing air pumped down through a garden hose by an old washing machine motor in his anchored boat, he sloshes along, gathering mussels.

That has been Cutting's daily summer routine for three years. He's 45. He's been blind since he was 15. He sells his strange harvest to button factories. It provides a living for him and his mother, his wife and six children.

"I," he told a reporter, "am most fortunate."

ating from the region around St. Germain.

That suburb apparently was in flames from artillery fire.

It was about 9 p.m.—and the Arc was bathed in a mellow, reddish light.

Before the tomb of "Un Soldat Inconnu" were standing old women, young women, bearded old men and boys in their teens. Many of the older women were sobbing softly.

Never could one forget that deeply touching scene.

As we approached the tomb in company of our guides from the army their looks hardened for a moment. They appeared to relax somewhat, however, when the German officers removed their caps, stood still then saluted the symbol of the brave soldiery buried there.

To countless American tourists who know Paris it is probably as incomprehensible as it was to me that the old Paris was a ghost city when I entered.

We came by way of the Clichy gate. No Germans were visible anywhere along our drive through this section.

Such few citizens as stood around at corners or gathered about radio loudspeakers gazed at us in curiosity.

They apparently had not seen any German officers before.

It is an open question whether Adolf Hitler will duplicate his Warsaw performance, when in October, 1939, only two days after capitulation of the Polish capital, he reviewed a gigantic parade of his forces.

Perhaps he has decided to do as he did at Brussels last week. He came and left there practically incognito.

In one way or another, however, he is bound to come soon to Paris for the first visit of his life.

For not since 1871 has Germany experienced a triumph similar to that achieved with the occupation of the French capital. In 1871 at Versailles the German empire was founded and Wilhelm the First proclaimed emperor.

It is almost unthinkable that Hitler would not visit the city soon.

Under arrangements made by Professor Karl Boemer, chief of the foreign press department of the ministry of propaganda in Berlin—incidentally, a man who has traveled up and down the United States and Mexico and knows America well—we foreign newsmen reached the French capital on the same day the first German troops did.

Vanguards of the German army had reached the city on Friday at 7 a.m.

At their head was a former member of the Austrian cabinet, General Glaise-Horstenau, who generally is credited with having made the Nazis' entry into Vienna possible.

In fact, we correspondents arrived even ahead of the officer appointed commandant for the occupied capital.

That meant no regulations had yet been issued for the conduct of citizens, for the hour of their retirement in the evening, or for a division of powers between local authorities and the ocupation forces.

These regulations invariably appeared on public bulletin boards in such Polish, Danish, Dutch, Belgian and northern French cities as I have visited since the outbreak of the war.

The familiar cries of Parisian newspaper vendors, which in normal times simply belong to Parisian life as an essential component, are missing.

Along the Champs Elysees only one cafe was open—all else was deadly silent.

Other avenues radiating from the Place De La Concorde, which normally are crowded with people sipping their aperitifs, were dead.

At the buzy Place De L'Opera I counted exactly 11 persons, two of them policemen.

Many of the city's most popular hotels were closed.

The Scribe hotel was requisitioned and we found clean rooms and beds there but almost no personnel to look after us.

The kitchen was closed so we had to stroll over to the Ritz. Here the restaurant manager tried to beg off serving our party of 30—officials of the high command, propaganda ministry, foreign office, nine foreign correspondents of whom three were Americans, and seven chauffeurs.

A preliminary tour of the main sights of beautiful Paris indicated that no damage has been done anywhere.

I visited the Louvre, Notre Dame cathedral, the Invalides, the Quai D'Orsay, the Place De La Concord, the museum, the chamber of deputies, Place Vendome, city hall and the Sarah Bernhardt theater—nowhere any damage.

From the American embassy the Stars and Stripes were displayed. Nearby the swastika waved on the flag staff on the Crillon hotel.

Object of much feminine curiosity were air force soldiers stationed before anti-aircraft guns at strategic points.

Paris was quite another city when the fountains at the Place De La Concord were not playing, when taxi drivers were not working, when book stalls were not doing business as usual along the Seine, when all business life was at a standstill.

We approached Paris from the coast via Amiens, Saint Just, Clermont, Creil and Le Bourget, then detouring to Saint Denis.

LeBourget, the great Paris airport, was a shambles. It had been singled out especially for German bombers for destruction.

Creil, too, was badly shelled and little remained of this town.

We had to cross the Oise river near Oriel on a pontoon bridge hastily constructed by German army engineers, since the original bridge had been dynamited by the retreating French army.

Amiens afforded a strange spectacle in that the German bombers there had given one of their best exhibitions of marksmanship.

All around Amiens' priceless cathedral—the largest ecclesiastical edifice in France—everything had been blown to bits, including the bishop's residence.

The cathedral itself, however, was entirely untouched.

Block after block in the heart of the city was in ruins and clouds of smoke still hung over whole sections of the still-smouldering city, yet the cathedral, completed in 1288, escaped unscathed.

Throughout the 80-mile drive from Amiens to Paris, I had plenty of occasion to note evidences of the vigor with which the retreating French had fought.

When the Germans started from Amiens against the so-called Weygand line June 5, they ran up against a system comparable in many respects to Germany's own Siegfried line, which differs from the Maginot in that it is not linear and massed but is carried far to the rear on a stagger principle.

General Weygand's plan, which the Germans themselves admit was cleverly conceived, lacked time for realization. Hence, the Germans said, it did not constitute a real hindrance to their forward dash.

JONES' MAJORITY WILL FACE TESTS

tillate may yield still another $750,000, bringing the total at least to the administration's first estimate of $7,550,000.

The budget recommendations still are being drawn, but economies may take up some of the slack. The governor told a statewide radio audience last night he had effected an annual saving, principally in payrolls, of $4,000,000 in his first month in office.

On the other side of the books are increased expenditures in certain new lines developed by the reform program. They include an anticipated increase of $90,000 for the supervisor of public funds, $800,000 to be held for the militia and police in the event of national emergency, $500,000 for the new crime commission, $100,000 for the reorganization survey—an expenditure already approved by the house—and $20,000 for a comprehensive study of the school system. The total is $1,510,000.

The new regime's technique of open caucuses, at which such far-reaching novelties as reorganization, the fiscal code and civil service are explained by the experts who planned them and objections are answered in advance, apparently is working.

Although a group of independents and a scattering of adherents of the former Long machine in the house staged a floor fight against some aspects of the civil service bills, notably those guaranteeing Jones appointees tenure when the bills become law, the administration carried its point with only minor concessions. The opposition joined the majority when the vote recurred on the measure themselves.

The fiscal code and the reorganization bills, object already of a quiet attack on the ground they give the governor too much power, face the test next week.

Outside the administration program proper controversial legislation ranging from a state labor relations act based on the Wagner law to a measure requiring the conservation department to develop state oil lands instead of leasing them, still has to come to the floor.

As committees labor over the rectified reform measures, giving them clearance whenever possible, time becomes the principal opponent of any legislator with a pet measure.

But there are indications that the lawmakers themselves want to get the job done without a special session. The house, which bucked its leadership last week to take a few extra hours' holiday, yesterday agreed without demur to come back Sunday night, a whole day ahead of the senate and dig into the job.

GRADUATES HERE GET TWO GRANTS

Harvard Scholarships Awarded Jack Thatcher, Thomas Feazel

Two graduates of the 1940 class of Ouachita Parish High school have been awarded Harvard university scholarships, it was announced Saturday by George M. Snellings, Jr. They are Jack Thatcher, who was valedictorian of the 1940 class, and Thomas Feazel, salutatorian of the class. Both reside in West Monroe.

Young Thatcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Thatcher, was awarded a national scholarship, which carries with it a stipend of $1,000 for the first year and $1,200 each year thereafter. Feazel was awarded a freshman scholarship, with $500 in cash.

Only two other Louisiana students were awarded Harvard scholarships. Walter L. Howell, New Orleans, and William W. Wood, Haynesville, both receiving the freshman scholarships.

Both Ouachita winners have been close friends throughout their high school careers and they will be roommates at Harvard next fall.

Thatcher is the great-grandson of Captain George E. Thatcher and Colonel George D. Alexander, who conducted the Thatcher Military academy in Shreveport after the War Between the States. Most of the old families of that community sent their sons to the Thatcher academy. He also is the grandson of Professor George O. Thatcher, who held the chair of mathematics for many years at Louisiana Tech. His father is secretary-treasurer of the Louisiana School Board association.

Young Feazel, who resides with his parents at 1801 Cypress street, West Monroe, has a brother in Harvard. He is Charles Feazel, a senior next year, who also won a national scholarship after finishing at Ouachita Parish High school.

U. S. TO REDOUBLE HELP FOR ALLIES

Roosevelt Assures Reynaud In Cable Nation Will Take Action

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt declared in a message to Premier Reynaud of France today that "so long as the allied governments continue to resist," this government will redouble its efforts to send them airplanes, artillery and munitions.

He cautioned Reynaud, however, to realize that his promises of help "carry with them no implications of military commitment."

"Only the congress can make such commitments," he added.

The chief executive cabled the premier in response to an appeal from him yesterday for further aid. He gave the desperately fighting, weary French and their leader this specific assurance:

"So long as the French people continue in defense of their liberty which constitutes the cause of popular institutions throughout the world, so long will they rest assured that material and supplies will be sent to them from the United States in ever increasing quantities and kinds."

"Only the congress can make such commitments," the president said in a cablegram to Premier Reynaud of France. The message was made public at the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt also told Reynaud that the United States would not recognize the "results of conquest of territory acquired through military aggression," and would not "consider as valid any attempts to infringe by force the independence and territory integrity of France."

The president's cable was in response to an appeal for aid from Reynaud in which the French premier asked for "clouds of planes" from across the Atlantic.

The message was sent shortly before the chief executive conferred for 70 minutes with Lord Lothian and Count De St. Quentin, the British and French ambassadors. The White House said the contents of the president's cablegram was conveyed to the ambassadors.

The text of the president's cable:

"I am sending you this reply to your message of yesterday which I am sure you will realize has received the most earnest, as well as the most friendly, study on our part.

"First of all, let me reiterate the ever-increasing admiration with which the American people and their government are viewing the resplendent courage with which the French armies are resisting the invaders on French soil.

"I wish also to reiterate in the most emphatic terms that, making every possible effort under present conditions, the government of the United States has made it possible for the allied armies to obtain during the weeks that have just passed airplanes, artillery and munitions of many kinds and that this government so long as the allied governments continue to resist will redouble its efforts in this direction.

"I believe it is possible to say that every week that goes by will see additional material on its way to the allied nations.

"In accordance with its policy not to recognize the results of conquest of territory acquired through military aggression, the government of the United States will not consider as valid any attempts to infringe by force the independence and territorial integrity of France.

"In these hours which are so heart-rending for the French people and yourself, I send you the assurances of my utmost sympathy and I can further assure you that so long as the French people continue in defense of their liberty which constitutes the cause of popular institutions throughout the world, so long will they rest assured that material and supplies will be sent to them from the United States in ever increasing quantities and kinds.

"I know that you will understand that these statements carry with them no implication of military commitments. Only the congress can make such commitments."

SEEKS EQUITY IN PRICES OF PRODUCTS OF COTTON

G. B. Studdard, of Ward 1, said yesterday that he was urging passage of legislation at Baton Rouge which would insure equity in prices of cotton seed, meal, hulls and oil. Such a bill, Mr. Studdard said, is now being considered.

Mr. Studdard pointed out that he sold 70 pounds of cotton seed to a mill and received 70 cents, or $20 per ton. He said that cotton seed meal was quoted at $1.70 per hundred pounds and hulls at 75 cents per hundred pounds. Cotton seed oil, he said, also is sold at a much higher price by the mills. Thus the farmer who sells his cotton seed is given a small return while its by-products produce important revenue for the mills, he declared.

FIRST EXECUTION IN YEARS IS SET

Convicted Negro Murderer Will Be Hanged Here On June 28

The execution of Antwine McClain, convicted Monroe negro murderer, on June 28 will mark the first execution held in Ouachita parish in approximately nine years and the fourth execution held since Sheriff Milton Coverdale took office in 1924.

The last execution was that of Haywood Johnson, who was convicted for the murder of his wife, August 24, 1931, according to Sheriff Coverdale.

Governor Sam H. Jones signed the death warrant for McClain May 25. It was received by the sheriff's department here June 4, Sheriff Coverdale stated. The warrant provides that the execution shall take place between the hours of noon and 3 p.m. Friday, June 28.

At 3:10 p.m. yesterday, following the reading of the death warrant by Sheriff Coverdale, in the presence of a News-Star—World reporter and other witnesses, McClain calmly walked back to his cell. McClain showed no emotion. Afterwards, when asked by the sheriff if he desired a minister, he requested his former pastor, Rev. Smith, College Point. McClain also requested that he be transferred to the death cell as soon as possible.

Convicted May 16, 1939, McClain was sentenced to death May 19 by the Fourth judicial district court of Ouachita parish for the murder of his common law wife on December 4, 1938. According to records, McClain sought out his wife following a period of separation and attacked her. The woman fled and McClain followed, killing her with a flatiron, according to records. Attorneys for McClain appealed the case to a higher court, but the decision of the lower court was upheld.

"This is the fourth execution that I have held since becoming sheriff of Ouachita parish in 1924, and I assure you that there is nothing pleasant about them," Sheriff Coverdale stated Saturday.

Other executions set by Governor Sam H. Jones, according to the Associated Press, are those of Theophilus Messer in Evangeline parish, July 5, and that of Charles Peyton in Morehouse parish July 12. Both men were convicted of murder.

At the same time, Governor Jones revealed that records in many cases in which death warrants are to be issued are missing from the executive files. He said they were apparently removed or destroyed by his predecessor, former Governor Earl K. Long, whom Jones succeeded in office a month ago.

Among the missing records are those of Peter Gendusa, sentenced to death in New Orleans for attempted murder in the brutal cutting of Thomas Dupont and Dupont's sister, and those of Honore Migues, sentenced to death at New Iberia for slaying a North Carolina construction worker's young bride, Mrs. Evelyn Allen Crawford.

Governor Jones said his signing death warrants in these and other cases are being held up while copies of the records are being obtained. Former Governor Long saved Migues from the noose three times before withdrawing his death warrant entirely and leaving the matter for action by Governor Jones.

GO CLIMB A TREE

ROANOKE, Va.—(AP)—Towermen who initiate candidates into the Ancient and Honorable Order of Squirrels say women are more successful as candidates than men. The order, formed to reduce the number of man-caused forest fires, requires an initiate to climb one of the 80-foot fire towers in the Jefferson national forest. The women, it seems, look up and climb. The men, with greater frequency, look down and climb—down.

FARMERS' GROUP ELECTS OFFICERS

The members of the Ouachita Valley National Farm Loan association elected L. H. Peevy, Monroe and J. H. Michie, Mer Rouge, to a three-year term on their board of directors at their annual meeting. Approximately 40 farmers, their wives and guests attended the meeting which was held in the courthouse at Monroe.

Of interest to all members at the meeting was the review of association activities for the past year and the presentation of financial reports by A. C. Ransom, secretary-treasurer. As of June 1, 1940, the association had members with loans outstanding amounting to $1,479,974.23 the reports show. In addition, farmers in the territory served by the association had Land bank commissioner loans amounting to $180,745.12, bringing the combined total of loans being handled by this association to $1,660,719.35.

Z. T. Gallion, representative of the Federal Land bank of New Orleans, was a guest at the meeting and spoke on "The Advantages of a Farmer-owned, Farmer-managed, Cooperative Credit System."

"One of the principal fundamentals and most important feature of this system is that farmers own and operate their own credit institution," Mr. Gallion said. "At the time each member of this National Farm Loan association obtained his loan he subscribed to stock in the association equal to 5 per cent of the amount borrowed. Since no one who is not a borrower can purchase stock in the association it, therefore, places sole ownership in the hands of the member-borrowers. Each borrower is entitled to vote for the directors who manage the affairs of the association, and since these directors must also be members of the association it, therefore, places the management entirely in the hands of the borrowing members.

"This system which was made possible through the cooperation of farmers with each other in the solution of their credit problems has brought to agriculture long-term loans suited to the specific needs of farming at the lowest interest rate in the history of American farming."

Following the general meeting of stockholders, the board of directors met to organize for the coming year. Robert G. Harmon, Monroe, was elected president and J. H. Michie, Mer Rouge, was elected vice-president. In addition to Mr. Peevy and Mr. Michie, the other board members are H. L. Smith, Neal W. McHenry and R. G. Harmon, all of Monroe. The directors reelected Mr. Ransom secretary-treasurer for the 1940-41 term.

GERMANY'S ENVOY GUARDED IN CITY

NEW ORLEANS, June 15.—(AP)—While a lone policeman guarded his house, Germany's consul general to the south remained secluded today after his threat of trade reprisals against the United States because of aid being given the allies.

Baron Edgar von Spiegel in an interview yesterday declared his government "will not forget that when she was fighting bitterly for her very life, the United States gave every material aid to her enemies." He also predicted a quick German victory, denied the Nazis have any territorial ambitions in this hemisphere but said America might find her way barred to trade with the victorious new empire.

Von Spiegel, a U-boat officer in the first World war, said later that he had not been talking for publication but did not retract his statements.

RAILROADS STRESS SAFETY PROGRAMS

"Safety has been a paramount issue on our railroad," C. McNay, assistant to the vice-president and general manager of the Missouri Pacific lines, St. Louis, said at a meeting of all company officials from South Arkansas and Northern Louisiana Saturday, held in the company's Bawter club house here.

The meeting was attended by approximately 75 officials. S. A. Moss, freight agent for the Missouri Pacific lines here, said Saturday night. Other officials of the safety committee present were R. B. Williamson, St. Louis, freight claim agent, and J. H. Amos, St. Louis, general claims attorney.

"Not only are we trying to make every employe of the Missouri Pacific lines more safety conscious, but we are endeavoring to spread the safety movement to all their friends and acquaintances," declared Mr. McNay.

He explained that his committee through local employes at various points served by the railroad were endeavoring among other things, to enlist the cooperation of school officials and parents in advising children of the hazards of playing on railroad property.

"In spite of all of the precautions constantly taken by employes of the nation's railroads, scores of children are injured during each vacation period because, unfortunately, so many select railroad yards, stations and loading tracks for playgrounds," he declared.

"Not only are the children to be considered," stated Mr. McNay, "but also the unthinking auto drivers who race trains to a crossing, or who do not heed stop, look and listen signs are a constant source of concern to all train and enginemen. While we are doing everything humanly possible to prevent crossing accidents and making headway, we feel that much remains to be done," he added. "Records show that in about a third of the accidents, drivers crash their cars into train sides; in fact during the past month records show that in some 22 instances this was the case," Mr. McNay said.

As a part of the railroads safety campaign to make the residents of all the cities and communities it serves, more safety conscious, employes are being urged to constantly warn friends and others of the danger of approaching railroad crossings without caution, he explained. "The trains can't stop; the automobile can. If they all did, an amazing amount of suffering and grief would be averted," Mr. McNay said.

LINDBERGH SPEAKS ON U. S. DEFENSES

Urges Cooperation Of All American Countries In Setup

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh asserted tonight that the defense of the United States should be constructed with the "cooperation of all American countries," but that "we must insist upon military bases being placed wherever they are needed for our own safety, regardless of who owns the territory involved."

He embraced this idea of western hemisphere defense in an address prepared for radio delivery in which he also asserted that "we must stop this trend" toward involvement in the European war and cease "these gestures with an empty gun."

Tonight's address by Lindbergh was the second of the same nature within a month. On the last occasion he condemned "meddling with affairs abroad" and denounced "hysterical chatter of calamity and invasion"—a speech which brought criticism from various members of congress and praise from some others.

Tonight he reiterated this viewpoint in these words:

"This dabbling we have been doing in European affairs can lead only to failure in the future as it has in the past. * * * We demand that foreign nations refrain from interfering in our hemisphere, yet we constantly interfere in theirs. * * * We have been doing to England and France what they did to Abyssinia, to Czecho-Slovakia, to Poland, to Finland, and to Norway—we have encouraged them to hope for help we cannot send."

He contended that it was "useless to talk of sending American troops to Europe now, for we would need months of preparation before we culd train and equip even a small army."

If Germany wins, he argued, Europe would be dominated by "the strongest military nation the world has ever known," and if we entered the war we "must be prepared to attack that nation."

He charged that an "organized minority in this country is flooding our congress and our press with propaganda for war," spending large sums, "pushing us closer and closer to the edge."

This nation, he said, "stands today ere the road divides, at the sign-post of war and peace."

Should it choose war, he added, it would mortgage "the lives of our children and grandchildren," and "every family in the land would have its wounded and its dead."

"Now that we have become one of the world's greatest nations, shall we throw away the independent American destiny which our forefathers gave their lives to win?" he asked. "Shall we submerge our future in the endless wars of the old world? Or shall we build our own defenses and leave European war to European countries?"

EGYPT PREPARES TO ENTER BATTLE

Moves Rapidly Toward Full War Footing; Plans Aid To Allies

ALEXANDRIA, June 15.—(AP)—Egypt moved rapidly tonight toward a full war footing preparing to join her ally, Britain, in fighting Italy at the moment her territory is invaded.

Indications that this might come soon were seen during the day in the sharp fighting between Italian and British troops on the Egyptian-Libyan frontier and the continuous action of the royal air force in bombing enemy positions.

The capture of the Italian forts of Capuzzo and Maddalena was announced.

A communique stated that enemy planes had attacked the Egyptian outposts of Sollum, Shegga and Weshka, but that damage was slight.

The Egyptian attitude toward these reported threats was not immediately defined.

The government, which through the premier had warned that Italian attacks on Egyptian territory would bring a declaration of war against Italy, was tensely watching developments.

Parliament was held in readiness for emergency steps.

Informed sources said they could not see how Egypt could long remain out of the conflict, because it was almost certain that the Italians would attack in an effort to reach allied bases.

Measures for the defense of Alexandria and other important towns were speeded. All civilians here were advised to leave immediately. Special trains carried thousands of old men, women and children into the interior villages.

U. S. TO REDOUBLE HELP FOR ALLIES

Roosevelt Assures Reynaud In Cable Nation Will Take Action

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt declared in a message to Premier Reynaud of France today that "so long as the allied governments continue to resist," this government will redouble its efforts to send them airplanes, artillery and munitions.

He cautioned Reynaud, however, to realize that his promises of help "carry with them no implications of military commitment."

"Only the congress can make such commitments," he added.

The chief executive cabled the premier in response to an appeal from him yesterday for further aid. He gave the desperately fighting, weary French and their leader this specific assurance:

"So long as the French people continue in defense of their liberty which constitutes the cause of popular institutions throughout the world, so long will they rest assured that material and supplies will be sent to them from the United States in ever increasing quantities and kinds."

"Only the congress can make such commitments," the president said in a cablegram to Premier Reynaud of France. The message was made public at the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt also told Reynaud that the United States would not recognize the "results of conquest of territory acquired through military aggression," and would not "consider as valid any attempts to infringe by force the independence and territory integrity of France."

The president's cable was in response to an appeal for aid from Reynaud in which the French premier asked for "clouds of planes" from across the Atlantic.

The message was sent shortly before the chief executive conferred for 70 minutes with Lord Lothian and Count De St. Quentin, the British and French ambassadors. The White House said the contents of the president's cablegram was conveyed to the ambassadors.

The text of the president's cable:

"I am sending you this reply to your message of yesterday which I am sure you will realize has received the most earnest, as well as the most friendly, study on our part.

"First of all, let me reiterate the ever-increasing admiration with which the American people and their government are viewing the resplendent courage with which the French armies are resisting the invaders on French soil.

"I wish also to reiterate in the most emphatic terms that, making every possible effort under present conditions, the government of the United States has made it possible for the allied armies to obtain during the weeks that have just passed airplanes, artillery and munitions of many kinds and that this government so long as the allied governments continue to resist will redouble its efforts in this direction.

"I believe it is possible to say that every week that goes by will see additional material on its way to the allied nations.

"In accordance with its policy not to recognize the results of conquest of territory acquired through military aggression, the government of the United States will not consider as valid any attempts to infringe by force the independence and territorial integrity of France.

"In these hours which are so heartrending for the French people and yourself, I send you the assurances of my utmost sympathy and I can further assure you that so long as the French people continue in defense of their liberty which constitutes the cause of popular institutions throughout the world, so long will they rest assured that material and supplies will be sent to them from the United States in ever increasing quantities and kinds.

"I know that you will understand that these statements carry with them no implication of military commitments. Only the congress can make such commitments."

SEEKS EQUITY IN PRICES OF PRODUCTS OF COTTON

G. B. Studdard, of Ward 1, said yesterday that he was urging passage of legislation at Baton Rouge which would insure equity in prices of cotton seed, meal, hulls and oil. Such a bill, Mr. Studdard said, is now being considered.

Mr. Studdard pointed out that he sold 70 pounds of cotton seed to a mill and received 70 cents, or $20 per ton. He said that cotton seed meal was quoted at $1.70 per hundred pounds and hulls at 75 cents per hundred pounds. Cotton seed oil, he said, also is sold at a much higher price by the mills. Thus the farmer who sells his cotton seed is given a small return while its by-products produce important revenue for the mills, he declared.

NEW ORLEANS, June 15.—(AP)—WPA administrators in the fifth region were under orders today that they must not "force" enlistments in the armed forces by denying jobs to men of military age.

The region includes Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma. In some other parts of the country it has been announced WPA jobs would be denied physically fit men of military age, without dependants.

FIRST EXECUTION IN YEARS IS SET

Convicted Negro Murderer Will Be Hanged Here On June 28

The execution of Antwine McClain, convicted Monroe negro murderer, on June 28 will mark the first execution held in Ouachita parish in approximately nine years and the fourth execution held since Sheriff Milton Coverdale took office in 1924.

The last execution was that of Haywood Johnson, who was convicted for the murder of his wife, August 24, 1931, according to Sheriff Coverdale.

Governor Sam H. Jones signed the death warrant for McClain May 25. It was received by the sheriff's department here June 4, Sheriff Coverdale stated. The warrant provides that the execution shall take place between the hours of noon and 3 p.m. Friday, June 28.

At 3:10 p.m. yesterday, following the reading of the death warrant by Sheriff Coverdale, in the presence of a News-Star—World reporter and other witnesses, McClain calmly walked back to his cell. McClain showed no emotion. Afterwards, when asked by the sheriff if he desired a minister, he requested his former pastor, Rev. Smith, College Point. McClain also requested that he be transferred to the death cell as soon as possible.

Convicted May 16, 1939, McClain was sentenced to death May 19 by the Fourth judicial district court of Ouachita parish for the murder of his common law wife on December 4, 1938. According to records, McClain sought out his wife following a period of separation and attacked her. The woman fled and McClain followed, killing her with a flatiron, according to records. Attorneys for McClain appealed the case to a higher court, but the decision of the lower court was upheld.

"This is the fourth execution that I have held since becoming sheriff of Ouachita parish in 1924, and I assure you that there is nothing pleasant about them," Sheriff Coverdale stated Saturday.

Other executions set by Governor Sam H. Jones, according to the Associated Press, are those of Theophilus Messer in Evangeline parish, July 5, and that of Charles Peyton in Morehouse parish July 12. Both men were convicted of murder.

At the same time, Governor Jones revealed that records in many cases in which death warrants are to be issued are missing from the executive files. He said they were apparently removed or destroyed by his predecessor, former Governor Earl K. Long, whom Jones succeeded in office a month ago.

Among the missing records are those of Peter Gendusa, sentenced to death in New Orleans for attempted murder in the brutal cutting of Thomas Dupont and Dupont's sister, and those of Honore Migues, sentenced to death at New Iberia for slaying a North Carolina construction worker's young bride, Mrs. Evelyn Allen Crawford.

Governor Jones said his signing death warrants in these and other cases are being held up while copies of the records are being obtained. Former Governor Long saved Migues from the noose three times before withdrawing his death warrant entirely and leaving the matter for action by Governor Jones.

GO CLIMB A TREE

ROANOKE, Va.—(AP)—Towermen who initiate candidates into the Ancient and Honorable Order of Squirrels say women are more successful as candidates than men. The order, formed to reduce the number of man-caused forest fires, requires an initiate to climb one of the 80-foot fire towers in the Jefferson national forest. The women, it seems, look up and climb. The men, with greater frequency, look down and climb—down.

FARMERS' GROUP ELECTS OFFICERS

The members of the Ouachita Valley National Farm Loan association elected L. H. Peevy, Monroe and J. H. Michie, Mer Rouge, to a three-year term on their board of directors at their annual meeting. Approximately 40 farmers, their wives and guests attended the meeting which was held in the courthouse at Monroe.

Of interest to all members at the meeting was the review of association activities for the past year and the presentation of financial reports by A. C. Ransom, secretary-treasurer. As of June 1, 1940, the association had members with loans outstanding amounting to $1,479,974.23 the reports show. In addition, farmers in the territory served by the association had Land bank commissioner loans amounting to $180,745.12, bringing the combined total of loans being handled by this association to $1,660,719.35.

Z. T. Gallion, representative of the Federal Land bank of New Orleans, was a guest at the meeting and spoke on "The Advantages of a Farmer-owned, Farmer-managed, Cooperative Credit System."

"One of the principal fundamentals and most important feature of this system is that farmers own and operate their own credit institution," Mr. Gallion said. "At the time each member of this National Farm Loan association obtained his loan he subscribed to stock in the association equal to 5 per cent of the amount borrowed. Since no one who is not a borrower can purchase stock in the association it, therefore, places sole ownership in the hands of the member-borrowers. Each borrower is entitled to vote for the directors who manage the affairs of the association, and since these directors must also be members of the association it, therefore, places the management entirely in the hands of the borrowing members.

"This system which was made possible through the cooperation of farmers with each other in the solution of their credit problems has brought to agriculture long-term loans suited to the specific needs of farming at the lowest interest rate in the history of American farming."

Following the general meeting of stockholders, the board of directors met to organize for the coming year. Robert G. Harmon, Monroe, was elected president and J. H. Michie, Mer Rouge, was elected vice-president. In addition to Mr. Peevy and Mr. Michie, the other board members are H. L. Smith, Neal W. McHenry and R. G. Harmon, all of Monroe. The directors reelected Mr. Ransom secretary-treasurer for the 1940-41 term.

GERMANY'S ENVOY GUARDED IN CITY

NEW ORLEANS, June 15.—(AP)—While a lone policeman guarded his house, Germany's consul general to the south remained secluded today after his threat of trade reprisals against the United States because of aid being given the allies.

Baron Edgar von Spiegel in an interview yesterday declared his government "will not forget that when she was fighting bitterly for her very life, the United States gave every material aid to her enemies." He also predicted a quick German victory, denied the Nazis have any territorial ambitions in this hemisphere but said America might find her way barred to trade with the victorious new empire.

Von Spiegel, a U-boat officer in the first World war, said later that he had not been talking for publication but did not retract his statements.

RAILROADS STRESS SAFETY PROGRAMS

"Safety has been a paramount issue on our railroad," C. McNay, assistant to the vice-president and general manager of the Missouri Pacific lines, St. Louis, said at a meeting of all company officials from South Arkansas and Northern Louisiana Saturday, held in the company's Booster club house here.

The meeting was attended by approximately 75 officials. S. A. Moss, freight agent for the Missouri Pacific lines here, said Saturday night. Other officials of the safety committee present were R. B. Williamson, St. Louis, freight claim agent, and J. H. Amos, St. Louis, general claims attorney.

"Not only are we trying to make every employe of the Missouri Pacific lines more safety conscious, but we are endeavoring to spread the safety movement to all their friends and acquaintances," declared Mr. McNay.

He explained that his committee through local employes at various points served by the railroad were endeavoring among other things, to enlist the cooperation of school officials and parents in advising children of the hazards of playing on railroad property.

"In spite of all of the precautions constantly taken by employes of the nation's railroads, scores of children are injured during each vacation period because, unfortunately, so many select railroad yards, stations and loading tracks for playgrounds," he declared.

"Not only are the children to be considered," stated Mr. McNay, "but also the unthinking auto drivers who race trains to a crossing, or who do not heed stop, look and listen signs are a constant source of concern to all train and enginemen. While we are doing everything humanly possible to prevent crossing accidents and making headway, we feel that much remains to be done," he added. "Records show that in about a third of the accidents, drivers crash their cars into train sides; in fact during the past month records show that in some 22 instances this was the case," Mr. McNay said.

As a part of the railroads safety campaign to make the residents of all the cities and communities it serves, more safety conscious, employes are being urged to constantly warn friends and others of the danger of approaching railroad crossings without caution, he explained. "The trains can't stop, the automobile can. If they all did, an amazing amount of suffering and grief would be averted," Mr. McNay said.

LINDBERGH SPEAKS ON U. S. DEFENSES

Urges Cooperation Of All American Countries In Setup

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh asserted tonight that the defense of the United States should be constructed with the "cooperation of all American countries," but that "we must insist upon military bases being placed wherever they are needed for our own safety, regardless of who owns the territory involved."

He embraced this idea of western hemisphere defense in an address prepared for radio delivery in which he also asserted that "we must stop this trend" toward involvement in the European war and cease "these gestures with an empty gun."

Tonight's address by Lindbergh was the second of the same nature within a month. On the last occasion he condemned "meddling with affairs abroad" and denounced "hysterical chatter of calamity and invasion"—a speech which brought criticism from various members of congress and praise from some others.

Tonight he reiterated this viewpoint in these words:

"This dabbling we have been doing in European affairs can lead only to failure in the future as it has in the past. * * * We demand that foreign nations refrain from interfering in our hemisphere, yet we constantly interfere in theirs. * * * We have been doing to England and France what they did to Abyssinia, to Czecho-Slovakia, to Poland, to Finland, and to Norway—we have encouraged them to hope for help we cannot send."

He contended that it was "useless to talk of sending American troops to Europe now, for we would need months of preparation before we culd train and equip even a small army."

If Germany wins, he argued, Europe would be dominated by "the strongest military nation the world has ever known," and if we entered the war we "must be prepared to attack that nation."

He charged that an "organized minority in this country is flooding our congress and our press with propaganda for war," spending large sums, "pushing us closer and closer to the edge."

This nation, he said, "stands today where the road divides, at the signpost of war and peace."

Should it choose war, he added, it would mortgage "the lives of our children and grandchildren," and "every family in the land would have its wounded and its dead."

"Now that we have become one of the world's greatest nations, shall we throw away the independent American destiny which our forefathers gave their lives to win?" he asked. "Shall we submerge our future in the endless wars of the old world? Or shall we build our own defenses and leave European war to European countries?"

EGYPT PREPARES TO ENTER BATTLE

Moves Rapidly Toward Full War Footing; Plans Aid To Allies

ALEXANDRIA, June 15.—(AP)—Egypt moved rapidly tonight toward a full war footing preparing to join her ally, Britain, in fighting Italy at the moment her territory is invaded.

Indications that this might come soon were seen during the day in the sharp fighting between Italian and British troops on the Egyptian-Libyan frontier and the continuous action of the royal air force in bombing enemy positions.

The capture of the Italian forts of Capruzzo and Maddalena was announced.

A communique stated that enemy planes had attacked the Egyptian outposts of Sollum, Shegga and Weshka, but that damage was slight.

The Egyptian attitude toward these isolated thrusts was not immediately defined.

The government—which through the premier had warned that Italian attacks on Egyptian territory would bring a declaration of war against Italy—was tensely watching developments.

Parliament was held in readiness for emergency steps.

Informed sources said they could not see how Egypt could long remain out of the conflict, because it was almost certain that the Italians would attack in an effort to reach allied bases.

Measures for the defense of Alexandria and other important towns were speeded. All civilians here were advised to leave immediately. Special trains carried thousands of old men, women and children into the interior villages.

Eyes On The Conventions

The bird-and-snake fascination with which the American people are keeping their eyes glued on the terrible drama now stalking across Europe is causing a dangerous neglect of our own affairs.

Only about a week now remains before the Republican party meets in Philadelphia to choose its candidate for the presidency. Three weeks after that the Democratic party meets for the same purpose.

At the moment it is of course true that the present and future relations of the United States to the rest of the world are the most important concern of the people. Yet the president chosen this fall will be at the head of the government for four years. It is highly unlikely that the present war will continue that long. The incoming president will be faced with heavy responsibilities, not only to pilot the American ship through the present highly dangerous shoal waters of a world at war, but to chart a course in the new and undiscovered seas which will open before us when the war is over. Of these we know nothing and can guess little, except that whatever the results of the war, they will almost certainly be different from anything we have known before.

Therefore the election of the president is not less important but more important than when only domestic issues are to the fore. There will be plenty of domestic issues in the post-war period, and the fact that they are temporarily obscured by the war does not mean that they will not come strongly to the fore by 1944.

Nobody can be elected president until he has first been nominated. So the current disregard of the nominating conventions is unfortunate.

Neither party can afford at this critical time to nominate any but the man it believes best-fitted to pilot the nation through troubled waters. Back-room compromises and strictly political jockeying will find little sympathy. All attention of political leaders in both parties should be concentrated on choosing the leader of highest possible quality and ability.

The conventions have become vitally important, because from one of the two meetings will emerge the man who is to lead a united America in the troubled days to come. This is democracy in action, and nothing will be more reassuring to the American people than a straightforward, serious, statesmanlike job at the two national conventions.

CONSCRIPTION

If the United States is to drift still closer to war, and it has been drifting rapidly in that direction in recent months, universal military conscription will probably be again applied.

Congress is now debating what amounts to conscription of industry for armament production with authorizations for taxes and control over prices that can easily graduate into conscription of capital. Military and labor conscription is envisioned by some as a parallel step as the country approaches more closely a belligerent status.

There are those, of course, who believe totalitarianism is as undesirable in time of war as in time of peace. These persons believe that Ford exploded the myth of the necessity of government control of this and that when he offered to turn out 1,000 planes a day, without benefit of government or union control, if the politicians would let him alone.

But any indication that this country is nearing intervention in Europe or that it will be compelled to resist invasion of this hemisphere will lead to political clamor for universal governmental command of all resources, human and material.

In that connection, manufacturing chemists meeting in New York disclose that the country is in infinitely better shape than it was twenty-five years ago. Synthetically it has been brought, by private enterprise, far along the road to independence of raw materials that might be shut off by war. There is not a vital chemical the nation lacked twenty-five years ago that it cannot make now. America can organize a capacity for making explosives that would exceed that of any other country. This nation can certainly prepare for war in all material ways if private industry is given the go-ahead signal and the shackles are removed from labor.

FIGHTING THE FOUL FIGHTER

It is difficult for the fair fighter to adjust his tactics to those of the foul fighter. It is always a surprise to a man who fights fair to find himself in conflict with a fellow who makes it part of his combat plan to gouge his opponent's eyes, and hit him and kick him below the belt.

It was the amazement of the allies at the foul fighting tactics of the Nazis that gave the Nazis preliminary and temporary advantage.

But as soon as a fair fighter realizes he is fighting a foul fighter, he knows how to treat him.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—One of the most significant struggles of the entire rearmament drive is now beginning to take shape over this question:

What part, if any, should the anti-trust laws play in the government's huge war-emergency spending program?

Bernard Baruch, who headed up the famous war industries board in the last war, has suggested the president be given emergency powers to suspend these laws whenever they interfere with the production of war-essential commodities.

Any suspension of the anti-trust laws, however, will occur only over the dead body of Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, who runs the anti-trust division; and if it comes to a showdown, remember that Arnold is very close to Attorney General Robert Jackson and that Jackson is very close to the president.

Suspension Of Laws Held Unnecessary

Arnold's main point is that no suspension of the anti-trust laws can be necessary, for this reason:

The anti-trust laws bar unreasonable restraints of trade. Whenever the army and navy can show that a certain industrial combination is necessary to the national defense, the reasonableness of that combination is automatically proven and the anti-trust laws do not apply to it.

If, in other words, a production-controlling or price-fixing set-up does become necessary, if it is supported by responsible persons in government and industry, for reasons which can be examined in the open—then it can be had without any suspension of the laws.

On the other hand, the anti-trust division is determined to act against sub-rosa price-fixing schemes as energetically as ever.

Consumer Protection Now Being Planned

The division, furthermore, is anxious to swing into action on a broad program of consumer-protection.

During the last war food prices shot skyward, and an acute housing shortage developed. Arnold is anxious that this be kept from happening again.

His famous building costs campaign is protection against an undue rise in building costs—or would be, if a little more money were at hand to carry it farther and keep on with it longer.

Plans are now being laid for a thorough study of food-distribution costs, probably centering in New York and Chicago, in which every combination and all of the big and little rackets which affect big city food costs would be attacked.

This program has been reviewed by Arnold with Mayor LaGuardia of New York. LaGuardia is strong for it, and will, if necessary, assign New York City lawyers and investigators to work with department of justice men on the investigation.

Standing in the way of the program, however, is the anti-trust division's lack of money. Not a great deal is needed; Arnold figures $250,000 would be ample. That money just isn't in sight now. The president could furnish the money from the special $200,000,000 fund he has asked for—if congress gives it to him, and if he himself can be sold on the importance of the food drive.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 15.—Dear Staff: Whatever became of the so-called Greta Garbo-Dr. Gaylord Hauser romance? At least one columnist swore by her ancestors that those two were marching straight for the altar.

Apparently they took the wrong aisle, for instead of arriving at the altar, they ended up "very good friends," which is the way La Garbo finished with John Gilbert, Direcotr Rouben Mamoulian, George Brent and Leopold Stokowski, with all of whom she shared romantic headlines.

The sad truth, I fear, is that Greta's romances are timed too pointedly with the release of her pictures to be accepted again without at least a faint ahem. It's gotten so, every time a new Garbo film is ready to be marketed, the public may expect two things:

(1) A new, two-word slogan (Garbo talks, Garbo laughs, etc.) and (2) a rumored engagement to be married.

Of course, it's possible the rumors of marriage are on the semi-level. I mean, perhaps the lady becomes so taut and nervous during production that she must have a drastic change and relaxation, which she finds in love. That would be understandable, for what lady doesn't find fun in flirtation?

We must certainly give Greta credit for variety in her loves. Two stars, a director, a symphony conductor, a doctor—what next? Wouldn't it be sort of silly if she were to fall for the income tax collector? At any rate, Staff, you needn't fret about a new Garbo romance for many months—why, she hasn't even started her next picture!

JIMMIE FIDLER.

Dear Boss: If you've pegged the reason for Garbo romantics correctly, perhaps it's just as well she makes only one picture a year. Four-a-year and she would run out of men!

Here's today communique: Stand by for an early elopement of Helen Mack and Pat Weaver, New York ad man. . . . Real reason for Clark Gable's current Arizona jaunt is his yen to own an authentic out-west rancho—he's shopping. . . . Arthur Murray confides that Katharine Hepburn, who scorned Hollywood night-spotting, has enrolled in his New York danschool for a deluxe ballroom course. . . . That fraternity pin Ann Rutherford is sporting belongs to an undergrad Alpha Tau Omega at the University of Kentucky. . . . Wot's this about the king of England paging Muriel Angelus to come home and help entertain fighting men? . . . Producer Edward Small has scheduled a super-colossal based on Richard Henry Dana's sea classic, "Two Years Before the Mast."

Is Jackie Cooper's purchase of a San Fernando valley nag ranch an outgrowth of his adoration for Jimmy Rogers, girl rodeo champ? . . . Art lovers were robbed when Paulette Goddard insisted that Diego Rivera paint her in a tennis costume—he wanted her to pose in the altogether. . . . Credit Dean Jagger, title rolist in 20th Century-Zanuck's "Brigham Young," with an endurance record—he appears in 264 of the pic's 339 scenes. . . . Looks like Joan Bennett's turned a new leaf—on completion of "I Married a Nazi," the production crew gifted her with a love token.

This morning's chuckle comes from Kayenta, Ariz., where the "Kit Carson" company is locationing in the most inaccessable part of the Navajo Indian reservation. Seems one member of the troupe, bedded in his tent by flu, finally had to be sent back to Hollywood. Each day, a procession of grim faced Navajos stalked into the sick bay, stood by his bed and wordlessly stared, then wordlessly stalked out. After the third day, the patient's flu was gone—but he was suffering from complete nervous breakdown!

Wendy Barrie has bought a $3,500 plane and signed for flight lessons. . . . Is it true (as intimates insist) that Mady Carroll's mysterious romance in Paris is her ex-hubby, Captain Philip Astley, now at the fighting front—and that a reconciliation is imminent? . . . Out-of-the-past; Eva Novak, serial queen of the silents, is working extra in RKO's "Dance, Girl, Dance." . . . Credit Gail Ambers, ex-Rudy Vallee flame now selling cigarettes at the Pirate's Den, with effective war work—she offered a kiss with each purchase, proceeds to go for allied relief, and sold out in five minutes. . . . It's a Kansas vacation for Sidney Toler, starting next week. . . . Hollywood gossips will find plenty of fodder if that row twixt Vic McLaglen and Edward Small's casting director reaches the courts, as the latter threatens. . . . Boss, looks like your warnings to "cut down" on pic production have been heeded—in 20th's version of "Brigham Young," the Mormon leader is given only four wives. He really had twelve!

SO THEY SAY

Dazzled by Hitler's promises of vast French booty, Mussolini has made his fateful decision. In doing so he has demonstrated to the vast majority of peace-loving, God-fearing Italians that he has outlived his usefulness.—Goffredo Pantaleoni, who resigned as head of the Italian Tourist Office.

In telling the Italian people of the destructions of war on England and France—at a time when he thought they were both helpless—Mussolini said his conscience didn't bother him in the least. A Jesse James biographer relates that Jesse slept pretty well himself.

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1940, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

It was a new invention which swept the destroying armies of Jengis Khan from the Pacific to the Dnieper in the 12th and 13th centuries. Not a mysterious killing device, to be sure, but something quite comparable to anything modern technicians might contrive in its impact on human destiny. Gunpowder? You're away off. It was the stirrup.

The Mongols had the biggest horse army ever assembled. They fought on horseback and lived on mare's milk. In their opening engagements they took an occasional beating in their practice workouts against small tribes in that neighborhood. On even terms they had little or no edge on other contenders. The name of Mongol Lewis or Maxim who made this innovation is lost, but suddenly, in forays against the nomadic horsemen of northeast China, superb fighters and horse wranglers, Jengis Khan's men had stirrups.

They could "roll with the punch." They could stand straight in their stirrups and get more range for a club or spear. They could stick a horse in a melee which dumped their opponents by the scores, as their slippery bareback leg-hold was loosened. And that, in Kipling's line, "is where the history books begin," so far as this curtain-raiser on world totalitarianism is concerned. The odd thing was that their opponents were too dumb to copy the stirrup idea. The Mongols moved on to the Dnieper.

Jengis Khan was not only a killer but smart. These preliminaries, in which he pouched one little tribal nation after another, were something like the spring training season in St. Petersburg. What made him foam at the mouth was the powerful empire, which was virtually all Chinese, backed by Chinese power and great military resources. Partly by asasult and partly by penetration, he sprung loose the Kirghis and Uigurs, who were Tartars living under the Chinese protectorate. Then he made them join his conquest. That brought in the powerful Khitans, joining up to save their hides, and by 1214 A. D. Jengis Khan had Pekin.

That the Mongols were just a ravening horde, winning by more numbers and savagery, like a totalitarian onslaught of Japanese beetles, seems to have been one of the wrong guesses of many historians and laymen. Read the British historian Bury in his study of Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire":

"It should be noticed that the Mongols embarked upon the enterprise with full knowledge of the political situation of Hungary and the condition of Poland—they had taken care to inform themselves by a well-organized system of spies; on the other hand, the Hungarians and Christian powers, like childish barbarians, knew hardly anything about their enemies."

About 30 years ago this historian, Bury, wrote a book, called "History of the Freedom of Thought." It is a book one suggests every American concerned about what's worth fighting for might profitably "read, mark, learn and inwardly digest." Most public libraries have it. Bury's remarks about the Mongol conquerors of eight hundred years have a startlingly up-to-date sound.

"It is only recently," he says, "that European history has begun to understand the successes of the Mongol army were won by consummate strategy and were not due to an overwhelming superiority of numbers. But this fact has not yet become a matter of common knowledge; the vulgar opinion which represents the Tartars as a wild horde carrying all before them solely by their multitude, and galloping through Europe without a strategic plan, rushing at all obstacles and overcoming them by sheer weight, still prevails.

"It was wonderful how punctually and effectually the arrangements of the commander were carried out in operations extending from the lower Vistula to Transylvania. Such a campaign was quite beyond the power of any European army of the time, and it was beyond the vision of any European commander."

Starting with the dawn of Sumerian culture, about 8,000 B. C., real civilizations have been knocked over by barbarians whose capacity for harm was underestimated by nice people. Neolithic man is still going strong, and the fact that he can master technology has nothing to do with human intelligence; in fact, it only makes him worse. Over here we still have a chance to prove that a civilization can be both enlightened and strong. It's the only winning combination and most of the big, bad trouble in the world comes from the failure to work it. In other words, even nice people have to know how to get tough on occasion.

OUR CHILDREN

SET HABITS CONTROL BEHAVIOR

All active life is conditioned, carried out and completed by set habits. A man does not learn and do in one gesture. It is not as easy as that. What he does is conditioned by things he did long ago, by the set habits of years.

We should keep the idea in mind as we train the children. The thing a child does today, the spirit in which he does it, the reason for his doing it, his success and failure in it, are important because the action with all its accompanying emotions is going to color his actions in time to come.

The best training is the training that sets the most good habits at the time they can be set most effectively, and that is between the day of birth and the onset of adolescence. Habits will be set and used after that time, of course, but the ones that count for the most are the early ones.

Few complaints come to school and court about the behavior of the younger children. The trouble begins with the adolescent. The complaints have a familiar pattern. He won't get up in the morning, he won't go to bed at night. He does not tell us what he is doing and gets impatient when we ask. He won't listen to us. He stays out late. We never know where he is. He won't give any money toward the house. He abuses other members of the family. We can't do anything with him. He smokes and he drinks too much. He insists upon driving the car and taking girls out in it. What can we do?

Not much now. All that is left to do is to pray. The time for the active training has passed. Certain remedial work can be tried but it is uphill work and most discouraging. The habits have set and it takes a deal of time to unset them.

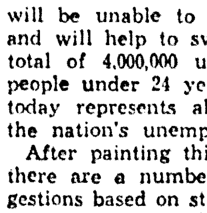
First the physical examinations must be made. Then the intelligence tests given. After that, vocational tests. Then social workers, the relief squads, come to the front. They try to place this child in a new environment where he will have a chance to start anew, far from the people and the place that helped set the old and unfortunate habits. They try to find work for him, to make him self-sustaining. They try to bring him to a realization of his place in life, his duty, his musts.

Children have to realize must early in their lives. They have to set a habit of reasonable acceptance of the facts of life in their thoughts so that cooperation with others, service to others, usefulness to oneself as well as to others, a recognition of the need and the reward of plain goodness is impressed upon them. If in the first ten years of their lives they have been held to that standard there won't be any trouble about their being real people in their teens.

JOBS for JUNE GRADUATES

By Dr. Floyd W. Reeves
(Director, American Youth Commission)

American youth leaving schools and colleges to seek jobs faces a highly competitive labor market. It would be both unfair and unrealistic to say that all who desire work, and have the energy to seek it, can find jobs. The fact is, there are not enough jobs to go around.



Reeves

It takes about two years for the average boy or girl to find employment that carries with it any degree of permanence. This does not mean that most young people walk the streets for two years before obtaining their first job. It does mean that there is an enormous turnover among new workers before they find the job for which they are suited.

On a national average, one in six will be unable to find employment, and will help to swell the estimated total of 4,000,000 unemployed young people under 24 years of age, which today represents about one-third of the nation's unemployment problem.

After painting this gloomy picture, there are a number of helpful suggestions based on studies and findings of the American Youth commission, which can be of value to the boy or girl in search of work.

The first suggestion is offered more to parents than to young people, for the search for a job starts from the home. Parents should realize that the aptitudes and interests of a son or daughter may be quite different from their own, and they should not be dictatorial about occupational choice.

They should encourage vocational exploration, but should discourage wishful thinking. Most boys aspire to white collar jobs, although 70 per cent are destined to wear overalls.

Second, a boy or girl should seek vocational guidance from those qualified to give it. If they are fortunate, their school has a guidance program.

Even if an individual's school does not offer guidance, it will be wise to ask the school principal or class teacher what he believes he or she is best fitted to undertake. In the search for counsel it will also pay to make inquiries at the local Y. M. C. A. or Y. W. C. A., for many branches offer occupational guidance for youth out of school.

Third, most young persons fail to register at the local public placement agency. Creation of a network of public employment offices is one of the great social achievements of recent years, which recognizes the public's responsibility for helping bring workers and employers together.

Fourth, boys and girls unable to find employment should consider additional education. This is not always possible, but the more education one has, the better the chances are of getting a job.

Fifth, if circumstances make it impossible for a youth to continue his education without assistance, he may be eligible for the civilian conservation corps or for a National Youth administration scholarship or work project.

To know what one can do and the fields in which there are the greatest opportunities is half the battle. It gives a sense of direction, and permits a boy or girl to act with purpose. Above all, it prevents aimless drift, which is demoralizing to character.

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 23

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
Editor of Advance

Text: Malachi 3:7-18.

How feebly, and with what difficulty peoples and nations learn to profit by experience! The lessons that we have been studying have dealt chiefly with the Jews in exile in Babylon, and with their return from captivity to rebuild Jerusalem and their homeland. The period of the captivity was one in which spiritual vision and the sense of true values attained their very highest point.

In the loss of the things that they ought to have loved and cherished, the exiled people began to value these things at their true worth. A fervent spiritual patriotism arose among them, in which Jerusalem, "beautiful for situation," became something more than a city that they had lost. It became a symbol of spiritual life and happiness, and the poet, voicing the sentiment of his people, expressed the wish that his right hand might forget her cunning if he preferred not Jerusalem among his chief joys.

In the days of rebuilding in their homeland, despite constant attack of enemies and great dangers and privations, there was the same high note of patriotic fervor. Under unselfish, courageous and inspired leaders, the people built with vision—although there were lapses at times, and we have seen how one prophet rebuked them for their lack of zeal in building the house of God in contrast with their eagerness to provide comfortable houses for themselves.

Yet now, 100 years after the return from the exile, we find the people profiting so little from the experiences through which they had passed that apostacy has arisen. The people have backslidden into careless, and selfish, and evil ways.

The depth of their failure is evident in the intensity of the words with which the prophet, Malachi, reproves them. They have turned from the laws of God; they have robbed God in not yielding the tithes and offerings for the service of religion and for the benefit of all. A curse rests upon the nation, and the curse will remain until there is a change in their ways.

And yet, a bountiful and merciful God is anxious to pour out His blessing upon the people. "Prove me now herewith," Malachi represents Jehovah as saying, "if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

Do not these words apply with equal vividness to our own time? It is only a few years ago since we here in America were in the depth of a terrible depression. A contrite spirit seemed evident in the nation. We were ready for almost any sacrifice or to adopt any measures if we could only get out of the slump that had affected almost everything in our lives.

Yet, how quickly we have forgotten all this in the measure of recovery that has come! Human nature is much the same in every age, but fortunately God's nature is also the same in every age. There is still hope for nations where nations will turn to righteousness and truth.

Our lesson also ends on a very hopeful and vital fact, namely, the eternal distinction between right and wrong. Often, in times of despair, the distinction seems blurred, but there is a real difference between righteousness and wickedness. The destiny of humanity for weal or woe is wrapped up with humanity's choice of the one or the other.

WHAT'S IT COMING TO?

WICHITA, Kans.—(AP)—While his wife wasn't looking, 81-year-old Emory Taggart, retired banker, scampered out to the airport and learned to fly. "I just couldn't sit around and do nothing after I retired," says the merry-eyed, five-foot-two-inches tall, energetic oldster. When his wife finally heard about it she didn't object. "It keeps him busy," she says.

STAMP NEWS

DEUTSCHES REICH 38

Those four stamp issues cover world-shaking events in the career of the one-time Austrian corporal. Hitler's pledge to respect Belgian neutrality, given in October, 1937, was worth less than the stamps.

His 49th birthday saw Hitler as ruler of Austria. The conversations at Munich took place in the same year, and Nazis won the Sudeten area of Czechoslovakia.

A month before his 50th anniversary, the Reichsfuehrer took over the remainder of Czechoslovakia, and Lithuania surrendered Memel. April, 1939, also saw Hitler denounce the Polish non-aggression pact and the British naval agreement. Invasion of Poland brought French and British declarations of war on Sept. 3.

Hitler celebrated April, 1940, by invading Denmark and Norway.

Eyes On The Conventions

The bird-and-snake fascination with which the American people are keeping their eyes glued on the terrible drama now stalking across Europe is causing a dangerous neglect of our own affairs.

Only about a week now remains before the Republican party meets in Philadelphia to choose its candidate for the presidency. Three weeks after that the Democratic party meets for the same purpose.

At the moment it is of course true that the present and future relations of the United States to the rest of the world are the most important concern of the people. Yet the president chosen this fall will be at the head of the government for four years. It is highly unlikely that the present war will continue that long. The incoming president will be faced with heavy responsibilities, not only to pilot the American ship through the present highly dangerous shoal waters of a world at war, but to chart a course in the new and undiscovered seas which will open before us when the war is over. Of these we know nothing and can guess little, except that whatever the results of the war, they will almost certainly be different from anything we have known before.

Therefore the election of the president is not less important but more important than when only domestic issues are to the fore. There will be plenty of domestic issues in the post-war period, and the fact that they are temporarily obscured by the war does not mean that they will not come strongly to the fore by 1944.

Nobody can be elected president until he has first been nominated. So the current disregard of the nominating conventions is unfortunate.

Neither party can afford at this critical time to nominate any but the man it believes best-fitted to pilot the nation through troubled waters. Back-room compromises and strictly political jockeying will find little sympathy. All attention of political leaders in both parties should be concentrated on choosing the leader of highest possible quality and ability.

The conventions have become vitally important, because from one of the two meetings will emerge the man who is to lead a united America in the troubled days to come. This is democracy in action, and nothing will be more reassuring to the American people than a straightforward, serious, statesmanlike job at the two national conventions.

CONSCRIPTION

If the United States is to drift still closer to war, and it has been drifting rapidly in that direction in recent months, universal military conscription will probably be again applied.

Congress is now debating what amounts to conscription of industry for armament production with authorizations for taxes and control over prices that can easily graduate into conscription of capital. Military and labor conscription is envisioned by some as a parallel step as the country approaches more closely a belligerent status.

There are those, of course, who believe totalitarianism is as undesirable in time of war as in time of peace. These persons believe that Ford exploded the myth of the necessity of government control of this and that when he offered to turn out 1,000 planes a day, without benefit of government or union control, if the politicians would let him alone.

But any indication that this country is nearing intervention in Europe or that it will be compelled to resist invasion of this hemisphere will lead to political clamor for universal governmental command of all resources, human and material.

In that connection, manufacturing chemists meeting in New York disclose that the country is in infinitely better shape than it was twenty-five years ago. Synthetically it has been brought, by private enterprise, far along the road to independence of raw materials that might be shut off by war. There is not a vital chemical the nation lacked twenty-five years ago that it cannot make now. America can organize a capacity for making explosives that would exceed that of any other country. This nation can certainly prepare for war in all material ways if private industry is given the go-ahead signal and the shackles are removed from labor.

FIGHTING THE FOUL FIGHTER

It is difficult for the fair fighter to adjust his tactics to those of the foul fighter. It is always a surprise to a man who fights fair to find himself in conflict with a fellow who makes it part of his combat plan to gouge his opponent's eyes, and hit him and kick him below the belt.

It was the amazement of the allies at the foul fighting tactics of the Nazis that gave the Nazis preliminary and temporary advantage.

But as soon as a fair fighter realizes he is fighting a foul fighter, he knows how to treat him.

Many French-Canadian farmers of the Saguenay section have for years raised their own tobacco.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—One of the most significant struggles of the entire rearmament drive is now beginning to take shape over this question:

What part, if any, should the anti-trust laws play in the government's huge war-emergency spending program?

Bernard Baruch, who headed up the famous war industries board in the last war, has suggested the president be given emergency powers to suspend these laws whenever they interfere with the production of war-essential commodities.

Any suspension of the anti-trust laws, however, will occur only over the dead body of Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, who runs the anti-trust division; and if it comes to a showdown, remember that Arnold is very close to Attorney General Robert Jackson and that Jackson is very close to the president.

Suspension Of Laws Held Unnecessary

Arnold's main point is that no suspension of the anti-trust laws can be necessary, for this reason:

The anti-trust laws bar unreasonable restraints of trade. Whenever the army and navy can show that a certain industrial combination is necessary to the national defense, the reasonableness of that combination is automatically proven and the anti-trust laws do not apply to it.

If, in other words, a production-controlling or price-fixing set-up does become necessary, if it is supported by responsible persons in government and industry, for reasons which can be examined in the open—then it can be had without any suspension of the laws.

On the other hand, the anti-trust division is determined to act against sub-rosa price-fixing schemes as energetically as ever.

Consumer Protection Now Being Planned

The division, furthermore, is anxious to swing into action on a broad program of consumer-protection.

During the last war food prices shot skyward, and an acute housing shortage developed. Arnold is anxious that this be kept from happening again.

His famous building costs campaign is protection against an undue rise in building costs—or would be, if a little more money were at hand to carry it farther and keep on with it longer.

Plans are now being laid for a thorough study of food-distribution costs, probably centering in New York and Chicago, in which every combination and all of the big and little rackets which affect big city food costs would be attacked.

This program has been reviewed by Arnold with Mayor LaGuardia of New York. LaGuardia is strong for it, and will, if necessary, assign New York City lawyers and investigators to work with department of justice men on the investigation.

Standing in the way of the program, however, is the anti-trust division's lack of money. Not a great deal is needed; Arnold figures $250,000 would be ample. That money just isn't in sight now. The president could furnish the money from the special $200,000,000 fund he has asked for—if congress gives it to him, and if he himself can be sold on the importance of the food drive.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 15.—Dear Staff: Whatever became of the so-called Greta Garbo-Dr. Gaylord Hauser romance? At least one columnist swore by her ancestors that those two were marching straight for the altar.

Apparently they took the wrong aisle, for instead of arriving at the altar, they ended up "very good friends," which is the way La Garbo finished with John Gilbert, Direcotr Rouben Mamoulian, George Brent and Leopold Stokowski, with all of whom she shared romantic headlines.

The sad truth, I fear, is that Greta's romances are timed too pointedly with the release of her pictures to be accepted again without at least a faint ahem. It's gotten so, every time a new Garbo film is ready to be marketed, the public may expect two things:

(1) A new, two-word slogan (Garbo talks, Garbo laughs, etc.) and (2) a rumored engagement to be married.

Of course, it's possible the rumors of marriage are on the semi-level. I mean, perhaps the lady becomes so taut and nervous during production that she must have a drastic change and relaxation, which she finds in love. That would be understandable, for what lady doesn't find fun in flirtation?

We must certainly give Greta credit for variety in her loves. Two stars, a director, a symphony conductor, a doctor—what next? Wouldn't it be sort of silly if she were to fall for the income tax collector? At any rate, Staff, you needn't fret about a new Garbo romance for many months—why, she hasn't even started her next picture!

JIMMIE FIDLER.

Dear Boss: If you've pegged the reason for Garbo romantics correctly, perhaps it's just as well she makes only one picture a year. Four-a-year and she would run out of men!

Here's today communique: Stand by for an early elopement of Helen Mack and Pat Weaver, New York ad man. . . . Real reason for Clark Gable's current Arizona jaunt is his yen to own an authentic out-west rancho—he's shopping. . . . Arthur Murray confides that Katharine Hepburn, who scorned Hollywood night-spotting, has enrolled in his New York danschool for a deluxe ballroom course. . . . That fraternity pin Ann Rutherford is sporting belongs to an undergrad Alpha Tau Omega at the University of Kentucky. . . . Wot's this about the king of England paging Muriel Angelus to come home and help entertain fighting men? . . . Producer Edward Small has scheduled a super-colossal based on Richard Henry Dana's sea classic, "Two Years Before the Mast."

Is Jackie Cooper's purchase of a San Fernando valley nag ranch an outgrowth of his adoration for Jimmy Rogers, girl rodeo champ? . . . Art lovers were robbed when Paulette Goddard insisted that Diego Rivera paint her in a tennis costume—he wanted her to pose in the altogether. . . . Credit Dean Jagger, title rolist in 20th Century-Zanuck's "Brigham Young," with an endurance record—he appears in 264 of the pic's 339 scenes. . . . Looks like Joan Bennett's turned a new leaf—on completion of "I Married a Nazi," the production crew gifted her with a love token.

This morning's chuckle comes from Kayenta, Ariz., where the "Kit Carson" company is locationing in the most inaccessable part of the Navajo Indian reservation. Seems one member of the troupe, bedded in his tent by flu, finally had to be sent back to Hollywood. Each day, a procession of grim faced Navajos stalked into the sick bay, stood by his bed and wordlessly stared, then wordlessly stalked out. After the third day, the patient's flu was gone—but he was suffering from complete nervous breakdown!

Wendy Barrie has bought a $3,500 plane and signed for flight lessons. . . . Is it true (as intimates insist) that Mady Carroll's mysterious romance in Paris is her ex-hubby, Captain Philip Astley, now at the fighting front—and that a reconciliation is imminent? . . . Out-of-the-past: Eva Novak, serial queen of the silents, is working extra in RKO's "Dance, Girl, Dance." . . . Credit Gail Ambers, ex-Rudy Vallee flame now selling cigarettes at the Pirate's Den, with effective war work—she offered a kiss with each purchase, proceeds to go for allied relief, and sold out in five minutes. . . . It's a Kansas vacation for Sidney Toler, starting next week. . . . Hollywood gossips will find plenty of fodder if that row twixt Vic McLaglen and Edward Small's casting director reaches the courts, as the latter threatens. . . . Boss, looks like your warnings to "cut down" on pic production have been heeded—in 20th's version of "Brigham Young," the Mormon leader is given only four wives. He really had twelve!

Human Side Of The News

(Copyright, 1940, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

It was a new invention which swept the destroying armies of Jengis Khan from the Pacific to the Dnieper in the 12th and 13th centuries. Not a mysterious killing device, to be sure, but something quite comparable to anything modern technicians might contrive in its impact on human destiny. Gunpowder? You're away off. It was the stirrup.

The Mongols had the biggest horse army ever assembled. They fought on horseback and lived on mare's milk. In their opening engagements they took an occasional beating in their practice workouts against small tribes in that neighborhood. On even terms they had little or no edge on other contenders. The name of Mongol Lewis or Maxim who made this innovation is lost, but suddenly, in forays against the nomadic horsemen of northeast China, superb fighters and horse wranglers, Jengis Khan's men had stirrups.

They could "roll with the punch." They could stand straight in their stirrups and get more range for a club or spear. They could stick a horse in a melee which dumped their opponents by the scores, as their slippery bareback leg-hold was loosened. And that, in Kipling's line, "is where the history books begin," so far as this curtain-raiser on world totalitarianism is concerned. The odd thing was that their opponents were too dumb to copy the stirrup idea. The Mongols moved on to the Dnieper.

Jengis Khan was not only a killer but smart. These preliminaries, in which he pouched one little tribal nation after another, were something like the spring training season in St. Petersburg. What made him foam at the mouth was the powerful empire, which was virtually all Chinese, backed by Chinese power and great military resources. Partly by asasult and partly by penetration, he sprung loose the Kirghis and Uigurs, who were Tartars living under the Chinese protectorate. Then he made them join his conquest. That brought in the powerful Khitans, joining up to save their hides, and by 1214 A. D. Jengis Khan had Pekin.

That the Mongols were just a ravening horde, winning by more numbers and savagery, like a totalitarian onslaught of Japanese beetles, seems to have been one of the wrong guesses of many historians and laymen. Read the British historian Bury in his study of Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire":

"It should be noticed that the Mongols embarked upon the enterprise with full knowledge of the political situation of Hungary and the condition of Poland—they had taken care to inform themselves by a well-organized system of spies; on the other hand, the Hungarians and Christian powers, like childish barbarians, knew hardly anything about their enemies."

About 30 years ago this historian, Bury, wrote a book, called "History of the Freedom of Thought." It is a book one suggests every American concerned about what's worth fighting for might profitably "read, mark, learn and inwardly digest." Most public libraries have it. Bury's remarks about the Mongol conquerors of eight hundred years have a startlingly up-to-date sound.

"It is only recently," he says, "that European history has begun to understand the successes of the Mongol army were won by consummate strategy and were not due to an overwhelming superiority of numbers. But this fact has not yet become a matter of common knowledge; the vulgar opinion which represents the Tartars as a wild horde carrying all before them solely by their multitude, and galloping through Europe without a strategic plan, rushing at all obstacles and overcoming them by sheer weight, still prevails.

"It was wonderful how punctually and effectually the arrangements of the commander were carried out in operations extending from the lower Vistula to Transylvania. Such a campaign was quite beyond the power of any European army of the time, and it was beyond the vision of any European commander."

Starting with the dawn of Sumerian culture, about 8,000 B. C., real civilizations have been knocked over by barbarians whose capacity for harm was underestimated by nice people. Neolithic man is still going strong, and the fact that he can master technology has nothing to do with human intelligence; in fact, it only makes him worse. Over here we still have a chance to prove that a civilization can be both enlightened and strong. It's the only winning combination and most of the big, bad trouble in the world comes from the failure to work it. In other words, even nice people have to know how to get tough on occasion.

OUR CHILDREN

SET HABITS CONTROL BEHAVIOR

All active life is conditioned, carried out and completed by set habits. A man does not learn and do in one gesture. It is not as easy as that. What he does is conditioned by things he did long ago, by the set habits of years.

We should keep the idea in mind as we train the children. The thing a child does today, the spirit in which he does it, the reason for his doing it, his success and failure in it, are important because the action with all its accompanying emotions is going to color his actions in time to come.

The best training is the training that sets the most good habits at the time they can be set most effectively, and that is between the day of birth and the onset of adolescence. Habits will be set and used after that time, of course, but the ones that count for the most are the early ones.

Few complaints come to school and court about the behavior of the younger children. The trouble begins with the adolescent. The complaints have a familiar pattern. He won't get up in the morning, he won't go to bed at night. He does not tell us what he is doing and gets impatient when we ask. He won't listen to us. He stays out late. We never know where he is. He won't give any money toward the house. He abuses other members of the family. We can't do anything with him. He smokes and he drinks too much. He insists upon driving the car and taking girls out in it. What can we do?

Not much now. All that is left to do is to pray. The time for the active training has passed. Certain remedial work can be tried but it is uphill work and most discouraging. The habits have set and it takes a deal of time to unset them.

First the physical examinations must be made. Then the intelligence tests given. After that, vocational tests. Then social workers, the relief squads, come to the front. They try to place this child in a new environment where he will have a chance to start anew, far from the people and the place that helped set the old and unfortunate habits. They try to find work for him, to make him self-sustaining. They try to bring him to a realization of his place in life, his duty, his musts.

Children have to realize must early in their lives. They have to set a habit of reasonable acceptance of the facts of life in their thoughts so that cooperation with others, service to others, usefulness to oneself as well as to others, a recognition of the need and the reward of plain goodness is impressed upon them. If in the first ten years of their lives they have been held to that standard there won't be any trouble about their being real people in their teens.

By Dr. Floyd W. Reeves
(Director, American Youth Commission)

American youth leaving schools and colleges to seek jobs faces a highly competitive labor market. It would be both unfair and unrealistic to say that all who desire work, and have the energy to seek it, can find jobs. The fact is, there are not enough jobs to go around.

Reeves

It takes about two years for the average boy or girl to find employment that carries with it any degree of permanence. This does not mean that most young people walk the streets for two years before obtaining their first job. It does mean that there is an enormous turnover among new workers before they find the job for which they are suited.

On a national average, one in six will be unable to find employment, and will help to swell the estimated total of 4,000,000 unemployed young people under 24 years of age, which today represents about one-third of the nation's unemployment problem.

After painting this gloomy picture, there are a number of helpful suggestions based on studies and findings of the American Youth commission, which can be of value to the boy or girl in search of work.

The first suggestion is offered more to parents than to young people, for the search for a job starts from the home. Parents should realize that the aptitudes and interests of a son or daughter may be quite different from their own, and they should not be dictatorial about occupational choice.

They should encourage vocational exploration, but should discourage wishful thinking. Most boys aspire to white collar jobs, although 70 per cent are destined to wear overalls.

Second, a boy or girl should seek vocational guidance from those qualified to give it. If they are fortunate, their school has a guidance program.

Even if an individual's school does not offer guidance, it will be wise to ask the school principal or class teacher what he believes he or she is best fitted to undertake. In the search for counsel it will also pay to make inquiries at the local Y. M. C. A. or Y. W. C. A., for many branches offer occupational guidance for youth out of school.

Third, most young persons fail to register at the local public placement agency. Creation of a network of public employment offices is one of the great social achievements of recent years, which recognizes the public's responsibility for helping bring workers and employers together.

Fourth, boys and girls unable to find employment should consider additional education. This is not always possible, but the more education one has, the better the chances are of getting a job.

Fifth, if circumstances make it impossible for a youth to continue his education without assistance, he may be eligible for the civilian conservation corps or for a National Youth administration scholarship or work project.

To know what one can do and the fields in which there are the greatest opportunities is half the battle. It gives a sense of direction, and permits a boy or girl to act with purpose. Above all, it prevents aimless drift, which is demoralizing to character.

Sunday School Lesson

LESSON FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 23

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Text: Malachi 3:7-18.

How feebly, and with what difficulty peoples and nations learn to profit by experience! The lessons that we have been studying have dealt chiefly with the Jews in exile in Babylon, and with their return from captivity to rebuild Jerusalem and their homeland. The period of the captivity was one in which spiritual vision and the sense of true values attained their very highest point.

In the loss of the things that they ought to have loved and cherished, the exiled people began to value these things at their true worth. A fervent spiritual patriotism arose among them, in which Jerusalem, "beautiful for situation," became something more than a city that they had lost. It became a symbol of spiritual life and happiness, and the poet, voicing the sentiment of his people, expressed the wish that his right hand might forget her cunning if he preferred not Jerusalem among his chief joys.

In the days of rebuilding in their homeland, despite constant attack of enemies and great dangers and privations, there was the same high note of patriotic fervor. Under unselfish, courageous and inspired leaders, the people built with vision—although there were lapses at times, and we have seen how one prophet rebuked them for their lack of zeal in building the house of God in contrast with their eagerness to provide comfortable houses for themselves.

Yet now, 100 years after the return from the exile, we find the people profiting so little from the experiences through which they had passed that apostacy has arisen. The people have backslidden into careless, and selfish, and evil ways.

The depth of their failure is evident in the intensity of the words with which the prophet, Malachi, reproves them. They have turned from the laws of God; they have robbed God in not yielding the tithes and offerings for the service of religion and for the benefit of all. A curse rests upon the nation, and the curse will remain until there is a change in their ways.

And yet, a bountiful and merciful God is anxious to pour out His blessing upon the people. "Prove me now herewith," Malachi represents Jehovah as saying, "if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

Do not these words apply with equal vividness to our own time? It is only a few years ago since we here in America were in the depth of a terrible depression. A contrite spirit seemed evident in the nation. We were ready for almost any sacrifice or to adopt any measures if we could only get out of the slump that had affected almost everything in our lives.

Yet, how quickly we have forgotten all this in the measure of recovery that has come! Human nature is much the same in every age, but fortunately God's nature is also the same in every age. There is still hope for nations where nations will turn to righteousness and truth.

Our lesson also ends on a very hopeful and vital fact, namely, the eternal distinction between right and wrong. Often, in times of despair, the distinction seems blurred, but there is a real difference between righteousness and wickedness. The destiny of humanity for weal or woe is wrapped up with humanity's choice of the one or the other.

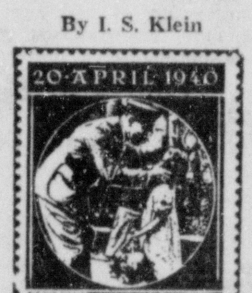
STAMP NEWS

By I. S. Klein



THREE years ago Adolf Hitler joined philately's picture gallery with the first Hitler birthday commemorative stamp. Shown above is the fourth stamp of the series, a semi-postal released April 20, 1940, celebrating the dictator's 51st birthday. The stamp pictures the Reichsfuehrer patting a little girl who is giving him a present and flowers.

Those four stamp issues cover world-shaking events in the career of the one-time Austrian corporal. Hitler's pledge to respect Belgian neutrality, given in October, 1937, was worth less than the stamps.

His 49th birthday saw Hitler as ruler of Austria. The conversations at Munich took place in the same year, and Nazis won the Sudeten area of Czechoslovakia.

A month before his 50th anniversary, the Reichsfuehrer took over the remainder of Czechoslovakia, and Lithuania surrendered Memel. April, 1939, also saw Hitler denounce the Polish non-aggression pact and the British naval agreement. Invasion of Poland brought French and British declarations of war on Sept. 3.

Hitler celebrated April, 1940, by invading Denmark and Norway.

WALLACE SPEAKS ON WORLD SETUP

Says German Victory Would Divide Globe Into Four Spheres

BENNINGTON, Vt., June 15.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace predicted today that a German victory in Europe probably would result in division of the world into four great spheres of economic and political influence.

He listed them, in the order of their power, as follows: German-controlled areas of Europe and Africa, plus Asiatic territories which once were British and French colonies; North and South America, with possibility Australia and New Zealand included; Russia; and Japan.

"If Germany wins," he said in a speech prepared for delivery at Bennington college, "she will have the complete resources of the European and African continents and a slave population of four hundred million people."

The secretary declared Hitler looked upon the western hemisphere as Germany's "eventual happy hunting ground."

"Once the leaders of the German regime have stolen the soil of Europe and subjugated its people, they hope to channel new world exports to Europe through their own corporations, bartering in such a way as to create the maximum of economic nuisance value, looking toward eventual military penetration, in anticipation of the creation of military nuisance values which will yield either loot or conquest after the European model."

To meet the German threat, the secretary said, "The magnetic current of American good will, good trade, understanding, culture, language and travel should run more largely north and south rather than east and west."

Whether or not the Germans win the present war, Wallace said, "chances are that they are on their way out as a dominating race. * * * Their philosophical extremism, their feeling of racial superiority, their repudiation of all moral standards, and their traditional antipathy to democracy will cause them eventually to decline."

CANDIDATES RENT SPACE IN HOTELS

Senator Taft Reserves 102 Rooms During Political Convention

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—(AP)—Candidates seeking the Republican presidential nomination at the national convention June 24 have reserved hotel space here ranging from a double room for Utilities Executive Wendell L. Willkie to 102 rooms for Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Taft backers, exclusive of Ohio's voting delegates, have accommodations in at least six hotels and have already opened headquarters in one.

Next to Senator Taft on the room reservation roster comes Thomas E. Dewey of New York with 78 in two hotels. Frank E. Gannett, New York state publisher, has rented the Harvard club in addition to 48 hotel rooms. Michigan's Senator Arthur Vandenberg is allotted 48 rooms in half a dozen hotels.

The assignments were disclosed today by Bayard Sharp, 27-year-old executive secretary of the convention housing committee.

Sharp, a member of the DuPont family and the Wilmington, Del., city council, said the candidates' demands "fooled me completely." He had planned a maximum of 20 rooms for each.

Five thousand rooms in hotels, college fraternity houses, apartment houses and University of Pennsylvania dormitories have been engaged for convention visitors.

Delegations from the most distant states get the choicest accommodations as a matter of hospitality and because of the length and expense of their trips to Philadelphia.

REV. HUMBLE ASKS LARGER AIRPORT

Cites Necessity To City; Here To Visit Family For Few Days

Expressing his amazement at the growth and expansion of the Twin Cities in the past 10 years, Rev. W. S. Humble, Riverside, Calif., advocated the expansion of the Monroe airport and facilities as a vital step to a greater Monroe in an interview here yesterday.

TO PREACH HERE

The Rev. W. S. Humble of Riverside, Calif., who has been visiting his brother, J. L. Humble, and [illegible] for [illegible] days, will preach at the First Baptist church, West Monroe, at the Sunday evening services.

A former native of Monroe, Rev. Humble arrived June 3 to attend a settlers' reunion at Little Star, near Grayson. At the present time he is visiting his brother, J. L. Humble, Monroe.

"Much of the rapid growth of cities in recent months can be attributed to the presence of airports in each city that offer accommodations or facilities for the landing of the larger and faster planes now being used by continental air lines," Rev. Humble said.

"I left Los Angeles, Calif., flying to Amarillo, Tex., in one of these giant ships known as 'Sky Sleepers,' but to get to Monroe I had to change to smaller ships into Dallas and thence to Monroe," he said.

"Men who have to travel over the country attending to business of their firms require comfortable and fast service that is offered only by these giant ships. When large companies plan a location for new plants they invariably choose a location that offers the best and quickest air communication service," Rev. Humble added. "For this reason, the expansion of airport facilities at Monroe is necessary if large companies are to be expected to locate branch offices here.

"The expansion of our airport facilities would be the best paying proposition that the city officials may put their hands on by the way of advertising and obtaining its future growth. The best inducement that this city can offer to manufacturers with money to invest is to obtain this airfield and make it ample in size and facilities to accommodate any continental airplane or any other transport plane that flies the continental routes," Rev. Humble stated.

"Monroe has a perfect setup with the location of the general offices of the Delta Air lines here. Monroe could be made the central point for the expansion and growth of this air company, thus obtaining better advertising than cities that are merely stop-overs for planes. I would like to see my home town waste no more time or opportunity in obtaining this at once," Rev. Humble said. "I have been over the lines from the Pacific coast and have seen somewhat of the friendly attitude of these companies toward any city or town that will respond to their efforts to improve their service and these companies have lent their full cooperation in all such efforts."

"In the last year and a half," Rev. Humble stated, "I understand that the airlines of America have set a safety record that has never been equaled by other means of communication as public carriers. Such a record is to be commended. The plane accidents that we read about in the papers have all been in the private fields of aviation and not in the lanes of the public carriers."

"I left Los Angeles Sunday night and arrived in Monroe at 2 p.m. Monday flying at approximately 15,000 feet at a speed of about four miles per minute. The trip otherwise would have taken about three days and cost only a third less. The extra time that I am able to spend here with friends and relatives is worth far more to me than the few extra dollars that it cost me to fly here."

BRAZIL'S LEADER WIRES ROOSEVELT

Speech Not 'Contradictory' To President's, He Declares

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—President Getulio Vargas of Brazil assured President Roosevelt today that a speech which he delivered early this week "can in no sense be regarded as contradictory" to that delivered by Mr. Roosevelt at Charlottesville, Va.

Vargas' address, delivered from a warship, had been interpreted in various quarters as a defense of totalitarian ideas.

President Roosevelt declared in his Charlottesville speech that the United States would help the allies with all the supplies it could spare. He added that Italy's plunge into the war was a "stab in the back" to its neighbor France.

The text of Vargas' cablegram, received by Undersecretary of State Welles through the Brazilian ambassador here yesterday:

"Speech delivered June 11 can in no sense be regarded as contradictory to that of President Roosevelt whose speech I had not read at that time.

"My speech is a warning, a call to reality, addressed to Brazilians and which might cause surprise only to persons devoted to routine, not to a far-seeing mind like that of Roosevelt, who is liberal-minded, progressive and forward-looking, crying out as the voice of the whole continent regarding perils which threaten America and who knows that Brazil will not fail him in loyalty."

GOATS AS FIREMEN

CARPINTERIA, Calif.—(AP)—Goats of this region will be mobilized to see whether their foraging will keep down the growth in firebreaks in Los Padres national forest. Annual clearing of new growth by human labor has been expensive and not entirely successful.

FIREMEN RECOVER HER FALSE TEETH

BRIDGEWATER, Miss., June 15.—(AP)—Firemen are versatile, to say the least.

An unidentified woman lost her false teeth while swimming in Lake Nippenicket. Her husband appealed to the fire department for help. Chief Arthur Rhodes called on Fireman Russell Lockyer, who donned a bathing suit and sloshed around until he recovered the choppers.

REV. HUMBLE ASKS LARGER AIRPORT

Declaring his amazement at the growth and expansion of the Twin Cities in the past 10 years, Rev. W. S. Humble, Riverside, Calif., advocated the expansion of the Monroe airport and facilities as a vital step to a greater Monroe in an interview here yesterday.

TO PREACH HERE

The Rev. W. S. Humble of Riverside, Calif., who has been visiting his brother, J. L. Humble, and old friends, for 10 days, will preach at the First Baptist church, West Monroe, at the Sunday evening services.

A former native of Monroe, Rev. Humble arrived June 9 to attend a settlers' reunion at Little Star, near Grayson. At the present time, he is visiting his brother, J. L. Humble, Monroe.

"Much of the rapid growth of cities in recent months can be attributed to the presence of airports in each city that offer accommodations or facilities for the landing of the larger and faster planes now being used by continental air lines," Rev. Humble said.

"I left Los Angeles, Calif., flying to Amarillo, Tex., on one of these giant ships known as 'Sky Sleepers,' but to get to Monroe I had to change to smaller ships into Dallas and thence to Monroe," he said.

"Men who have to travel over the country attending to business of their firms require comfortable and fast service that is offered only by these giant ships. When large companies plan a location for new plants they invariably choose a location that offers the best and quickest air communication service," Rev. Humble added. "For this reason, the expansion of airport facilities at Monroe is necessary if large companies are to be expected to locate branch offices here.

"The expansion of our airport facilities would be the best paying proposition that the city officials may put their hands on by the way of advertising and obtaining its future growth. The best inducement that this city can offer to manufacturers with money to invest is to obtain this airfield and make it ample in size and facilities to accommodate any continental airplane or any other transport plane that flies the continental routes," Rev. Humble stated.

"Monroe has a perfect setup with the location of the general offices of the Delta Air lines here. Monroe could be made the central point for the expansion and growth of this air company, thus obtaining better advertising than cities that are merely stopovers for planes. I would like to see my home town waste no more time or opportunity in obtaining this at once," Rev. Humble said. "I have been over the lines from the Pacific coast and have seen somewhat of the friendly attitude of these companies toward any city or town that will respond to their efforts to improve their service and these companies have lent their full cooperation in all such efforts."

"In the last year and a half," Rev. Humble stated, "I understand that the airlines of America have set a safety record that has never been equaled by other means of communication as public carriers. Such a record is to be commended. The plane accidents that we read about in the papers have all been in the private fields of aviation and not in the lanes of the public carriers."

"I left Los Angeles Sunday night and arrived in Monroe at 2 p.m. Monday flying at approximately 15,000 feet at a speed of about four miles per minute. The trip otherwise would have taken about three days and cost only a third less. The extra time that I am able to spend here with friends and relatives is worth far more to me than the few extra dollars that it cost me to fly here."

MONROE, PINE BLUFF IN DOUBLEHEADER TODAY

First Game Of Twin Bill Starts At 2 P. M. In Casino Park

The first game of the series between the Pine Bluff Judges and the White Sox was rained out Saturday night, but the two teams will engage in a scheduled doubleheader this afternoon, the first game starting at 2 o'clock in Casino park.

Manager Red Rollings, dubbed the funniest clown in the Cotton States league by President Emmet Harty, has promised to put on a show if there is a large turnout for the game today.

Rollings has staged his act at several ball parks and has always convulsed the crowd with laughter. He does the "jitterbug," as he calls it, shoots craps, and other comic antics. He said he would cavort only if a large crowd was present.

The Judges led the league for the first two months of the campaign, but have slipped to the fourth spot in the standings at present. They have a good ball club, however, featuring one of the best pitching staffs in the history of the league.

Pine Bluff boasts the league leading swatsman, Paul Gwin, who is slugging the apple at a .401 clip, and is the fastest player in the league on his feet. The Judges also have two new outfielders since appearing here last. Duncan and Meade both did plenty of slugging in the recent series with the White Sox at Pine Bluff.

Frenchy Larieu, third baseman, and Popeye Walker, catcher, are also slugging the ball at a merry rate.

Manager Rollings announced last night that he would start Dewey Atkins in the first game against Doug Taitt's selection of Tom Perry. The second game will probably see Fred Browning or Woody Gardner opposing Lawrence "Lefty" Hinton. All three of the Pine Bluff pitchers are righthanders and both the White Sox are lefthanders. Atkins is the ace of the Judges staff and Perry is the mainstay of the local hurling corps.

Manager Taitt has announced that Ed "Poppa" Knight would play right field for the local club in the doubleheader. Knight played his first game with the team in Greenville, Friday night, and collected a triple, double, and a single.

Monroe's White Sox are leading the race at the present by four games. Hot Springs' Bathers are a half game ahead of El Dorado, and the Oilers lead the Judges, who are in the fourth spot, by a game and a half.

Any of these four clubs, along with

PHILS, REDS SWAP ARNOVICH, RIZZO

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—(AP)—Gerry Nugent, president of the Phillies anounced tonight the club had traded Outfielder Morrie Arnovich to the Cincinnati Reds in exchange for Johnny Rizzo.

"It was a straight deal with no cash involved," Nugent said. "We feel that Rizzo is faster and has more power than Arnovich."

Arnovich led the National league in batting for more than half of the 1939 season and finished the year with a .324 average. This year he has been in a slump. His present average is .198.

Rizzo broke into the National league two years ago with the Pittsburgh Pirates. He was traded to Cincinnati early this year by Pittsburgh's new manager, Frankie Frisch.

FINNEY LEADING LEAGUE BATTERS

Looks Like 30-Year-Old Red Sox Outfielder Is In To Stay

CHICAGO, June 15.—(AP)—Lou Finney, the 30-year-old outfielder Boston purchased a year ago from Philadelphia for $7,500 has just about convinced the boys around the American League that he's in the batting race to stay.

Finney, still the batting leader with a fancy .378 mark, has been pacing the field now for three weeks and has been among the first three for the past six weeks. He gained 10 points the past week, including day games of Friday, getting five hits in nine trips to the plate.

Most of the others in the first ten look rather familiar, although there's a newcomer at the very bottom of the list. His name is Joe DiMaggio, the Yankee ace who led the league a year ago. He's making his first appearance in the top ten this week, being tied with teammate George Selkirk at .322.

In between these two and Finney are Rip Radcliff, St. Louis, .367; Roger Cramer, Boston, .352; Luke Appling, Chicago, .351; Taft Wright, Chicago, .345; Barney McCoskey, Detroit, .343; Ted Williams, Boston, .337; Ray Mack, Cleveland, 330; and Cecil Travis, Washington, .329.

There were few changes in departmental leaders. Hal Trosky, Cleveland, and Jimmy Foxx, Boston, failed to get any home runs, but still lead with 14 apiece. Foxx pushed his pacesetting runs batted in total to 50 and Hank Greenberg, Detroit, moved ahead in most triples, eight, and George Case of Washington, tops the run scorers with 43. He also shows the way in stolen bases with 13. Wright leads in total hits with 69.

Detroit's Schoolboy Rowe has the best won-lost record—four victories and no losses. Al Smith of Cleveland and Buck Newsom of Detroit have six wins and a single defeat each. Bob Feller of Cleveland, as usual, tops the strikeout department with 81.

The Red Sox show the way in team batting, having a mark of .287 and Cleveland is tops in fielding at .978. Washington and St. Louis are tied for double plays with 57 apiece.

CLAY COURTS MATCHES GET UNDER WAY TODAY

CHICAGO, June 15.—(AP)—Helen Bernhard of New York, only seeded player in the women's or men's divisions to see action, advanced easily today to the second round of the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament at the River Forest club.

Miss Bernhard, seeded second, disposed of Helen Bartavis, Chicago, 6-1, 6-1 on the opening day's program.

Dodgers Crush Reds 11-6 To Strengthen League Lead

FORCE PENNANT HOLDERS DOWN TO THIRD POSITION

Dispose Of Walters In Three Innings; Lombardi Hits Two Homers

BROOKLYN, June 15.—(AP)—Brooklyn's Marauding Dodgers shot off a murderous salvo of 14 hits today to crush the Cincinnati Reds 11 to 6, tighten their grasp on the National league lead to two full games and force the Reds down to third place.

The Dodgers disposed of Bucky Walters with two three-run clusters in the first three innings.

Cincinnati battled valiantly with an eight-hit offensive that included four home runs, two of them by Ernie Lombardi, and succeeded in routing Tex Carleton in the fourth frame, but Tot Pressnell squelched them with two-hit relief hurling for his third triumph of the season.

Babe Phelps and Pete Coscarart were the big guns in the Dodgers' bombardment. Phelps batted in four runs with a homer, a double and a single and Coscarart sparked a five-run explosion in the seventh by tripling with the bases loaded.

Phelps' homer came with one on in the first after Brooklyn already had scored on a double, a hit batsman and a double play. In the third Phelps doubled with two on and came home on another double by Dolph Camilli. Walters was removed for a pinch hitter in the fourth and Milt Shoffner and John Hutchings finished.

CUBS TROUNCE BEES

BOSTON, June 15.—(AP)—Whaling four Boston pitchers for 13 hits, the Chicago Cubs trounced the Bees 11-5 today.

Two big innings—the second and fourth—provided most of the visitors' runs.

With the bases loaded in the Chicago half of the second, after Larry French singled, Stan Hack doubled and Phil Cavaretta was hit by a pitched ball, Jimmy Gleeson cleared the bases by smashing a double to center, and then was brought home himself by Bill Nicholson's triple.

Gwin Holds Batting Lead In Cotton States League

Pine Bluff Outfielder Boasts .401 Mark But Is Closely Pressed

Tom Gwin, Pine Bluff outfielder, continued to hold his Cotton States batting lead with a neat average of .401, but he was being closely pressed by several other clouters, according to averages released Saturday by the Howe News bureau, of Chicago. The averages include games of last Sunday.

Although Monroe was topping the circuit in the standing with a comfortable lead, the Sox were sixth in team batting and fourth in team fielding. Helena led in both departments, with a mark of .323 in team batting and .953 in fielding.

Zydowski led in home runs with ten, while Jack Grantham, of Clarksdale, had hit 23 doubles to top that department and Manager Bud Clancy, of Helena, had hit eight triples for the lead in that department. Zydowski had batted in 54 runs for the lead there.

Charles Bowles, of Monroe, was credited with three victories against no defeats but the real pitching leader was Kramer, of Hot Springs, with six wins and only one loss. Tom Perry, of Monroe, followed with nine triumphs and two defeats.

MAY HAS HOTTEST BAT IN NATIONAL

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Shades of Morrie Arnovich, look who's leading the National league in hitting.

From right out of nowhere has come Merrill May, an ex-teammate of the Philadelphia Phillies of Arnovich, who led the senior circuit for the first half of last season. Arnovich was traded to the Reds today.

The 29-year-old third baseman, who only two weeks ago was plodding along with a modest .274 average, has skyrocketed to .354 and right now he has the hottest bat in the league. In the last week he made ten hits in five games to climb 33 points, sufficient to hurdle the entire "Big Ten" lineup of batters.

The climbing of this pair and Dixie Walker of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who jumped 13 points to .346, coincided with a letdown by the Giants' Hank Danning, who dropped out of first place when his average fell 13 notches to .339.

As revamped to and including Friday, the ten leading hit-makers were May, Moore, Walker, Danning, Frank Gustine, Pittsburgh, .336; Chester Ross, Boston, .327; Frank McCormick, Cincinnati, .325; Hank Leiber, Chicago, .321; Jim Gleeson, Chicago, .320; and Elbie Fletcher, Pittsburgh, .315.

There was a general realignment among the league's individual leaders. McCormick, not among the first ten hitters last week, put on a drive that also gave him the lead in total hits with 64 and runs scored with 37. He also was second in doubles with 13, two less than Joe Moore.

Johnny Mize of St. Louis continued to set the home run pace with 17 and Danning remained the leading run producer, batting in 41. Ross was tops in triples with eight and Cincinnati's Lonnie Frey held onto the base running honors with nine steals.

Two New York Giants' hurlers came to the front of the pitchers during the week after Bucky Walters of Cincinnati absorbed his second straight defeat. This left Cliff Melton and Bill Lohrman, each with six victories and one defeat, as the leading pitchers.

BOSTON RED SOX WALLOP CHICAGO SECOND STRAIGHT

Rookie Pitcher Herb Hash Holds White Sox Down To Four Hits

CHICAGO, June 15.—(AP)—Rookie Herb Hash mowed the Chicago White Sox down with four hits today to give the Boston Red Sox a 5 to 2 victory and their second straight decision of the series.

A streak of wildness in the fourth inning robbed the young right-hander of a shutout. In this frame he walked three batters and then allowed a single by Mike Tresh, which brought in the Sox only two markers. In the last five innings Hash allowed no hits and walked only one batter.

The Red Sox went ahead in the second inning on Jimmy Foxx' home run, his 15th of the season and seventh of the year against the White Sox. Another homer by Ted Williams doubled Boston's lead in the fourth, but Hash's wildness tied the score before the inning was completed.

Boston, however, wasted no time moving ahead again. In the fifth Bobby Doerr singled and scored on Roger Cramer's triple. Then Cramer scored on Lou Finney's long fly.

DETROIT, June 15.—(AP)—The Tigers clawed up the Senators in a doubleheader today, 11 to 1 and 8 to 0 and thereby jumped into second place in the American league race.

Rapping out 15 blows in the opener, among them Hank Greenberg's tenth homer of the season, the Tigers made it easy for Buck Newsom to ring up his seventh straight triumph.

First Game Of Twin Bill Starts At 2 P. M. In Casino Park

The first game of the series between the Pine Bluff Judges and the White Sox was rained out Saturday night, but the two teams will engage in a scheduled doubleheader this afternoon, the first game starting at 2 o'clock in Casino park.

Manager Red Rollings, dubbed the funniest clown in the Cotton States league by President Emmet Harty, has promised to put on a show if there is a large turnout for the game today.

Rollings has staged his act at several ball parks and has always convulsed the crowd with laughter. He does the "jitterbug," as he calls it, shoots craps, and other comic antics. He said he would cavort only if a large crowd was present.

The Judges led the league for the first two months of the campaign, but have slipped to the fourth spot in the standings at present. They have a good ball club, however, featuring one of the best pitching staffs in the history of the league.

Pine Bluff boasts the league leading swatsman, Paul Gwin, who is slugging the apple at a .401 clip, and is the fastest player in the league on his feet. The Judges also have two new outfielders since appearing here last. Duncan and Meade both did plenty of slugging in the recent series with the White Sox at Pine Bluff.

Frenchy Larieu, third baseman, and Popeye Walker, catcher, are also slugging the ball at a merry rate.

Manager Rollings announced last night that he would start Dewey Atkins in the first game against Doug Taitt's selection of Tom Perry. The second game will probably see Fred Browning or Woody Gardner opposing Lawrence "Lefty" Hinton. All three of the Pine Bluff pitchers are righthanders and both the White Sox are lefthanders. Atkins is the ace of the Judges staff and Perry is the mainstay of the local hurling corps.

Manager Taitt has announced that Ed "Poppa" Knight would play right field for the local club in the doubleheader. Knight played his first game with the team in Greenville, Friday night, and collected a triple, double, and a single.

Monroe's White Sox are leading the race at the present by four games. Hot Springs' Bathers are a half game ahead of El Dorado, and the Oilers lead the Judges, who are in the fourth spot, by a game and a half.

Any of these four clubs, along with

PHILS, REDS SWAP ARNOVICH, RIZZO

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—(AP)—Gerry Nugent, president of the Phillies announced tonight the club had traded Outfielder Morrie Arnovich to the Cincinnati Reds in exchange for Johnny Rizzo.

"It was a straight deal with no cash involved," Nugent said. "We feel that Rizzo is faster and has more power than Arnovich."

Arnovich led the National league in batting for more than half of the 1939 season and finished the year with a .324 average. This year he has been in a slump. His present average is .198.

Rizzo broke into the National league two years ago with the Pittsburgh Pirates. He was traded to Cincinnati early this year by Pittsburgh's new manager, Frankie Frisch.

FINNEY LEADING LEAGUE BATTERS

Looks Like 30-Year-Old Red Sox Outfielder Is In To Stay

CHICAGO, June 15.—(AP)—Lou Finney, the 30-year-old outfielder Boston purchased a year ago from Philadelphia for $7,500 has just about convinced the boys around the American League that he's in the batting race to stay.

Finney, still the batting leader with a fancy .378 mark, has been pacing the field now for three weeks and has been among the first three for the past six weeks. He gained 10 points the past week, including day games of Friday, getting five hits in nine trips to the plate.

Most of the others in the first ten look rather familiar, although there's a newcomer at the very bottom of the list. His name is Joe DiMaggio, the Yankee ace who led the league a year ago. He's making his first appearance in the top ten this week, being tied with teammate George Selkirk at .322.

In between these two and Finney are Rip Radcliff, St. Louis, .367; Roger Cramer, Boston, .352; Luke Appling, Chicago, .351; Taft Wright, Chicago, [illegible]; Barney McCosky, Detroit, .343; Ted Williams, Boston, .337; Ray Mack, Cleveland, .330; and Cecil Travis, Washington, .329.

There were few changes in departmental leaders. Hal Trosky, Cleveland, and Jimmy Foxx, Boston, failed to get any home runs, but still lead with 11 apiece. Foxx pushed his pace-setting runs batted in total to 50 and Hank Greenberg, Detroit, moved ahead in most triples, eight, and George Case of Washington, tops the run scorers with 43. He also shows the way in stolen bases with 13. Wright leads in total hits with 69.

Detroit's Schoolboy Rowe has the best won-lost record—four victories and no losses. Al Smith of Cleveland and Buck Newsom of Detroit have six wins and a single defeat each. Bob Feller of Cleveland, as usual, tops the strikeout department with 81.

The Red Sox show the way in team batting, having a mark of .287 and Cleveland is tops in fielding at .978. Washington and St. Louis are tied for double plays with 57 apiece.

CLAY COURTS MATCHES GET UNDER WAY TODAY

CHICAGO, June 15.—(AP)—Helen Bernhard of New York, only seeded player in the women's or men's divisions to see action, advanced easily today to the second round of the National Clay Courts Tennis tournament at the River Forest club.

Miss Bernhard, seeded second, disposed of Helen Bartavis, Chicago, 6-1, 6-1 on the opening day's program.

Blond hair contracts and expands in reaction to humidity, but the reaction of brown and red hair is scarcely noticeable.

Dodgers Crush Reds 11-6 To Strengthen League Lead

FORCE PENNANT HOLDERS DOWN TO THIRD POSITION

Dispose Of Walters In Three Innings; Lombardi Hits Two Homers

BROOKLYN, June 15.—(AP)—Brooklyn's Marauding Dodgers shot off a murderous salvo of 14 hits today to crush the Cincinnati Reds 11 to 6, tighten their grasp on the National league lead to two full games and force the Reds down to third place.

The Dodgers disposed of Bucky Walters with two three-run clusters in the first three innings.

Cincinnati battled valiantly with an eight-hit offensive that included four home runs, two of them by Ernie Lombardi, and succeeded in routing Tex Carleton in the fourth frame, but Tot Pressnell squelched them with two-hit relief hurling for his third triumph of the season.

Babe Phelps and Pete Coscarart were the big guns in the Dodgers' bombardment. Phelps batted in four runs with a homer, a double and a single and Coscarart sparked a five-run explosion in the seventh by tripling with the bases loaded.

Phelps' homer came with one on in the first after Brooklyn already had scored on a double, a hit batsman and a double play. In the third Phelps doubled with two on and came home on another double by Dolph Camilli. Walters was removed for a pinch hitter in the fourth and Milt Shoffner and John Hutchings finished.

CUBS TROUNCE BEES

BOSTON, June 15.—(AP)—Whaling four Boston pitchers for 13 hits, the Chicago Cubs trounced the Bees 11-5 today.

Two big innings—the second and fourth—provided most of the visitors' runs.

With the bases loaded in the Chicago half of the second, after Larry French singled, Stan Hack doubled and Phil Cavaretta was hit by a pitched ball, Jimmy Gleeson cleared the bases by smashing a double to center, and then was brought home himself by Bill Nicholson's triple.

Gwin Holds Batting Lead In Cotton States League

Tom Gwin, Pine Bluff outfielder, continued to hold his Cotton States batting lead with a neat average of .401, but he was being closely pressed by several other clouters, according to averages released Saturday by the Howe News bureau, of Chicago. The averages include games of last Sunday.

Although Monroe was topping the circuit in the standing with a comfortable lead, the Sox were sixth in team batting and fourth in team fielding. Helena led in both departments, with a mark of .323 in team batting and .953 in fielding.

Zydowski led in home runs with ten, while Jack Grantham, of Clarksdale, had hit 23 doubles to top that department and Manager Bud Clancy, of Helena, had hit eight triples for the lead in that department. Zydowski had batted in 54 runs for the lead there.

Charles Bowles, of Monroe, was credited with three victories against no defeats but the real pitching leader was Kramer, of Hot Springs, with six wins and only one loss. Tom Perry, of Monroe, followed with nine triumphs and two defeats.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., June 15.—(AP)—An applicant for a job on the Asheville police force gave these answers to questions in a civil service commission questionnaire:

Q—Distinguish between larceny and embezzlement.

Q—What is meant by incendiarism?

A—The state of being on fire.

MAY HAS HOTTEST BAT IN NATIONAL

From right out of nowhere has come Merrill May, an ex-teammate of the Philadelphia Phillies of Arnovich, who led the senior circuit for the first half of last season. Arnovich was traded to the Reds today.

The 29-year-old third baseman, who only two weeks ago was plodding along with a modest .274 average, has skyrocketed to .354 and right now he has the hottest bat in the league. In the last week he made ten hits in five games to climb 33 points, sufficient to hurdle the entire "Big Ten" lineup of batters.

The climbing of this pair and Dixie Walker of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who jumped 13 points to .346, coincided with a letdown by the Giants' Hank Danning, who dropped out of first place when his average fell 13 notches to .339.

As revamped to and including Friday, the ten leading hit-makers were May, Moore, Walker, Danning, Frank Gustine, Pittsburgh, .336; Chester Ross, Boston, .327; Frank McCormick, Cincinnati, .325; Hank Leiber, Chicago, .321; Jim Gleeson, Chicago, .320; and Elbie Fletcher, Pittsburgh, .315.

There was a general realignment among the league's individual leaders. McCormick, not among the first ten hitters last week, put on a drive that also gave him the lead in total hits with 64 and runs scored with 37. He also was second in doubles with 13, two less than Joe Moore.

Johnny Mize of St. Louis continued to set the home run pace with 17 and Danning remained the leading run producer, batting in 41. Ross was tops in triples with eight and Cincinnati's Lonnie Frey held onto the base running honors with nine steals.

Two New York Giants' hurlers came to the front of the pitchers during the week after Bucky Walters of Cincinnati absorbed his second straight defeat. This left Cliff Melton and Bill Lohrman, each with six victories and one defeat, as the leading pitchers.

BOSTON RED SOX WALLOP CHICAGO SECOND STRAIGHT

CHICAGO, June 15.—(AP)—Rookie Herb Hash mowed the Chicago White Sox down with four hits today to give the Boston Red Sox a 5 to 2 victory and their second straight decision of the series.

A streak of wildness in the fourth inning robbed the young right-hander of a shutout. In this frame he walked three batters and then allowed a single by Mike Tresh, which brought in the Sox only two markers. In the last five innings Hash allowed no hits and walked only one batter.

The Red Sox went ahead in the second inning on Jimmy Foxx' home run, his 15th of the season and seventh of the year against the White Sox. Another homer by Ted Williams doubled Boston's lead in the fourth, but Hash's wildness tied the score before the inning was completed.

Boston, however, wasted no time moving ahead again. In the fifth Bobby Doerr singled and scored on Roger Cramer's triple. Then Cramer scored on Lou Finney's long fly.

SHOOTS 8 UNDER PAR TO CONQUER PATTY BERG, 2 UP

Girls Halve Only 15 Of 36 Holes In Nip-And-Tuck Battle

By Henry B. Jameson

ST. LOUIS, June 15.—(AP)—Betty Jameson, the tousled Women's National Golf champion of San Antonio, Tex., burned up the Glen Echo course in 8 under par today to defeat Patty Berg, the defending champion 2 up in a thrilling 36-hole bout for the Trans-Mississippi championship.

It remained anybody's game to the seventeenth hole, where Betty won with a par 4 after Patty was forced to recover from a trap for a bogey 5. All the Texan had to do was halve the home green but Patty's resistance was completely broken by now and she overrode the green with her third shot for another bogey 6, while her opponent was in nicely for a par.

The match see-sawed back and forth all day and Betty, a tough customer in match play when her putter is working, was pretty downhearted coming up to the fifteenth one down.

But here she cracked in the most spectacular shot of the day—a chip-in from a foot off the green. She aimed for nearly two minutes then threaded the needle for a birdie three on the 351-yard hole.

They halved the sixteenth with birdie fours, but Betty was on top to stay.

The nip-and-tuck battle is best described by the fact the girls halved only 15 of the 36 holes. The other 21 were see-sawed back and forth, with neither player able to gain more than a 2 up advantage.

Patty, firing a 3 under 77, held an indecisive 1 up lead on the United States champion at the noon intermission.

Seven one-putt greens by the Minneapolis redhead helped sway the early putting duel, although Betty flipped in three from between 8 and 25 feet out.

The sturdy Texas girl, who also defeated Miss Berg in the finals of the 1937 Trans-Mississippi, came back with her sizzling putter working wonders in the afternoon and blistered the out nine with a 3 under 35 to regain a 1 up lead as they headed into the home stretch.

BOMBER IS READY TO CARVE GODOY IN 'RING PARTY'

By Sid Feder

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Joe Louis is throwing a party in Yankee stadium Thursday night to celebrate the end of the third year in his record reign as king of the fight world.

He'll have no cake to carve in the ring they're pitching out around second base. So the bomber figures he'll carve Arturo Godoy instead.

He meets the crouching Chilean for 15 rounds or less in his 11th defense of the world's heavyweight championship—an all-time total which already has doubled the "high" for successful title defenders by any of the 15 previous heavyweight champions since the Marquis of Queensbury made a science out of the art of scrambling ears.

Before him, the best of the lot in turning them back were Jim Jeffries, Jack Johnson and Jack Dempsey, who went to the post and came back winner five times each before taking on the No. 6 jinx.

Louis has planned quite a little celebration for the occasion all because he has a "mad on" against Godoy. Joe tangled with Godoy last February and, although coming off with a 15-round split decision, he was subjected to considerable ridicule for the way Godoy's crouching, "squat-tag" boxing baffled him.

"He made me look bad," Louis has explained, and, hurt as always when his pride has been touched by an opponent's unorthodox tactics, the one-time Alabama cotton-picker has wheeled out his big guns for this return go.

Godoy, on the other hand, probably is as confident a rival as Louis has ever faced. The former Chilean fisherman is convinced he took Joe's Sunday punches without getting his hair too mussed. So, now he is of the definite opinion Louis doesn't even have to show Thursday night, because he hasn't a chance to win anyway.

The betting men, however, advise Arturo the Arrogant to take off those rose-colored glasses. They've installed the Brown Bomber a 1 to 6 choice to make it two straight over the "South American way"—and even to break par for the Godoy course with an early kayo.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—War bulletin: Those Cleveland Indians are off the reservation. . . . Alex Wilson of Loyola (Chicago) is No. 1 in line for the Notre Dame track job. . . . The country's sports writers are divided on (A) whether Jimmy Demaret was justified in withdrawing from the open and (B) whether the U. S. G. A. gave Ed Oliver and the rest of the early birds a bum deal. . . . Banks M'Fadden, Clemson's great back, is about to change his mind again and stay there in a coaching job instead of playing pro ball with the Brooklyn Dodgers. . . . Joe Medwick has made the Dodgers 3-1 in the Broadway books.

All Is Chaos

Is everybody punch drunk?. . . . Goodness knows, Jack Dempsey fighting a wrestler is bad enough but now, for crying out loud, they're trying to talk up a heavyweight bout between Max and Buddy Baer. . . . Nuts to everybody.

The Yanks pay Paul Schreiber $100 a week just to pitch in batting practice. . . . So many of his pals turned out for the opening of Mickey Walker's new Kingston (N. Y.) joint they had to call out the gendarmes. . . . More than 150 youngsters from all parts of the country will be here next week for the finals in the nationwide marble king tournament. . . . Tulane and Tennessee, having a dog fight over Pat Harder, Milwaukee High football star, will not feel any better to learn he has about made up his mind to enter Marquette or Wisconsin. . . . Bill Sweeney, manager of the Hollywood ball club, and Mrs. Sweeney have adopted a baby boy.

Today's Guest Star

Harold Parrott, Brooklyn Eagle: "Curtis Davis, newest Dodger pitcher, has been in more big cash deals than J. Pierpont Morgan. . . . Since he went to the Phillies via the draft route in 1934, Davis has figured in deals that add up to $400,000. . . . No other player in baseball ever became involved with so much dough."

News In Ragtime

The Indians claim they cannot win
As long as Oscar Vitt is in
And so to oust him they begin
A real old time uprising.
And it is very sad, indeed,
To hear that Dempsey will proceed
To mingle with the wrestling breed—
Yes, that is most surprising.
Joe Medwick joins the Dodger crew
And that's good news for me and you
And means the baseball books must do
Considerable revising.

Tie This One, Boys

Frank Overmire, a southpaw, and Harry Bailey, a right-hander, pitching for Western State Teachers of Kalamazoo, Mich., turned in no-hitters in both ends of a double-header against Iowa State Teachers the other day.

RILEY TO DEFEND NEW TITLE AGAIN

Will Take On Sugi Hayamaka, From Whom He Took Belt

Russ Riley, the junior light heavyweight wrestling champion of the United States is proving to be an active champion. For the second time in as many weeks he will defend his title at the Monroe wrestling arena. His opponent is to be Sugi Hayamaka, from whom he took the title two weeks ago in a very close contest. Arrangements for the semi-final event have not been completed.

Last week Riley showed that he had everything that a champion should have when he defeated Farmer Jones, the strong lad from Arkansas. This contest, along with the one in which he took the title from Hayamaka, proved to the fans that Riley can cope with strength, speed, science and endurance.

Hayamaka has been most anxious to get this return match with Riley and the fans have been just as anxious to see it. It is very seldom that two such fine wrestlers and sports are seen in an athletic contest. Hayamaka is about as clean and scientific a wrestler as has ever shown here and the same goes for Riley.

Promoter Kallio says that next Thursday night will be merchants' night again. Four prizes will be given away.

All full paid adult tickets will entitle the holder to a free ticket to the wrestling match if the number thereon is one of the group of "lucky" numbers. Also, the person to first win four passes in this manner will be given a self winding wrist watch valued at $32.50 by a local jewelry store.

A near capacity crowd appeared at the Monroe arena to see Riley successfully defend his title against Farmer Jones last week; and a still larger crowd is predicted this week by Promoter Kallio because of this unusually good wrestling match and merchants' night.

BOMBER IS READY TO CARVE GODOY IN 'RING PARTY'

By Sid Feder

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Joe Louis is throwing a party in Yankee stadium Thursday night to celebrate the end of the third year in his record reign as king of the fight world.

He'll have no cake to carve in the ring they're pitching out around second base. So the bomber figures he'll carve Arturo Godoy instead.

He meets the crouching Chilean for 15 rounds or less in his 11th defense of the world's heavyweight championship—an all-time total which already has doubled the "high" for successful title defenders by any of the 15 previous heavyweight champions since the Marquis of Queensbury made a science out of the art of scrambling ears.

Before him, the best of the lot in turning them back were Jim Jeffries, Jack Johnson and Jack Dempsey, who went to the post and came back winner five times each before taking on the No. 6 jinx.

Louis has planned quite a little celebration for the occasion all because he has a "mad on" against Godoy. Joe tangled with Godoy last February and, although coming off with a 15-round split decision, he was subjected to considerable ridicule for the way Godoy's crouching, "squat-tag" boxing baffled him.

"He made me look bad," Louis has explained, and, hurt as always when his pride has been touched by an opponent's unorthodox tactics, the one-time Alabama cotton-picker has wheeled out his big guns for this return go.

Godoy, on the other hand, probably is as confident a rival as Louis has ever faced. The former Chilean fisherman is convinced he took Joe's Sunday punches without getting his hair too mussed. So, now he is of the definite opinion Louis doesn't even have to show Thursday night, because he hasn't a chance to win anyway.

The betting men, however, advise Arturo the Arrogant to take off those rose-colored glasses. They've installed the Brown Bomber a 1 to 6 choice to make it two straight over the "South American way"—and even to break par for the Godoy course with an early kayo.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—War bulletin: Those Cleveland Indians are off the reservation . . . Alex Wilson of Loyola (Chicago) is No. 1 on the list for the Notre Dame track job . . . His opponent will be Sugi Hayamaka, from whom he took the title two weeks ago in a [illegible] contest. A [illegible] for the semi-final event has not been completed.

Last week Riley showed that he had everything that a champion should have when he defeated Farmer Jones, the strong lad from Arkansas. This contest, along with the one in which he took the title from Hayamaka, proved to the fans that Riley can [illegible] in strength, speed, science and endurance.

Hayamaka has been most anxious to get this return match with Riley and the fans have been just as anxious to see it. It is very seldom that two such fine wrestlers and sports are seen in an athletic contest. Hayamaka is about as clean and scientific a wrestler as has ever been seen here and the same goes for Riley.

Promoter Kallin says that next Thursday night will be merchants' night again. Four prizes will be given away.

All full paid adult tickets will entitle the holder to a free ticket to the wrestling match if the number thereon is one of the group of "lucky" numbers. Also the person to first win four passes in this manner will be given a self winding wrist watch valued at $32.50 by a local jewelry store.

A near capacity crowd appeared at the Monroe arena to see Riley successfully defend his title against Farmer Jones last week and a still larger crowd is predicted this week by Promoter Kallin because of this [illegible] good wrestling match and merchants' night.

YANKS EDGE BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, June 15.—(AP)—The Yankees beat the Browns again today, but this one was a battle all the way, the world champions finally winning 7-6.

The Brownies forged into the lead in the third and held it till the eighth when the Yanks had a four run rally built around Charley Keller's 10th home run of the season.

Then Chet Laabs delivered a pinch homer with Johnny Berardino on base to put the Browns in the lead.

In the ninth the Yanks filled the bases and then Jack Kramer walked Bill Dickey to force in the tying run. Joe DiMaggio scored the winning marker on Joe Gordon's long fly.

HUMAN CHAIN WADES TO SAFETY

Here's one of the first original pictures to reach the United States, showing the evacuation of Dunkerque, France, by allied soldiers who escaped from the German trap in Flanders. British soldiers form a human chain to wade through shallow water to the rescue ship waiting to take them to England. Others can be seen still on the beach which was under almost constant fire by German planes. The British claim 335,000 allied troops were rescued from the pocket in Flanders with Dunkerque as the main exit.

MEETING CALLED BY PARISH UNIT

Local plans for war relief were perfected by the board of directors of the Ouachita parish chapter of the American Red Cross at a meeting Friday.

A patriotic mass meeting was decided upon by the board to take place Sunday, June 23, at 7:30 p.m. A committee was named to contact the various ministers of the Monroe churches in an effort to have the regular Sunday evening services cancelled, so that the people might attend the meeting.

A. V. Miller, S. A. Moss and George D. Holland were named to the committee.

About 200 ladies have offered their services to the Red Cross sewing room and others are calling daily. The sewing room is busily engaged in the making of clothing for the war refugees.

Contributions for the war relief fund reached $4,262 by Friday afternoon.

BOMB BLAST CAUSES MIXUP OF TWO BABIES

THE HAGUE, June 15.—(AP)—Two tearful mothers, each claiming a baby boy whose parentage was obscured in the confusion of a bomb explosion in a maternity home during the conquest of the Netherlands, asked a local court to make a "judgment of solomon" today.

The plaintiff said that on May 10, when a bomb struck the home, she handed her 10-day-old baby out a window to a pedestrian who took it to an air raid shelter. She accused the defendant of taking possession of it there.

SQUIRRELS GIVEN MONROE FIREMEN

Edgar Sand, 502 McKindley avenue, presented the members of the Monroe fire department with three squirrels last week and Captain Tom Dupree says that he needs some pecans to feed them.

The boys at the station rigged up a house for the squirrels out of a nail keg and some rags and the animals are quite at home, Captain Dupree said.

Anyone having any pecans to spare are requested to notify the fire station and someone will come out to get them. With the addition of these squirrels the firemen have a total of 11 pets to feed and care for.

TWINS ARE SEPARATED BY ARMY ENLISTMENT

KANSAS CITY, June 15.—(AP)—The army separated the 20-year-old Breyfogle twins, Stanley and Vance of Overland Park, Kas., today.

Stanley was en route to Camp Ord, near Monterey, Calif., but Vance stayed behind for an operation to correct a minor physical defect.

"As soon as I get there," promised Stanley, "I'm going to hunt up the officer who has the say-so and ask him to hold a place open for Vance in my regiment."

LORENZO SMITH GOES BACK TO CHICAGO

Lorenzo Smith, formerly of Monroe, returned to Chicago Saturday to resume final rehearsals in his dramatic school at the Grego studios. Mr. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Smith of West Monroe.

On June 23 Mr. Smith will present classes of children from the ages of 5 to 15 in the auditorium of a theater on Michigan boulevard in the group of one and three-act plays. Mr. Smith is using as one of the child plays, "A Radio Broadcast," one he wrote last year.

FRENCH 'FLOOD' PROVES FUTILE

Attempt To Trap German Troops Along Rhine Is In Vain

BASEL, Switzerland, June 15.—(AP)—French efforts to flood the Germans out of the foothold they had secured on the French side of the Rhine, 40 miles north of Basel, were reported tonight to have failed.

The French dynamited a great dam a few miles from Basel, apparently hoping the flood waters would frustrate the German attack across the river, but the Nazis retained their position.

Details were lacking here on the means used by the Germans to span the river, but even the French confirmed a German report that the Nazi troops had accomplished what military experts heretofore called a "suicidal action."

The place they chose for the crossing was between the German village of Briesach and the French village of Neuf-Breisach on opposite shores of the Rhine at one of its narrowest points.

Tonight French and German artillery fired sporadically at forts north of Basel while the sound of incessant firing came from the Breisach region, where a tremendous battle was raging. The French rushed reserves into the action in their attempt to blast the Germans out of their foothold on the west bank of the river.

Roosevelt Comment

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Two members of the senate foreign relations committee placed diametrically opposite interpretations today on President Roosevelt's statement to Premier Reynaud of France regarding military commitments.

The president, after promising France redoubled American efforts to furnish military supplies, concluded his message with this statement:

"I know that you will understand that these statements carry with them no implication of military commitments. Only congress can make such commitments."

Chairman Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, said this assertion "should remove any doubt that the president has any intention of attempting to lead the United States into the European war."

On the other hand, Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, said he thought the president's statement carried the implication that if the president had the power to order troops sent to Europe more than material resources might be made available to the Allies.

"Why this language?" Nye asked. "'The French must know where the power to declare war lies in the United States. Why did he use this language? It couldn't be for any other reason than to convey to France the idea that if the power to declare war rested with the president rather than congress, that there would be more than material aid going to the Allies.

"I hope that paragraph doesn't mean: 'After all, congress is still in session.'"

Chairman Bloom, Democrat, New York, of the house foreign affairs committee took the same view that Pittman did, asserting that the president's statement "should prove conclusively to the people who have thought the president was trying to get us into war that there was no such thought in his mind."

Other comment:

Representative Jenkins, Republican, Ohio: "While all of us sympathize sincerely with the Allies, we must not become involved in their war."

Representative White, Democrat, Idaho: "My feeling is that we can best serve the Allies by maintaining an impartial attitude, remaining neutral and helping to restore order when the conflict is over."

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming: "It is obviously and clearly a disavowal of any military intentions in the European war."

Senator Lee, Democrat, Oklahoma: "The president is saying that we will redouble our efforts to provide materials but that he does not indicate any military intervention. I approve of the statement because, by helping the Allies, we are putting our industry on a military basis and giving ourselves more time to prepare."

Senator Holt, Democrat, West Virginia: "The president only modified his commitments by one word—'military.' It would be interesting to know all the commitments that have been made."

New York

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced 11 to 16 points today. Active trade covering in near months furnished chief support. This buying reflected heavy turnover in textiles during the past week.

Wall Street and local professionals also bought on the strength of securities while offerings were limited to scattered hedging and profit taking.

Some buying appeared on Washington reports that the house-senate committee approved amendment to agriculture bill for distribution of parity payments on the basis of 100 per cent instead of 75. Digestion of the report, however, disclosed the fact that less money would be available to cotton at the higher basis than heretofore.

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—With Pitcher Hal Schumacher and Catcher Harry Danning providing all the fireworks, the New York Giants went into second place in the National league today on the wings of a 12-1 shellacking of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Schumacher spun a five hitter, fanned seven and had a perfect day at the plate—three singles and two walks, while Danning hit for the cycle, getting a singe, double, triple and homer in his last four times at the plate.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Steels and other assorted war stock extended their recovery push in today's market but many issues had difficulty following through.

As in the preceding session, optimistic home business prospects counteracted further depressing war bulletins.

Transfers were around 550,000 shares.

Bullish forces continued to pin their hopes on the big defense spending program which was expected to seep into numerous industries.

Favored stocks most of the day included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Dow Chemical, Westinghouse, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, International Paper and Power preferred, Loft, American Car and Foundry, Baldwin Locomotive, Kennecott, American Smelting, Consolidated Edison and Santa Fe.

Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft and Sperry were backward. Possible cancellation of plane orders by France was a factor here. While it was thought likely the United States would take practically all available production, it was believed profit margins would be narrower.

General Motors lagged, although early June retail sales of new cars was put at some 20 per cent larger than in the like period last year. Steels were aided by indications mill operations in some sections would hit 90 per cent of capacity next week.

Bonds improved, with Italian dollar loans strong. Commodities were a shade mixed. "Free" sterling gave ground.

Given modest lifts in the curb were Aluminum, Ltd., American Gas, Gulf Oil, Phoenix Securities and Humble Oil.

YANKS EDGE BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, June 15.—(AP)—The Yankees beat the Browns again today, but this one was a battle all the way, the world champions finally winning 7-6.

The Brownies forged into the lead in the third and held it till the eighth when the Yanks had a four run rally built around Charley Keller's 10th home run of the season.

Then Chet Laabs delivered a pinch homer with Johnny Berardino on base to put the Browns in the lead.

In the ninth the Yanks filled the bases and then Jack Kramer walked Bill Dickey to force in the tying run. Joe DiMaggio scored the winning marker on Joe Gordon's long fly.

HUMAN CHAIN WADES TO SAFETY

Here's one of the first original pictures to reach the United States, showing the evacuation of Dunkerque, France, by allied soldiers who escaped from the German trap in Flanders. British soldiers form a human chain to wade through shallow water to the rescue ship waiting to take them to England. Others can be seen still on the beach which was under almost constant fire by German planes. The British claim 335,000 allied troops were rescued from the pocket in Flanders with Dunkerque as the main exit.

MEETING CALLED BY PARISH UNIT

Local plans for war relief were perfected by the board of directors of the Ouachita parish chapter of the American Red Cross at a meeting Friday.

A patriotic mass meeting was decided upon by the board to take place Sunday, June 23, at 7:30 p.m. A committee was named to contact the various ministers of the Monroe churches in an effort to have the regular Sunday evening services cancelled, so that the people might attend the meeting.

A. V. Miller, S. A. Moss and George D. Holland were named to the committee.

About 200 ladies have offered their services to the Red Cross sewing room and others are calling daily. The sewing room is busily engaged in the making of clothing for the war refugees.

Contributions for the war relief fund reached $1,262 by Friday afternoon.

BOMB BLAST CAUSES MIXUP OF TWO BABIES

THE HAGUE, June 15.—(AP)—Two tearful mothers, each claiming a baby boy whose parentage was obscured in the confusion of a bomb explosion in a maternity home during the conquest of the Netherlands, asked a local court to make a "judgment of solomon" today.

The plaintiff said that on May 10, when a bomb struck the home, she handed her 10-day-old baby out a window to a pedestrian who took it to an air raid shelter. She accused the defendant of taking possession of it there.

BASEL, Switzerland, June 15.—(AP)—French efforts to flood the Germans out of the foothold they had secured on the French side of the Rhine, 40 miles north of Basel, were reported tonight to have failed.

The French dynamited a great dam a few miles from Basel, apparently hoping the flood waters would frustrate the German attack across the river, but the Nazis retained their position.

Details were lacking here on the means used by the Germans to span the river, but even the French confirmed a German report that the Nazi troops had accomplished what military experts heretofore called a "suicidal action."

The place they chose for the crossing was between the German village of Briesach and the French village of Neuf-Breisach on opposite shores of the Rhine at one of its narrowest points.

Tonight French and German artillery fired sporadically at forts north of Basel while the sound of incessant firing came from the Breisach region, where a tremendous battle was raging. The French rushed reserves into the action in their attempt to blast the Germans out of their foothold on the west bank of the river.

Roosevelt Comment

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Two members of the senate foreign relations committee placed diametrically opposite interpretations today on President Roosevelt's statement to Premier Reynaud of France regarding military commitments.

The president, after promising France redoubled American efforts to furnish military supplies, concluded his message with this statement:

"I know that you will understand that these statements carry with them no implication of military commitments. Only congress can make such commitments."

Chairman Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, said this assertion "should remove any doubt that the president has any intention of attempting to lead the United States into the European war."

On the other hand, Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, said he thought the president's statement carried the implication that if the president had the power to order troops sent to Europe more than material resources might be made available to the Allies.

"Why this language?" Nye asked. "The French must know where the power to declare war lies in the United States. Why did he use this language? It couldn't be for any other reason than to convey to France the idea that if the power to declare war rested with the president rather than congress, that there would be more than material aid going to the Allies.

"I hope that paragraph doesn't mean: 'After all, congress is still in session.'"

Chairman Bloom, Democrat, New York, of the house foreign affairs committee took the same view that Pittman did, asserting that the president's statement "should prove conclusively to the people who have thought the president was trying to get us into war that there was no such thought in his mind."

Other comment:

Representative Jenkins, Republican, Ohio: "While all of us sympathize sincerely with the Allies, we must not become involved in their war."

Representative White, Democrat, Idaho: "My feeling is that we can best serve the Allies by maintaining an impartial attitude, remaining neutral and helping to restore order when the conflict is over."

Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming: "It is obviously and clearly a disavowal of any military intentions in the European war."

Senator Lee, Democrat, Oklahoma: "The president is saying that we will redouble our efforts to provide materials but that he does not indicate any military intervention. I approve of the statement because, by helping the Allies, we are putting our industry on a military basis and giving ourselves more time to prepare."

Senator Holt, Democrat, West Virginia: "The president only modified his commitments by one word—'military.' It would be interesting to know all the commitments that have been made."

New York

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced 11 to 16 points today. Active trade covering in near months furnished chief support. This buying reflected heavy turnover in textiles during the past week.

Wall Street and local professionals also bought on the strength of securities while offerings were limited to scattered hedging and profit taking.

Some buying appeared on Washington reports that the house-senate committee approved amendment to agriculture bill for distribution of parity payments on the basis of 100 per cent instead of 75. Digestion of the report, however, disclosed the fact that less money would be available to cotton at the higher basis than heretofore.

GIANTS WHIP PIRATES

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—With Pitcher Hal Schumacher and Catcher Harry Danning providing all the fireworks, the New York Giants went into second place in the National league today on the wings of a 12-1 shellacking of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Schumacher spun a five hitter, fanned seven and had a perfect day at the plate—three singles and two walks, while Danning hit for the cycle, getting a singe, double, triple and homer in his last four times at the plate.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, June 15—(AP)—Steels and other assorted war stock extended their recovery push in today's market but many issues had difficulty following through.

As in the preceding session, optimistic home business prospects counteracted further depressing war bulletins.

Transfers were around 550,000 shares.

Bullish forces continued to pin their hopes on the big defense spending program which was expected to seep into numerous industries.

Favored stocks most of the day included United States Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Dow Chemical, Westinghouse, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, International Paper and Power preferred, Loft, American Car and Foundry, Baldwin Locomotive, Kennecott, American Smelting, Consolidated Edison and Santa Fe.

Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft and Sperry were backward. Possible cancellation of plane orders by France was a factor here. While it was thought likely the United States would take practically all available production, it was believed profit margins would be narrower.

General Motors lagged, although early June retail sales of new cars was put at some 20 per cent larger than in the like period last year. Steels were aided by indications mill operations in some sections would hit 90 per cent of capacity next week.

Bonds improved, with Italian dollar loans strong. Commodities were a shade mixed. "Free" sterling gave ground.

Dawn Naval Attack On Genoa Is Reported By High Command

By Richard G. Massock

ROME, June 15.—(AP)—A dawn naval attack on Genoa in which the French lost a destroyer, and the occupation of French territory on the Alpine frontier were reported today by the Italian high command.

The Italian advance across the frontier, experts indicated, was part of the plan for German and Italian soldiers to break the last French resistance after the fall of Paris. The high command said that "some localities beyond the border" were occupied.

The Fascist press hailed as a heroic naval feat the sinking by an old torpedo boat, the 967-ton Calatafimi, of a French destroyer which sailed with eight other French warships to bombard Genoa and the Ligurian riviera.

Italians said the attack of the torpedo boat and heavy fire from coastal batteries drove off the French warships but not until three persons were killed and 12 wounded.

Another destroyer was reported damaged by a torpedo from the Calatafimi.

The Genoa naval raid casualties were among 10 civilians killed and 53 wounded during the last few days in naval and air raids on Turin and the port cities of Genoa, Savona, Imperia and Venice.

Italian bombers continued their attacks upon the British naval base on the island on Malta in the eastern Mediterranean and upon the British air and naval base at Aden, just east of Italian Somaliland.

Spirited fighting on the Egyptian-Libyan frontier was reported, the Italians declaring British troops attacked the Libyan frontier garrisons from Egypt.

(The British war office reported the capture of fort near the Egyptian-Libyan frontier, with four officers and 100 troops taken prisoner, and the surrender to the British of the Italian fort Maddalena, in the same area.)

(A British communique from Cairo said that Italian bombers attacked frontier posts held by the Egyptians at Shagga and Weshka. This apparently fell within the terms of Egypt's warning to Italy that she would enter the war if Italy made air raids on Egyptian military objectives. Informed circles in Alexandria said they could not see how Egypt could remain out of the conflict much longer.)

Egypt's position was put before Italy today by the Egyptian minister to Rome. Egypt has severed diplomatic relations with Italy.

SON HELD IN ASSAULT ON 'MARRYING JUSTICE'

SHREVEPORT, La., June 15.—(AP)—Robert Sapp, 32, of Bossier City, son of W. B. Sapp, 60, justice of the peace and known here as the "marrying" justice, is under indictment at Benton, Bossier parish, on charges of kidnaping and assaulting his father. The case was presented to the grand jury through District Attorney Robert F. Kennon. Young Sapp is being held in jail.

The charges, according to Steve Norris, deputy sheriff, grew out of a family quarrel. Young Sapp is alleged to have been forced by his son to accompany him from the justice's office to the home of Mrs. Sapp and later to another son's home, Porter Sapp, near Koran. An altercation is said to have occurred and the elder Sapp attacked but not seriously injured.

PROTECT ORLEANS FRENCH QUARTER

New Ordinance Becomes Effective, Forbidding Destruction

NEW ORLEANS, June 15.—(AP)—The protective framework of a far reaching city ordinance designed to save and restore New Orleans most famous landmark—the French quarter—today was thrown about that section of the city known to tourists throughout the world.

The ordinance — forbidding any changes, moderization, painting or modification of any edifice in the quarter without specific permit—climaxed a long fight by civic groups seeking to preserve the quaint old world atmosphere of the quarter, also wildely known as the "Vieux Carre" (old square).

Stiff fines and jail sentences for each violation were provided in the new city ordinance, which stipulates that within three years all neon signs and others out of keeping with the quarter atmosphere must go along with flood lighting of building fronts and more than one sign to a building.

The French quarter in reality spreads over 66 city blocks, and was the original site of the barricaded settlement founded in the swamp here by the French 232 years ago. Some of the present buildings date from about 1800 when the last big fire swept the zone, while most of the other edifices are from 75 to more than 100 years old. Many are famous for their picturesque iron railings and balconies overlooking narrow streets.

The ordinance is said to be unique in this country, comparable with laws of Paris and other European cities designed to safeguard architectural treasures.

The fight became hot last year when an investor started to destroy a prized old building in order to install a parking lot. The Vieux Carre Property Owners association and other groups carried the matter into court, restraining the action until an ordinance could be drawn to protect the old French and Spanish architecture of the quarter—the mecca of every arriving visitor.

The advent of the new state administration here last month following defeat of the old Long administration paved the way for adoption of the ordinance by the city council here this week. It goes into effect at once, setting up a commission to rule on every suggested change throughout the district.

FARMERS WILL SHARE IN POOL ON BENEFITS

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Farmers who cooperate with federal crop control programs initiated during the next 12 months will be entitled to share in a $698,535,000 benefit-payment pool voted by congress.

Whether those programs will call for further curtailment or expansion in production will depend, officials said, on international developments. Because the war has shut off many foreign markets, this country has unusually heavy surpluses in most food and fiber crops.

BRITAIN RAISES WAR STRENGTH

Loss Of Third Cruiser Is Announced By England's Leaders

LONDON, June 15.—(AP)—Britain increased her army and air force today, pledged a fight to the last drop of blood, and announced the loss of a third cruiser, a 4,180-ton Calypso.

Reuters (British news agency) reported Allied army leaders have come to "strategic decisions of great moment" and predicted that "the next 24 hours" would prove the climax of the fight in France.

One officer and 38 sailors of the old 1917 antiaircraft cruiser Calypso were reported lost when she sank in the Mediterranean torpedoed by an Italian submarine.

Loss of two trawlers, the Myrtle and Ocean Sunlight, was acknowledged at the same time.

Registration of Britain's next war class, 300,000 men of 28 years, was started. That many more of 29 years will be called June 22 to bring to approximately 2,800,000 the number summoned to the colors.

Volunteers were sought for the air corps—men 18 to 28 for pilot training, and from 18 to 32 as radio operators and observers.

Spokesmen who said the week had been the "blackest in history" for Britain and France declared that neither country would quit—"whatever happens." They ascribed reports of a French separate peace to German origin, and said they were false.

While London newspapers railed at former British leadership for "complacency" and "fantastic unpreparedness," an official British radio commentator said "the prospects of American intervention" more than counterbalanced the events of this "blackest week in history" for Britain and France.

British official circles described the withdrawal of the French from Paris as "a military, not a political decision," and predicted that France would continue to fight. Regardless of the outcome, however, they declared Britain is in the war to a finish.

Harold Nicolson, parliamentary secretary of the ministry of information, told a Leicester political meeting that the "main mass of the French army is unbroken."

Nicolson asserted that "this war will be won" on the seas and in the air "so soon as unlimited resources of the British empire and of the Americas can be mobilized to turn the scale."

He predicted that Hitler would be unable to compete with these resources and would "turn and twist in the hope of inducing this country and her allies to make peace."

ATLANTA, June 15.—(AP)—A group of this city's business, civic and religious leaders declared today, "We feel that there is grave danger of adopting toward aliens, non-conformists, and minority groups attitudes which are more like those which prevail in the aggressor states than like those upon which America has stood."

In a statement signed by some 30 ministers, educators, civic workers and business men, the group appealed for preservation of civil rights despite the strain of preparations for national defense.

U. S. DEPARTMENT PROBING CONSULS

Secretary Hull Reveals Investigation During Press Conference

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Secretary Hull disclosed today that the government was investigating reports bearing upon the conduct of Italian consular officials in the United States.

The state department chief made the disclosure at a press conference when asked for comment on the objection registered with him yesterday by the Italian ambassador against reports that the consular officials were engaging in pro-Fascist activity.

The diplomat, Prince Ascanio Colonna, handed him a note, Hull said, which was similar in content to a statement which the Italian embassy subsequently gave to the press.

The press statement asserted that the consuls "have always strictly limited their activities to their legal consular functions" and have refrained from all political activity and "so-called un-American activities."

The facts will show whether there is any truth to the reports about the consular officials, Hull declared.

Touchstones See Son Graduate At Virginia

Monroe Family Hears President's Thrilling Speech; Many Working To Aid Red Cross Campaign

By Eve C. Bradford

GOOD morning, father dear. This is your day. Are you feeling sentimental? Or a trifle embarrassed or a soupcon cynical? Regardless of how you feel about all this fuss, the day is yours, and the entire family suddenly realizes what it means to have some one who is trustworthy and reliable at the head of things. In the eyes of young sons, every day is Father's Day. In the simple trusting eyes of the adolescent there is no man in the world quite like his Dad. None is so generous, so endowed with manly virtues. The rest of the family can shower you with gifts, turn over the Sunday paper before it has been reduced to shambles and shower you with attentions, but to young sons you are, today as always, the most wonderful man in the world.

There is one Monroe father whose heart swells with pride today. He is H. K. Touchstone. His son, Kirt Touchstone, Jr., was among those stalwart young men who were graduated last week from the University of Virginia. The entire Touchstone family was present for commencement ceremonies and, incidentally, was among those representative American families who listened to the stirring message of President Roosevelt, when he addressed the young students. Patriotism flamed high in the breasts of not only those who were gathered on the great campus at the University of Virginia for this thrilling speech but in the breast of every red-blooded American who listened over the radio.

Speaking of the European war reminds one of the prophetic writing of Mother Shipton in 1510. It reads: "When pictures look alive with movements free, when ships like fishes swim the sea, when men, outstripping birds can scour the sky, then half the world deep-drenched in blood, shall die."

The letter that Harry Granary wrote from Paris to his mother, Blanche Granary, last spring was far different from the one he wrote last week. In the early spring he wrote of meeting the Duke and Duchess of Windsor at a fashionable restaurant in Paris. When they discovered that he was an American, they invited him to dine with them. He spoke of the verve, the charm of the Duchess and of her gaiety on this occasion. Now all is changed—gloom has settled down on their world, and those who just a few months ago were pleasure-bent are now giving all their time to war charities, Mr. Granary included.

Monroe people back from New York speak of the city's transformation. Fifth avenue might be Piccadilly, so heavy are the English accents. New York, for the time being, they say, is almost a British town, crowded with refugees of all kinds, and organized to the teeth for the benefit of the British charities. The shops and theaters are swarming with travelers.

Betty and Bernard Biedenharn and Margaret and Harold Dixon, just back from New York, found the city unlike the place they had always known. The very atmosphere seemed charged with dynamite and there was a feverish excitement everywhere.

The past week was a full week and an interesting one because it had a little of everything in it, including Red Cross. Most organizations are thinking and doing Red Cross now that the club year is over, and there is a greater seriousness about Red Cross work than ever was manifested in club programs. Women seem to find time to do a little sewing or knitting each week even though many of them thought they would never find time for such prosaic work. Women who work in business houses are just as intent on all the present duties of citizenship as are the others but they haven't the time to devote to the work. However, if a crisis occurs and night sewing is necessary, they will be the first to offer their services. Some one has said that if you wish a thing done go to a busy person. Never ask those who idle away their time.

We never knew how utterly lovely and how cool-as-a-breeze-looking cotton frocks could be until we saw Nan Buckner, Carrie Jo Hill, Virginia Thompson, Mary Coleman, Nancy Standley, Mildred Breard, Sara Cole Morrison, Sarabeth Parkes and Winifred Braswell step down the runway in gaily-colored, washable frocks. It was all in the name of charity, this style revue, and society was out en masse for a carefree hour away from radio war talk. Members of the Junior Charity League have their own little battleground at this moment. They are fighting to keep their heads above the financial waters that threaten to engulf them. They must have funds to carry on their work at the free baby clinic, so they staged a summer-time style revue, and a neat little sum was realized—enough to calm the troubled waters just a trifle. All the ex-presidents were out to do their bit by serving refreshments during the social interiude. Passing trays of sandwiches were Suzanne Kellogg, Louise Seymour, Mary Black, Mary Lee Milam, Eleanor Faulk, Adrienne Gaston, Lois Bernstein, Sue Stubbs and Mayme Davis.

The marriage vows were exchanged before an improvised altar of hydrangeas and ferns, flanked by baskets of garden flowers.

Mrs. J. W. Summerlin played "Because" and "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. C. E. Gay, who played the violin. The traditional wedding marches were played for the professional and recessional and during the ceremony "Annie Laurie" was softly played by the bride's aunt, Mrs. J. A. Marsales of Athens, La.

Mrs. Merritt De Bellevue of Crowley, La., sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and Miss Evelyn Griffis, another sister, was the bride's maid of honor.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely sailor blue model with blue and white accessories, and a corsage of white roses and lilies of the valley.

A June wedding characterized by charming simplicity, and one in which the affectionate interest of friends is centered, was that of Miss Cecile McIntosh Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Smith of West Monroe, and Wayne Stanard Wamsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wamsley of this, June 11, at the Frist Presbyterian church with the pastor, Reverend Ernest Holloway, officiating.

A delightful setting for the ceremony, cool and summery, was created by flocks of Shasta daisies against a background of woodwardia ferns. White gladioli overflowed from tall white wrought iron standards forming an enclosure for the bride and bridegroom and their attendants.

While the guests were being seated by the ushers, Lorenzo Smith and Garland Shell, the organist, Leon Hammond, and the soloist, Miss Johnette Register, and the violinist, W. D. Wamsley, rendered a pre-nuptial concert.

The maid of honor, Miss Arlene Scruggs of Paris, Tenn., wore a canary yellow mousseline model with square cut neck, puffed sleeves and long full skirt.

The bridegroom was attended by Jack May.

Standards overflowing with pink and white gladioli were placed at vantage points in the reception suite and in the dining room, where the wedding cake, centering the bride's table, was placed. The cake, beautifully embossed, and presented to the bride by Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, was cut by the bride before she changed her wedding gown for a smart tailleur of beige crepe with Hawaiian brown accessories and an off-the-face hat of brown.

Frosted fruit frappe was served to the guests by Mrs. Harry Moore and Miss Kathleen Mize from a crystal bowl placed at one end of the refreshment table.

The beautiful wedding gifts were on display in a room set apart for this purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. Wamsley are spending their honeymoon on the gulf coast, and after their return will be at home on DeSiard road.

The bride is a graduate of Northeast Junior college and the Louisiana State Normal, and is a member of the Calhoun High school faculty. Mr. Wamsley is a graduate of Neville High school, Northeast Junior college and Tri-State college, Indiana.

Mrs. J. W. Summerlin played "Because" and "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. C. E. Gay, who played the violin. The traditional wedding marches were played for the professional and recessional and during the ceremony "Annie Laurie" was softly played by the bride's aunt, Mrs. J. A. Marsales of Athens, La.

A June wedding characterized by charming simplicity, and one in which the affectionate interest of friends is centered, was that of Miss Cecile McIntosh Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Smith of West Monroe, and Wayne Stanard Wamsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wamsley of this, June 11, at the Frist Presbyterian church with the pastor, Reverend Ernest Holloway, officiating.

A delightful setting for the ceremony, cool and summery, was created by flocks of Shasta daisies against a background of woodwardia ferns. White gladioli overflowed from tall white wrought iron standards forming an enclosure for the bride and bridegroom and their attendants.

While the guests were being seated by the ushers, Lorenzo Smith and Garland Shell, the organist, Leon Hammond, and the soloist, Miss Johnette Register, and the violinist, W. D. Wamsley, rendered a pre-nuptial concert.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Harry Moore, wore a poudre blue chiffon, floor length model with tight fitting bodice and short puffed sleeves. She carried a bouquet of Shasta daisies with long lengths of blue satin ribbons.

The maid of honor, Miss Arlene Scruggs of Paris, Tenn., wore a canary yellow mousseline model with square cut neck, puffed sleeves and long full skirt.

The bridegroom was attended by Jack May.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a picturesque, summery gown of white marquisette trimmed with rows of Valenciennes lace. A finger-tip veil of tulle was caught to the hair with a chaplet of orange blossoms. She wore a beautiful cameo locket, a gift from her mother. An ivory prayer book graced with a cluster of valley lilies and sweetheart roses was carried.

Standards overflowing with pink and white gladioli were placed at vantage points in the reception suite and in the dining room, where the wedding cake, centering the bride's table, was placed. The cake, beautifully embossed, and presented to the bride by Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, was cut by the bride before she changed her wedding gown for a smart tailleur of beige crepe with Hawaiian brown accessories and an off-the-face hat of brown.

Frosted fruit frappe was served to the guests by Mrs. Harry Moore and Miss Kathleen Mize from a crystal bowl placed at one end of the refreshment table.

The beautiful wedding gifts were on display in a room set apart for this purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. Wamsley are spending their honeymoon on the gulf coast, and after their return will be at home on DeSiard road.

The bride is a graduate of Northeast Junior college and the Louisiana State Normal, and is a member of the Calhoun High school faculty. Mr. Wamsley is a graduate of Neville High school, Northeast Junior college and Tri-State college, Indiana.

The luncheon on the roof of the Virginia hotel with Mrs. John Breard and Mrs. Henry Blanks, hostesses, was noted for its distinctive features.

Miss Faulk's place at the beautifully appointed, silver serviced table, was marked with an exquisite corsage. Nosegays for each guest was a lovely feature.

Enjoying the faultlessly served luncheon were: Miss Faulk and her mother and sister, Mrs. Frances Faulk, Miss Barbara Faulk and Miss Eleanor Colbert, Miss Roberta Neal, Miss Dorothy Graves, Miss Virginia Earle Kersh, Miss Doris Reid, Miss Elaine Chalin and Mrs. James Standley, Jr.

Mrs. C. E. Faulk's luncheon in the Cameo room of the Virginia hotel was marked by perfection of detail. The flowers forming the table's central decor were from Mrs. Faulk's garden, and were arranged with exceeding artistry.

While coffee was being served, Mrs. Faulk for diversion, requested each guest to write her favorite recipe in a book provided for this purpose, and later presented it to Miss Faulk.

The guests, in addition to Miss Faulk were: Mrs. Frances Faulk, Miss Barbara Faulk, Miss Nan Buckner, Miss James Standley, Jr., Mrs. Charles Moody, Miss Virginia Earle Kersh, Miss Ellen Hale, Miss Doris Reid, Miss Marjorie Farmer, Miss Dorothy Graves, Miss Jane McKenzie, Miss Eleanor Colbert and Miss Eleanor Faulk.

A linen shower with Miss Virginia Earle Kersh and Miss Jane McKenzie, hostesses at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McKenzie, was a gracious compliment extended Miss Faulk.

Bridge was introduced by the hostesses during the afternoon and at the conclusion of the games they presented Miss Faulk and Miss Betty Reily with sets of after-dinner coffee cups for high score.

Handsome linens, wrapped in crisp white tissue with cards attached, were presented to Miss Faulk during the conversational hour following the games of bridge.

A delicious salad course was served at the linen-covered tables to: Miss Faulk, Miss Barbara Faulk, Miss Libby Haynes, Miss Eleanor Colbert, Miss Mary Louise Fudickar, Miss Betty Reily, Miss Marjorie Farmer, Miss Ellen Hale, Miss Frances Smith, Miss Nan Buckner, Miss Maryann Wilds, Miss Doris Reid, Miss Gladys Emma Whitfield, Miss Theodora Hart, Mrs. Charles Moody and Mrs. James Standley, Jr.

A buffet supper in the home of Miss Nan Buckner with Mrs. John Ryan and Miss Marjorie Farmer co-hostesses brought a group of Miss Faulk's most intimate friends together.

Delicious viands were served from the flower-adorned buffet in the dining room.

Delighting the guest of honor was the novel manner employed by the hostesses to present the gifts of kitchen utensils. A papier-mache goose (the one that laid the golden egg) centered the buffet table. Gold ribbons attached to gold eggs concealing clues leading to the gifts stowed away in all sections of the house, were drawn by Miss Faulk.

BET ON LOVE

CHAPTER XIII

Sherry awoke with a start next morning. She sat up in bed, blinked her eyes. It was full daylight—must be at least 7 o'clock, and she should have been at the stable by 5.

She must get to the track—without delay. She swung her feet around to blue slippers waiting by the bedside. Then she jumped at the sound of sharp rapping on the door.

"Who's there?" she called, throwing a quilted robe about herself.

"It's Ted—me—I!"

"Come right in!"

The school teacher, fully dressed, was cheer itself. "The Major said you must be taking what he calls a nap of sleep—he's gone to the track. And I thought that—well, here, take it, Sherry."

She thrust a sheaf of bills into Sherry's hand. The latter looked at them, with widening eyes. Seven $100 bank notes. The robe dropped from Sherry's shoulders. She stepped forward impulsively, threw her arms around the teacher's angular frame.

"You're a honey—you're a sweetheart—but I can't take it—and I don't need it." She tried to force the money back into Ted's hand.

"Sherry, you've got to have money —I know it!"

"I don't have to have the money you've saved for your education!"

"Silly—I'm spending my leave of absence with you."

"Besides, I don't need it. I'm winning a race this afternoon—about $700 to the winner. Now you must take this money back."

Ted saw that Sherry meant it. She said: "I'll take it back on one condition—you promise me that if Pepper Boy doesn't win, you will take this loan."

"I promise—that if Pepper Boy doesn't win, I'll take the loan, and give you a piece of Pepper Boy to boot!" Sherry smiled.

Sherry was the first owner in the paddock that afternoon for the second race—the Derby trial, it was being called. Not a horse had been scratched; ten fast colts would fight it out, each inch of the mile and 70 yards. She wanted to see that every detail was perfect before her Pepper Boy went to the post.

Sam had taken the blanket off the colt, and Elijah was leading him around the ring, when Shep Grant strode up to Sherry, a worried look on his face. The rider was resplendent in his new silks—orange jacket, ebony cross sashes, sleeves and cap. He raised his hand in salute, said:

"Hello, Sherry. Since I own my mount, they let me out of the jockey room ahead of time—to supervise saddling. There's my bay, being led in, now."

"Yes," said Sherry, looking at Grant —not at his horse.

"Sherry, I know we're racing against each other—"

"I know it, too."

"But here's luck," Grant shifted his booted feet, "and may the best horse win."

"Doesn't the best horse always win?"

"Well—perhaps—look here, you're not mad?"

"Mad about what?"

"Why—er—about my riding against your horse?"

"My dear man, if you think that western nag of yours can beat my colt, why, go and do it!"

Deliberately she gave him her shoulder, said something to Sam on the other side of the stall.

Grant stood looking at her for a moment—then he strode off. As he went to number one stall he might have been heard talking to himself: "You've a lot to learn, young lady—a whole lot!"

The other jockeys came into the paddock when the saddling bell rang. Sherry said to Madden, as Sam was adjusting the leather to Pepper Boy's back:

"You know this colt, Madden—get him off smartly, make no mistakes, and win."

Madden nodded. He said: "Goin' to be a hoss-race, every foot of the way. That Castanets, the brown 'un, is speedy; and that Monitor—" Madden frowned, "he's the baby to watch. But I don't think so much of that gen'l'man steeplechase guy. This here's on the flat."

"That Mr. Grant you speaking of?"

The question was asked by Willie Bond, who had bustled up to the stall. "You'll be glad to hear this," he chuckled to Sherry, "Shep Grant's four pounds overweight. Couldn't pull it down. He rides at 124 pounds—against 120 pounds on the other entries."

"I told him he was a steeplechase rider," Sherry said. "What do you scale at, Madden?"

The little fellow grinned: "Not more'n 104—winter and summer. I made exact weight for this by my valet putin' 16 pounds o' lead in that lead-pad." He indicated a pad beneath Pepper Boy's saddle.

At that moment the bugle blew, calling the field to the post.

Willie Bond called up to Madden: "Odds against you are about six to one, lad—you're third choice. But bring him in first."

Madden nodded, and the colt filed out at the end of the line.

"Excuse me, my dear—business to attend to," Willie Bond said, and dashed off toward the grandstand.

"Well, I like that!" Sherry was saying to herself when a familiar voice spoke at her elbow:

It was Paul Wharton. Sherry had so much on her mind that she forgot to be distant. "Why, Paul—where've you been keeping yourself?" She was really glad to see him.

"Might ask you the same," he smiled. "Been busy—as you've been; but come on—they'll be at the post in a minute."

"See Shep's bought a nag, blossomed out as an owner-trainer-rider," Paul said, with a side-long glance at her.

"Yes," she smiled, but kept her eyes on the starting-gate. "He was nice enough to offer to ride Pepper Boy for me—but I had other plans."

A roar went up from watching thousands as the field leaped forward in a perfect start.

Pepper Boy, breaking from the extreme outside, was shooting ahead—Madden was trying to cut a long diagonal line across the field—trying to get to the rail at the head of the turn.

"But look there!" Wharton shouted again, "that Shep's not bad, is he? Watch him!" Shep Grant was hustling his bay, Monitor, to the front on the rail—he had blocked the fast-moving brown, Castanets, who had tried to take it.

Now, as they reached the first turn, the field was split into two divisions. Three horses in the first group: Shep Grant with Monitor on the rail; Farwell on Castanets next to him; and Madden running alongside on Pepper Boy. Seven horses were grouped behind.

"Too bad Madden couldn't get the rail. He's dropping back." So he was.

"The horse is in stride—Madden's giving him a breather," Sherry said.

"Maybe," Wharton muttered. "But I don't like the way Grant is taking that nag of his to the front—Boy!—He's a length ahead as they start down the back stretch."

"He's burning his colt up," said Sherry—and she hoped it was true.

"Maybe," Wharton muttered again. "I'm not crazy about Grant—you know it; but just the same he's a darn good judge of pace."

"He's four pounds overweight," Sherry said, as she noted that Pepper Boy was third—and running easily—at the half-mile.

"Is he?" Wharton looked at her a minute. "Then he's got an advantage over all the rest of you."

"How so?"

"All the other jockeys are very light boys—and their saddle-pads are filled with lead. That's dead weight—and mighty heavy. Shep is all live weight."

The boy was starting his run with Pepper Boy. He lifted his reins at the three-eighths pole, as they went into the far turn.

Sherry knew he was clucking to Pepper Boy—she saw her game little colt spring forward—Madden was shooting into a space between Castanets and the rail! Pepper Boy got the rail—was alongside Castanets—was drawing away from Castanets—was shooting at a space between Monitor and the rail, ahead.

"Not this time!" Wharton whistled. "Madden almost got in that opening—but Shep has an eye in the back of his head. See, he's drawn close to the rail himself."

So he had. But Madden was taking Pepper Boy out—now they were straightening down the home stretch: Monitor in front by a length—Pepper Boy second—and the brown, Castanets, coming up fast on Pepper Boy's flanks. Behind them thundered seven other horses—vainly trying to catch up.

The crowd was yelling and cheering. There'd been a last minute plunge on Monitor by the wise boys—and was Pepper Boy catching up with him?

"Gosh, but Grant can ride!" Wharton said it grudgingly. "He's holding that nag of his together well. You've got the best horse—but he's hanging—Madden can't move him up an inch, Sherry!"

"Now he's coming—in the last furlong!" Sherry yelled. Madden had lashed out with his bat. Pepper Boy leaped forward. His nose was now at Monitor's neck; but Castanets surged forward on the outside—even with Pepper Boy.

The three colts—so close together that a handkerchief could have almost covered them—swept down to the wire together. Now they were head and head, nose and nose—

They flashed under the wire.

BET ON LOVE

CHAPTER XIII

Sherry awoke with a start next morning. She sat up in bed, blinked her eyes. It was full daylight—must be at least 7 o'clock, and she should have been at the stable by 5.

She must get to the track—without delay. She swung her feet around to blue slippers waiting by the bedside. Then she jumped at the sound of sharp rapping on the door.

"Who's there?" she called, throwing a quilted robe about herself.

"It's Ted—me—I!"

"Come right in!"

The school teacher, fully dressed, was cheer itself. "The Major said you must be taking what he calls a nap of sleep—he's gone to the track. And I thought that—well, here, take it, Sherry."

She thrust a sheaf of bills into Sherry's hand. The latter looked at them, with widening eyes. Seven $100 bank notes. The robe dropped from Sherry's shoulders. She stepped forward impulsively, threw her arms around the teacher's angular frame.

"You're a honey—you're a sweetheart—but I can't take it—and I don't need it." She tried to force the money back into Ted's hand.

"Sherry, you've got to have money —I know it!"

"I don't have to have the money you've saved for your education!"

"Silly—I'm spending my leave of absence with you."

"Besides, I don't need it. I'm winning a race this afternoon—about $700 to the winner. Now you must take this money back."

Ted saw that Sherry meant it. She said: "I'll take it back on one condition—you promise me that if Pepper Boy doesn't win, you will take this loan."

"I promise—that if Pepper Boy doesn't win, I'll take the loan, and give you a piece of Pepper Boy to boot!" Sherry smiled.

Sherry was the first owner in the paddock that afternoon for the second race—the Derby trial, it was being called. Not a horse had been scratched; ten fast colts would fight it out, each inch of the mile and 70 yards. She wanted to see that every detail was perfect before her Pepper Boy went to the post.

Sam had taken the blanket off the colt, and Elijah was leading him around the ring, when Shep Grant strode up to Sherry, a worried look on his face. The rider was resplendent in his new silks—orange jacket, ebony cross sashes, sleeves and cap. He raised his hand in salute, said:

"Hello, Sherry. Since I own my mount, they let me out of the jockey room ahead of time—to supervise saddling. There's my bay, being led in, now."

"Yes," said Sherry, looking at Grant —not at his horse.

"Sherry, I know we're racing against each other—"

"I know it, too."

"But here's luck," Grant shifted his booted feet, "and may the best horse win."

"Doesn't the best horse always win?"

"Well—perhaps—look here, you're not mad?"

"Mad about what?"

"Why—er—about my riding against your horse?"

"My dear man, if you think that western nag of yours can beat my colt, why, go and do it!"

Deliberately she gave him her shoulder, said something to Sam on the other side of the stall.

Grant stood looking at her for a moment—then he strode off. As he went to number one stall he might have been heard talking to himself: "You've a lot to learn, young lady—a whole lot!"

The other jockeys came into the paddock when the saddling bell rang. Sherry said to Madden, as Sam was adjusting the leather to Pepper Boy's back:

"You know this colt, Madden—get him off smartly, make no mistakes, and win."

Madden nodded. He said: "Goin' to be a hoss-race, every foot of the way. That Castanets, the brown 'un, is speedy; and that Monitor—" Madden frowned, "he's the baby to watch. But I don't think so much of that gen'l'man steeplechase guy. This here's on the flat."

"That Mr. Grant you speaking of?"

The question was asked by Willie Bond, who had bustled up to the stall. "You'll be glad to hear this," he chuckled to Sherry, "Shep Grant's four pounds overweight. Couldn't pull it down. He rides at 124 pounds—against 120 pounds on the other entries."

"I told him he was a steeplechase rider," Sherry said. "What do you scale at, Madden?"

The little fellow grinned: "Not more'n 104—winter and summer. I made exact weight for this by my valet putin' 16 pounds o' lead in that lead-pad." He indicated a pad beneath Pepper Boy's saddle.

At that moment the bugle blew, calling the field to the post.

Willie Bond called up to Madden: "Odds against you are about six to one, lad—you're third choice. But bring him in first."

Madden nodded, and the colt filed out at the end of the line.

"Excuse me, my dear—business to attend to," Willie Bond said, and dashed off toward the grandstand.

"Well, I like that!" Sherry was saying to herself when a familiar voice spoke at her elbow:

It was Paul Wharton. Sherry had so much on her mind that she forgot to be distant. "Why, Paul—where've you been keeping yourself?" She was really glad to see him.

"Might ask you the same," he smiled. "Been busy—as you've been; but come on—they'll be at the post in a minute."

"See Shep's bought a nag, blossomed out as an owner-trainer-rider," Paul said, with a side-long glance at her.

"Yes," she smiled, but kept her eyes on the starting-gate. "He was nice enough to offer to ride Pepper Boy for me—but I had other plans."

A roar went up from watching thousands as the field leaped forward in a perfect start.

Pepper Boy, breaking from the extreme outside, was shooting ahead—Madden was trying to cut a long diagonal line across the field—trying to get to the rail at the head of the turn.

"But look there!" Wharton shouted again, "that Shep's not bad, is he? Watch him!" Shep Grant was hustling his bay, Monitor, to the front on the rail—he had blocked the fast-moving brown, Castanets, who had tried to take it.

Now, as they reached the first turn, the field was split into two divisions. Three horses in the first group: Shep Grant with Monitor on the rail; Farwell on Castanets next to him; and Madden running alongside on Pepper Boy. Seven horses were grouped behind.

"Too bad Madden couldn't get the rail. He's dropping back." So he was.

"The horse is in stride—Madden's giving him a breather," Sherry said.

"Maybe," Wharton muttered. "But I don't like the way Grant is taking that nag of his to the front—Boy!—He's a length ahead as they start down the back stretch."

"He's burning his colt up," said Sherry—and she hoped it was true.

"Maybe," Wharton muttered again. "I'm not crazy about Grant—you know it; but just the same he's a darn good judge of pace."

"He's four pounds overweight," Sherry said, as she noted that Pepper Boy was third—and running easily—at the half-mile.

"Is he?" Wharton looked at her a minute. "Then he's got an advantage over all the rest of you."

"How so?"

"All the other jockeys are very light boys—and their saddle-pads are filled with lead. That's dead weight—and mighty heavy. Shep is all live weight."

The boy was starting his run with Pepper Boy. He lifted his reins at the three-eighths pole, as they went into the far turn.

Sherry knew he was clucking to Pepper Boy—she saw her game little colt spring forward—Madden was shooting into a space between Castanets and the rail! Pepper Boy got the rail—was alongside Castanets—was drawing away from Castanets—was shooting at a space between Monitor and the rail, ahead.

"Not this time!" Wharton whistled. "Madden almost got in that opening—but Shep has an eye in the back of his head. See, he's drawn close to the rail himself."

So he had. But Madden was taking Pepper Boy out—now they were straightening down the home stretch: Monitor in front by a length—Pepper Boy second—and the brown, Castanets, coming up fast on Pepper Boy's flanks. Behind them thundered seven other horses—vainly trying to catch up.

The crowd was yelling and cheering. There'd been a last minute plunge on Monitor by the wise boys—and was Pepper Boy catching up with him?

"Gosh, but Grant can ride!" Wharton said it grudgingly. "He's holding that nag of his together well. You've got the best horse—but he's hanging—Madden can't move him up an inch, Sherry!"

"Now he's coming—in the last furlong!" Sherry yelled. Madden had lashed out with his bat. Pepper Boy leaped forward. His nose was now at Monitor's neck; but Castanets surged forward on the outside—even with Pepper Boy.

The three colts—so close together that a handkerchief could have almost covered them—swept down to the wire together. Now they were head and head, nose and nose—

They flashed under the wire.

STONE AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

It is said that some time ago an evangelist traveling on the cars was singing to himself the song, "I've Been Redeemed." A fellow-passenger, hearing, joined him in the song. After singing, the evangelist put the question to the stranger, "Have you been redeemed?" "Yes, praise the Lord," was the answer. "May I ask how long since?" "About nineteen hundred years ago." The astonished evangelist echoed in surprise, "Nineteen hundred years ago?" "Yes, sir," said the fellow-passenger, "but I'm sorry to say it's not much more than a year that I have known of it."

It is the work of the church, the Christian to make known to all the wonderfu truth, "Jesus came to seek and to save the lost."

Services of the day begin with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m. Mrs. J. E. Zufall was appointed leader of the meeting. "Radiating Religion" is the subject about which we will think at the morning worship period. God lives. God reigns. God is working out things according to His own will. This being true, His people are expected to show their colors and enrich people by their consistency of life and constancy of purpose. What a happy lot is that of His people, who really radiate faith!

"Our Glorious Privilege" is the theme of our evening message. And what is our one privilege? Will you worship with us that we may consider what it is?

The daily vacation Bible school is in progress. The attendance is satisfactory, and the impressions made are helpful. Friday is the closing day. The communion of the holy supper will be observed Friday morning. Are you a member of the Bible class of your choice? Your attendance will mean everything. A hearty welcome awaits you!

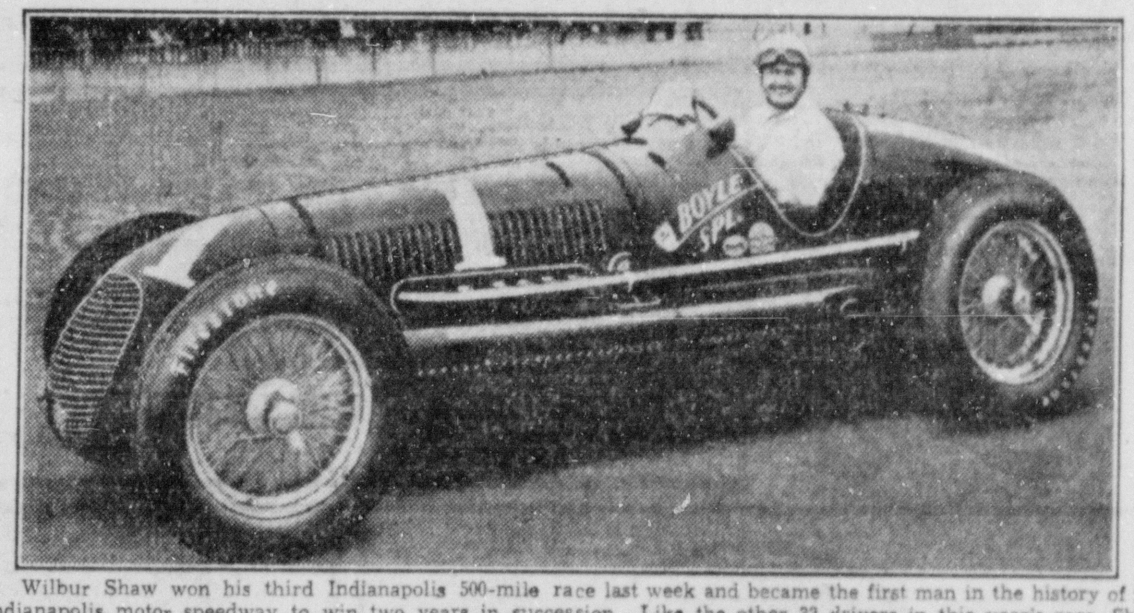
SHAW RECOMMENDS FIRESTONE TIRES



Wilbur Shaw won his third Indianapolis 500-mile race last week and became the first man in the history of the Indianapolis motor speedway to win two years in succession. Like the other 32 drivers in this year's race, Shaw rode on Firestone tires and when he flashed across the finish line at the end of the 500-mile grind it marked the twenty-first consecutive victory for Firestone.

Cornett-Banister Rids All Termites

Termite control has been so thoroughly demonstrated by the Antimite system used by Cornett-Banister, 220 Bernhardt building, that their contracts which have been in effect for several years are being renewed.

The Antimite system of termite control is built along good, sound engineering principals.

Antimite is especially adapted to soil treatment. This is one of the most effective means of controlling termites because, as you have learned, termites live in the ground, and not in the wood.

Antimite "makes termites exterminate termites." Cornett-Banister use only trustworthy and experienced operators to apply the Antimite system.

G. C. Cornett and Roy H. Banister are the owners of this termite control company and they especially invite you to call them at telephone number 5594 for a free inspection.

Wilbur Shaw's Third Victory

AKRON, O., June 15.—When Wilbur Shaw carved another niche for himself in racing's hall of fame by hanging up his third victory in the Indianapolis 500-mile race last week, it was a triumph of far-reaching importance not only for the intrepid driver, but for engineering research as well. While he tied Lou Meyer's record of three wins in this great speed classic, Shaw achieved even greater distinction by becoming the first man to win two Indianapolis races in succession. It was the 21st consecutive year in which the winner rode across the finish line on Firestone tires.

Every car in this year's race was equipped with Firestone champion tires. The three foreign drivers, Rene Dreyfus and Rene LeBegue of France, and Paul Riganti of Buenos Aires, came to Indianapolis with foreign equipment, but changed to Firestone upon the advice of American drivers, and after having given the American product rigid tests in actual practice runs on the track. Despite the fact that the pace was fast enough to establish a new track record at the 300 and 350-mile marks, there was no semblance of tire trouble on any one of the 33 cars entered in the race.

Up until the 375th mile when rain made it necessary for the officials to hang out the yellow caution flags the race had been a three-cornered fight with Shaw, Rex Mays and Mauri Rose battling for the lead. Although Shaw was out in front most of the time, both Mays, who finished second, and Rose, who finished third, wrested the lead from him at times.

The information obtained since Firestone won the first of its long string of victories at Indianapolis 21 years ago has been utilized by Firestone in designing and constructing a better and safer tire for the average car owner.

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty." (Ps. 91:1).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "To those leaning on the sustaining infinite, today is big with blessings." (Pref. [illegible]).

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

West Monroe, La.

We are looking for a great congregation for both the Sunday school and the church services for today. The pastor returned from a successful revival meeting held in Farmerville and will be in the pulpit today. Let us forget that outmoded saying that there is of necessity a summer slump coming in our church work and attendance. We must work to keep up the great progress we have made and go on to greater accomplishments. The 11 a.m. services will be a special service in honor of the very newest circle of the Woman's Missionary society, circle No. 5 organized near the Brown Paper mill with a large number of fine women who are at work doing fine things for the cause of Christ and the church. The Sunday school meets at 9:45 a.m. and with the preaching services at 11:00 a.m. and at 7:45 p.m. Special music at every service under the direction of Mr. [illegible] James. Let all our people [illegible] know that there is an [illegible] responsibility for the [illegible] of the church. A large number of young people throughout the Monroe district attended the union meeting at Gordon avenue last Thursday evening. Howell of New Orleans has consented to conduct this meeting for us. We urge all the members and cordially invite all our friends to come and worship with us today. The pastor will hold services at Claiborne at 7:30 this evening.

STONE AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
L. L. Yeager, Pastor

It is said that some time ago an evangelist traveling on the cars was singing to himself the song "I've Been Redeemed." A fellow-passenger heard, joined him in the song. After singing, the evangelist put the question to the stranger: "Have you been redeemed?" "Yes, praise the Lord," was the answer. "May I ask how long?" "About nineteen hundred years ago." The astonished evangelist echoed in surprise, "Nineteen hundred years ago?" "Yes," said the [illegible] passenger, "but I'm sorry to say I [illegible] it only [illegible] years ago."

It is the work of the church [illegible] Christian to make known to all the wonderful truth: Jesus came to seek and to save the lost.

Services of the day begin with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m. Mrs. J. F. [illegible] [illegible] leader of the evening. Evening service at 7:45. Evangelist [illegible] will bring the messages of the day. The evening service will close the revival that has been in progress for some days. It is believed that much and lasting good has been accomplished during the revival. Many souls have made decisions toward better living. An invitation is extended to the public to worship with us today. Circle meetings Tuesday afternoon as usual. Prayer service Wednesday evening at 7:45.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

"Radiating Religion" is the subject about which we will think at the morning worship period. God lives. God reigns. God is working out things according to His own will. This being true, His people are expected to show their colors and enrich people by the consistency of life and constancy of purpose. What a happy lot is that of His people, who really radiate faith.

"Our Glorious Privilege" is the theme of our evening message. And what is our one privilege? Will you worship with us that we may consider what it is?

The daily vacation Bible school is in progress. The attendance is satisfactory, and the impressions made are helpful. Friday is the closing day. The communion of the holy supper will be observed Friday morning. Are you a member of the Bible class of your church? Your attendance will mean everything. A hearty welcome awaits you.

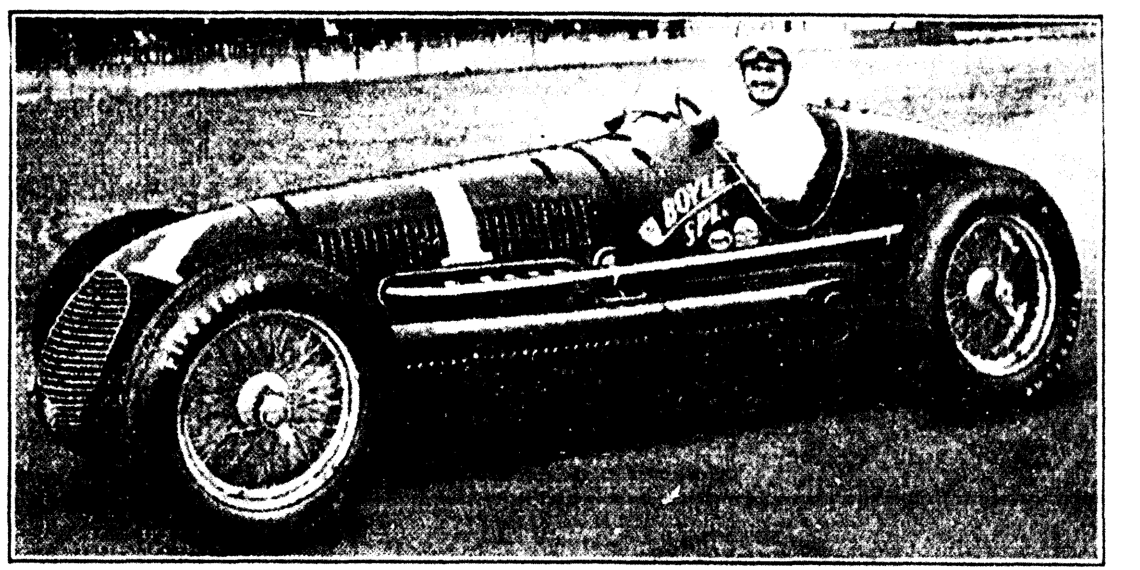
SHAW RECOMMENDS FIRESTONE TIRES



Wilbur Shaw won his third Indianapolis 500-mile race last week and became the first man in the history of the Indianapolis motor speedway to win two years in succession. Like the other 32 drivers in this year's race, Shaw rode on Firestone tires and when he flashed across the finish line at the end of the 500-mile grind it marked the twenty-first consecutive victory for Firestone.

Cornett-Banister Rids All Termites

Termite control has been so thoroughly demonstrated by the Antimite system used by Cornett-Banister, 220 Bernhardt building, that their contracts which have been in effect for several years are being renewed.

The Antimite system of termite control is built along good, sound engineering principals.

Antimite is especially adapted to soil treatment. This is one of the most effective means of controlling termites because, as you have learned, termites live in the ground, and not in the wood.

Antimite "makes termites exterminate termites." Cornett-Banister use only trustworthy and experienced operators to apply the Antimite system.

Antimite is a scientific formula developed over twenty years ago in one of the largest laboratories in the world. The Antimite "termite proofing contract and guaranty" plan offers you continued inspections and service.

G. C. Cornett and Roy H. Banister are the owners of this termite control company and they especially invite you to call them at telephone number 5594 for a free inspection.

Wilbur Shaw's Third Victory

AKRON, O., June 15.—When Wilbur Shaw carved another niche for himself in racing's hall of fame by hanging up his third victory in the Indianapolis 500-mile race last week, it was a triumph of far-reaching importance not only for the intrepid driver, but for engineering research as well. While he tied Lou Meyer's record of three wins in this great speed classic, Shaw achieved even greater distinction by becoming the first man to win two Indianapolis races in succession. It was the 21st consecutive year in which the winner rode across the finish line on Firestone tires.

Every car in this year's race was equipped with Firestone champion tires. The three foreign drivers, Rene Dreyfus and Rene LeBegue of France, and Paul Riganti of Buenos Aires, came to Indianapolis with foreign equipment, but changed to Firestone upon the advice of American drivers, and after having given the American product rigid tests in actual practice runs on the track. Despite the fact that the pace was fast enough to establish a new track record at the 300 and 350-mile marks, there was no semblance of tire trouble on any one of the 33 cars entered in the race.

Up until the 375th mile when rain made it necessary for the officials to hang out the yellow caution flags the race had been a three-cornered fight with Shaw, Rex Mays and Mauri Rose battling for the lead. Although Shaw was out in front most of the time, both Mays, who finished second, and Rose, who finished third, wrested the lead from him at times.

The information obtained since Firestone won the first of its long string of victories at Indianapolis 21 years ago has been utilized by Firestone in designing and constructing a better and safer tire for the average car owner.

'My Son, My Son!' Begins Run At Paramount Today

Carroll And Aherne Star In Drama

Howard Spring's Best-Selling Novel Brought To Life In Film

HOWARD SPRING'S best-selling novel, "My Son, My son!" which thrilled a million readers, and starring Madeleine Carroll, Brian Aherne and Louis Hayward, comes to the Paramount theater screen today and will be continued through Monday and Tuesday.

The stirring story is accompanied by a song of the same name, written by L. Wolfe Gilbert and Lew Pollack.

The stars, whose names are known to the millions of movie fans, head a cast of superlative players including Josephine Hutchinson, Sophie Stewart, Laraine Day and Henry Hull.

The story of "My Son, My Son!" revolves around the dreams of two men who are life-long friends. The novelist, William Essex, played by Brian Aherne, and the furniture designer Dermot O'Riorden, played by Henry Hull, get married while they are still poor and unknown. When each has a son, they make their plans for their children. Essex plans a glorious future for his son. O'Riorden, an enthusiastic Irish patriot, looks forward to the day when his son will return to Ireland.

How these plans are carried through amid changing times and unexpected drama, carries the story of "My Son, My Son!" through many exciting scenes.

Lovely Madeleine Carroll, star of innumerable Hollywood hits, plays the role of Livia Vaynol in Edward Small's production of Spring's masterpiece.

Due to the fact that the story of "My Son, My Son!" travels through several cities and country sections of England and covers a period of more than 25 years, Mr. Small called in John Ducasse Schulze, his noted art director, and explained that England would have to be brought to Hollywood. Schulze, in turn, put a corps of research workers to work to preserve the accuracy of every little detail of set construction and decoration. The result is that audiences will see the cast performing in settings that are minutely patterned after the places which actually exist in England.

Boards bearing the new names were nailed over the old signs by unknown persons at night. Unmarked Mussolini street was not renamed.

NEW CHURCH BUILDING TO BE COMPLETED SOON

Steady progress has been made on the new Church of Christ building and its completion is expected in the next two weeks, according to the local minister, Rev. J. P. Lowery. He will preach the first sermon in the new building July 7, which will start a series of meeting. J. M. Powell, Athens, Ga., will conduct the meeting. The new building is located at Texas and Jackson streets.

The building is of brick veneer and is 44 by 110 feet with fronting on Jackson street. The auditorium will seat approximately 500 people, with a basement under the full length of the building, which will be partitioned off into classrooms.

John Loder and Isa Miranda share a moment of tenderness in this scene from "Adventure In Diamonds," starring George Brent and playing Tuesday only at the Capitol theater. It's a story of high adventure with a band of jewel thieves who keep the police of two continents on the jump.

Inventor Is Portrayed By Youth

Mickey Rooney Starred As Famous American In Screen Epic

THE amazing young leading juvenile star, Mickey Rooney, cowlick and all, aided by a carefully picked cast of widely known Hollywood talent, will bring to the Capitol today and Monday the exciting story of "Young Tom Edison."

Rooney has been credited for his part in the film as being exactly like Edison as a boy. This was brought out by Francis Jehl, the only living man who saw Edison produce his electric light.

Mickey is supported by a stellar cast including Fay Bainter as Mrs. Samuel Edison, George Bancroft as Samuel Edison, Virginia Weidler as Tannie Edison, Eugene Pallette as Mr. Nelson and Victor Killian as Mr. Dingle.

The story revolves about the early life of America's great inventor. No one in the little town of Port Huron, Mich., in the year 1860 understood young Tom Edison, played by Rooney. Even Tom's school teacher thinks Tim is "addled" and so many boys analyze the boy's escapades as proof of this fact that Samuel Edison, the father, begins to think that this is true.

But Tom is understood by his mother, Nancy Edison, and is well understood by his sister, Tannie, to whom anything Tom does is perfect, for she idolizes her brother.

The Edison family runs through a period of financial troubles while Tom's inventions are adding to the worries. Among the episodes is one in which Tom, sent to the cloakroom by his teacher, tries to see what a mixture of hydochleric acid and ammonia will do. The smoke created causes a fire alarm. The boy is kicked out of school.

But later Tom becomes a hero. And also a news butcher. The story keeps up a steady pace of thrills and laughs for the audience.

The film was brought to the screen by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, was directed by Norman Taurog and produced by John W. Considine, Jr.

MANY OPENINGS IN ARMY SERVICE

Local Recruiting Agent Looking For Engineers And Infantrymen

Openings for 42nd Engineers and 8th Infantry, with station at Fort Benning, Ga., are available in unlimited numbers, Sergeant Harold B. McNemar, local army recruiting agent, located in room 306 of the postoffice announced Saturday.

For the young man who wishes to succeed and go somewhere in life, no better choice for advancement is offered than in the corps of engineers, the sergeant said. The engineers are, of course, soldiers, and their major role, both in peace and war is technical, and they move with the military units with which they serve. The technical duties of army engineers are primarily the same of those in civil life. The engineers build roads, bridges, railways, install electric units, erect buildings, make maps of highways and subdivisions. The army maintains a permanent corps of engineers, specially trained in all fields of engineering.

Enlisted specialists are trained at the engineer school at Fort Belvoir, Va. There are also numerous posts, regimental, and battalion schools. For the training of specialists in certain technical work other than strictly engineering, specially selected men of outstanding ability are sent to schools maintained by other branches, such as the cooks and bakers school of the quartermaster corps, the Signal crpos school, the horseshoer's school and the saddler's school. Practically every engineer company requires the following types of specialists:

In addition other units such as headquarters and service companies have the following specialists:

Bandsmen, stationery engineers, instrument repairmen, lithographers, mimeograph operators, telephone switchboard operators, photographers, power linesman, painters, sign painters, storekeepers, recorders, rodmen and structural iron workers.

The ambitious young man who wants to become proficient in some skilled trade will find ample opportunity to do so in this branch of the service, Sergeant McNemar stated. The opportunities afforded enlisted men in the engineer corps for advancement and increases in pay are notably encouraging. Approximately three out of seven soldiers of this arm hold ranks higher than that of private.

A large number of specialists ratings are also assigned to the engineers. Approximately half of these ratings are given to men holding the grade of private. It is a fact that young men find the training received at these schools in the corps of engineers of great value to them later in civilian life in securing positions in the field of civil engineering, he declared.

"Action is the magnet that attracts so many hundreds of young Americans to the infantry," the sergeant pointed out. In this branch of the service the young recruit must possess the best of physical health and stamina. Although the infantry still marches on foot, motorization has materially decreased the burden of old-fashioned hikes. The motor-minded youth will find a niche in any infantry regiment, and is certain of appreciative treatment and promotion as any clerk, cook, carpenter, bandsman or other of the hundred-and-one classes of craftsmen wearing the blue hatcord.

"Weapons of the infantry are rifle, machine gun, one-pounder, trench mortar, automatic rifle and the automatic pistol. The principal arm of the infantry is the rifle, a smooth working weapon of remarkable accuracy, and with the adoption of the new semi-automatic rifle, of concentrated fire power. No effort is spared to make every recruit a crack shot, and he is constantly helped toward this goal, with practical aid and friendly assistance. Once each year, usually during the summer months, every rifleman fires for record on the target range."

Applicants for these openings must be between the ages of 18 and 35, single, with no dependents, in sound physical condition, able to pass the required mental and physical examinations, and of good moral character as evidenced by written testimonials of reputable citizens from their respective communities. Aplicants under 21 must have the written consent of their parents or guardians.

AVERS GERMANS HAVE BOMBSIGHT

Senator Bridges Says He Heard Nazis Have U. S. 'Secret'

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—Senator Bridges, Republican, New Hampshire, told the senate today that President Roosevelt and congress should investigate a report that Germany had acquired the secret American airplane bombsight.

"If this is true, then someone could be accused of treason or fifth column activities," Bridges said.

"In committee of the senate, in the press, and everywhere I have heard that this bombsight is the one thing we boasted to the world we were superior with," Bridges said. "If the Germans have acquired it, it's a dastardly, very serious thing."

Senator Hill, Democrat, Alabama, asked Bridges the source of his information. Bridges replied that a national radio commentator had told of the German use of the instrument.

Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, told the New Hampshire senator he had listened to the same radio report and gained the impression that Germany had perfected a similar or identical bombsight.

Tiny, Streamlined Blonde Gets Breaks In Her Career

Starts For One Place, Invariably Winds Up In Another

By Mark Barron

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Muriel Angelus is a petite, streamlined blonde who, since she was 12 years old, has constantly been starting for some definite destination. And invariably she went, as she is doing again today, to some place else that proved more fortunate for her career.

"I lost the first job I ever went after and then got a better one because I did lose the first one," she relates. "When I was 12 years old, having studied ballet, I went for a job in a London musical show.

"After being turned down I was walking along with tears in my eyes. A man bumped into me and knocked my dancing slippers out of my arms. Saying almost nothing he led me to another theater where Fokine, the Russian ballet master, cast me in his production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream.'

"Once when I was playing in London I was signed to make a silent picture in Berlin, although I didn't speak a word of German. I wasn't perturbed about that because I knew some of the German stars in the same picture spoke English. But, when I arrived in Berlin I was transferred to another picture, on the set of which there wasn't a single person who spoke English. I had to take my direction by pantomime and improvise my own performance. It won me critical praise and also cured me of stage fright."

Returning to this country, she went to Vinton Freedley, Broadway musical show producer. Freedley had heard about her performance in the London stage production of "Balalaika." So he cabled her to sail for Broadway. On arriving here she found that Freedley had postponed his show indefinitely. She went job-hunting while awaiting a ship back to London.

"Fortunately they were just casting the musical, 'The Boys From Syracuse,' and I was given a part in that hit," she said. "That's where movie scouts saw me and started me for Hollywood."

In Hollywood she played opposite Ronald Colman in "The Light That Failed" and a half-dozen others, including her latest role in "Down Went McGinty," in fast succeeding order.

After those she decided to fly east to change over from her musical comedy accomplishments to become a serious dramatic actress, a role in a new Broadway play having been set for her.

But, just as she arrived in New York she found a telegram summoning her back to Hollywood for another new picture. So the Broadway stage role must wait in line, a very nice line in which to wait when you consider her blue eyes and ash blonde hair.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR LECHE TRIAL

Former Governor To Be Tried In Ruston On Confidence Charge

RUSTON, La., June 15.—(Special)—Preliminary preparations are virtually completed here for the beginning of the trial of former Governor Richard W. Leche on Monday morning, June 24, in the third judicial district court at Ruston. Leche is charged here with alleged complicity in operation a confidence game, a charge resulting from reported financial irregularities in the construction of Louisiana Tech's administration building, which was occupied in the spring of 1937. The sum specified in the confidence game indictment returned by the Lincoln parish grand jury last September is $27,000.

Although declining at this time to make public the names of the number of witnesses summoned by the state in the Leche case, District Attorney Truett L. Scarborough said that most of the subpoenas had been issued. Attorney C. E. Barham of Ruston, co-counsel representing the former governor, said he would finish the summoning of defense witnesses probably by Tuesday of the coming week. The parish jury commission several days ago drew a panel of 30 petit jurors from whom the five-man trial jury will be selected.

District Judge E. L. Walker stated that there is "no new angle" to the preliminary procedure but added that, because of the wide-spread interest in the trial, negroes would be barred from the courtroom to provide more space for white people.

The district attorney here last month accepted a motion of severance of Leche from four others named in the confidence game indictment. Those four, who have not been formally arraigned and consequently whose trial dates have not yet been set, are Leon C. Weiss, F. Julius Dreyfous and Solis Seiferth, New Orleans, members of the architectural firm that furnished plans for the Tech building and Monte E. Hart of New Orleans, member of the contracting company of Caldwell Brothers and Hart, which erected the college hall.

Hart and Weiss a few months ago at Shreveport were indicted by a federal grand jury for allegedly using the mails to defraud in connection with the Tech building but no bill was returned there against Leche and the other two indicted on state charges at Ruston.

The bill of indictment under which Leche is to be tried here charged that Weiss, Dreyfous, Seiferth, Hart and Leche obtained from the state, the state board of education and Louisiana Tech "wilfully, feloniously, maliciously and unlawfully" the sum of $27,000 "by means of and use of the confidence game." The indictment declared further that Judge H. H. White of Alexandria, president of the state board of education "relied upon and placed his faith and trust in the said architects and believed they were honest and true to their trust and would protect the interests that they were paid to protect and not having records available for checking the bids (White) signed said contract for said building on behalf of the Louisiana state board of education with the bid figure, unknown to him, raised $27,000."

After an investigation last September the parish grand jury reported that the original "valid contract bid" for erecting the Tech building had been raised from $264,482.13 to $291,482.13, or the added sum of $27,000.

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Muriel Angelus is a petite, streamlined blonde who, since she was 12 years old, has constantly been starting for some definite destination. And invariably she went, as she is doing again today, to some place else that proved more fortunate for her career.

"I lost the first job I ever went after and then got a better one because I did lose the first one," she relates. "When I was 12 years old, having studied ballet, I went for a job in a London musical show.

"After being turned down I was walking along with tears in my eyes. A man bumped into me and knocked my dancing slippers out of my arms. Saying almost nothing he led me to another theater where Fokine, the Russian ballet master, cast me in his production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream.'

"Once when I was playing in London I was signed to make a silent picture in Berlin, although I didn't speak a word of German. I wasn't perturbed about that because I knew some of the German stars in the same picture spoke English. But, when I arrived in Berlin I was transferred to another picture, on the set of which there wasn't a single person who spoke English. I had to take my direction by pantomime and improvise my own performance. It won me critical praise and also cured me of stage fright."

Returning to this country, she went to Vinton Freedley, Broadway musical show producer. Freedley had heard about her performance in the London stage production of "Balalaika." So he cabled her to sail for Broadway. On arriving here she found that Freedley had postponed his show indefinitely. She went job-hunting while awaiting a ship back to London.

"Fortunately they were just casting the musical, 'The Boys From Syracuse,' and I was given a part in that hit," she said. "That's where movie scouts saw me and started me for Hollywood."

In Hollywood she played opposite Ronald Colman in "The Light That Failed" and a half-dozen others, including her latest role in "Down Went McGinty," in fast succeeding order.

After those she decided to fly east to change over from her musical comedy accomplishments to become a serious dramatic actress, a role in a new Broadway play having been set for her.

But, just as she arrived in New York she found a telegram summoning her back to Hollywood for another new picture. So the Broadway stage role must wait in line, a very nice line in which to wait when you consider her blue eyes and ash blonde hair.

WALKER BEGINS CAMPAIGN FOR APPEAL COURT POST

RUSTON, La., June 15.—(Special)—District Judge E. L. Walker, candidate for judge of the second court of appeal, has visited several north Louisiana towns the last few days in the interest of his candidacy. The election will be held on September 10 for a 12-year term beginning January 1, 1942. The second circut includes 10 parishes.

A native of Jackson parish, Judge Walker was elected clerk of court of that parish in 1916 and was chosen as a delegate from that parish to the state constitutional convention held in Baton Rouge in 1921.

Moving to Ruston in 1923, he was elected as the first judge of the Ruston city court in 1928, judge of the third judicial district in 1930 and reelected as district judge without opposition in 1936.

Judge Walker is a graduate of Louisiana Tech and a past president of the college alumni association. He is also a past president of the Ruston Kiwanis club and has been a leader in Boy Scout activities in north Louisiana for many years.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR LECHE TRIAL

Former Governor To Be Tried In Ruston On Confidence Charge

RUSTON, La., June 15.—(Special)—Preliminary preparations are virtually completed here for the beginning of the trial of former Governor Richard W. Leche on Monday morning, June 24, in the third judicial district court at Ruston. Leche is charged here with alleged complicity in operation a confidence game, a charge resulting from reported financial irregularities in the construction of Louisiana Tech's administration building, which was occupied in the spring of 1937. The sum specified in the confidence game indictment returned by the Lincoln parish grand jury last September is $27,000.

Although declining at this time to make public the names of the number of witnesses summoned by the state in the Leche case, District Attorney Truett L. Scarborough said that most of the subpoenas had been issued. Attorney C. E. Barham of Ruston, co-counsel representing the former governor, said he would finish the summoning of defense witnesses probably by Tuesday of the coming week. The parish jury commission several days ago drew a panel of 30 petit jurors from whom the five-man trial jury will be selected.

District Judge E. L. Walker stated that there is "no new angle" to the preliminary procedure but added that, because of the wide-spread interest in the trial, negroes would be barred from the courtroom to provide more space for white people.

The district attorney here last month accepted a motion of severance of Leche from four others named in the confidence game indictment. Those four, who have not been formally arraigned and consequently whose trial dates have not yet been set, are Leon C. Weiss, F. Julius Dreyfous and Solis Seiferth, New Orleans, members of the architectural firm that furnished plans for the Tech building and Monte E. Hart of New Orleans, member of the contracting company of Caldwell Brothers and Hart, which erected the college hall.

Hart and Weiss a few months ago at Shreveport were indicted by a federal grand jury for allegedly using the mails to defraud in connection with the Tech building but no bill was returned there against Leche and the other two indicted on state charges at Ruston.

The bill of indictment under which Leche is to be tried here charged that Weiss, Dreyfous, Seiferth, Hart and Leche obtained from the state, the state board of education and Louisiana Tech "wilfully, feloniously, maliciously and unlawfully" the sum of $27,000 "by means of and use of the confidence game." The indictment declared further that Judge H. H. White of Alexandria, president of the state board of education "relied upon and placed his faith and trust in the said architects and believed they were honest and true to their trust and would protect the interests that they were paid to protect and not having records available for checking the bids (White) signed said contract for said building on behalf of the Louisiana state board of education with the bid figure, unknown to him, raised $27,000."

After an investigation last September the parish grand jury reported that the original "valid contract bid" for erecting the Tech building had been raised from $264,482.13 to $291,482.13, or the added sum of $27,000.

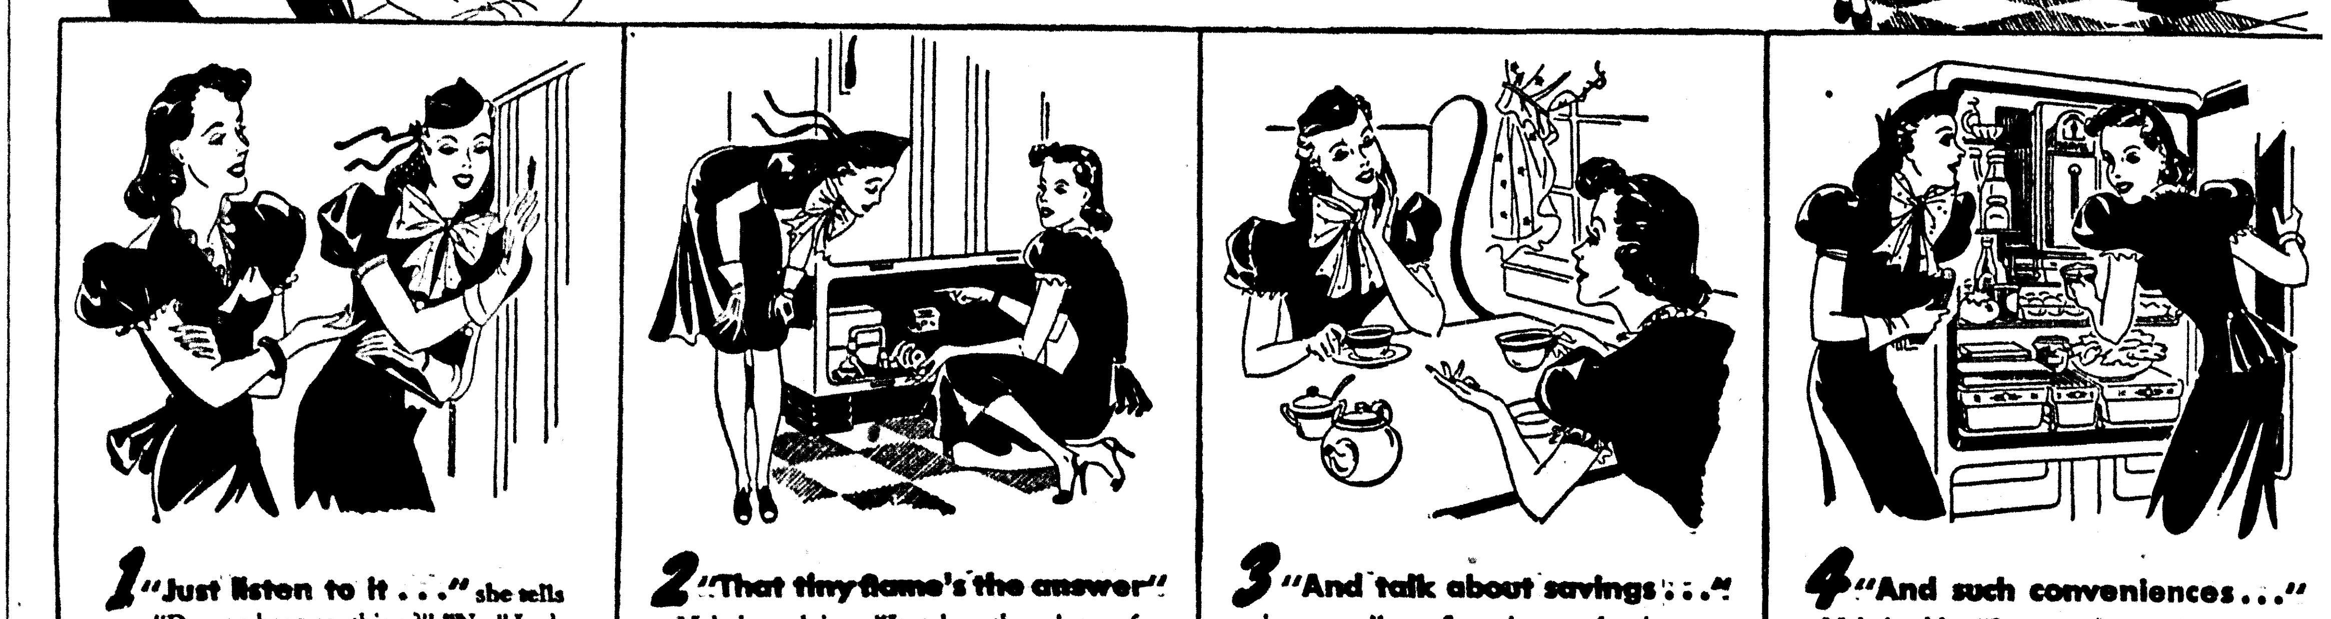
What, you too, Mabel?..

You're the third girl I've met who's replaced her old refrigerator with the one that freezes with NO MOVING PARTS! Is Servel Electrolux really so different?



1 "Just listen to it . . ." she tells me. "Do you hear anything?" "No," I admit, putting my ear up close. "But doesn't Servel ever make a noise?" "It can't make a noise," she says; "it has to be silent as long as you have it!"

2 "That tiny flame's the answer!" Mabel explains. "It takes the place of moving parts. There's nothing in the freezing system of Servel Electrolux to cause noise, nothing moving in there to wear, either. Isn't that a relief?"

3 "And talk about savings . . ." she says, "our Servel runs for just a few cents a day. Friends who've had theirs for ten years say they still operate for as little as they did when they were first installed in their homes, too!"

4 "And such conveniences . . ." Mabel adds. "I never dreamed of anything like Servel Electrolux. It has just everything! I ask you . . . what woman wouldn't pick it for her second refrigerator—or her first? Aren't you going to?"

5 "Take a tip from our experience!" say thousands who've tried other kinds and changed to Servel. And every year, more and more people are taking their advice . . . joining the more than 1,500,000 who already enjoy gas refrigeration. For they all want the operating advantages only the gas refrigerator can offer. Permanent silence . . . continued low operating cost . . . carefree service . . . greater savings! Whether you're about to buy your first—or replace your present one . . . it'll pay you to learn all there is to know about "the refrigerator you hear about, but never hear"—Servel Electrolux, the gas refrigerator!
